P
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE
THE CLASS OF 1879

REPORT VII, 1905

LIBRARY
MAR 14 1938

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

http://www.archive.org/details/n7secretarysre1879harvuoft

THE CLASS OF 1879

"And so we pass our quarter post, and press on toward the next one, —
Good wind, good speed, good heart; I trust, good prospect to win out.
Life grows more simple, since the years to questions that perplexed one
Have brought an answer or have shown that we can do without.
We feel more philosophic and more kindly to each fellow, —
The generous wine of seventy-nine with age is growing mellow."

From the verses read by W. B. Hill at the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Dinner.

THE CLASS

P
Univ
H

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

THE CLASS OF 1879

OF HARVARD COLLEGE

1900-05

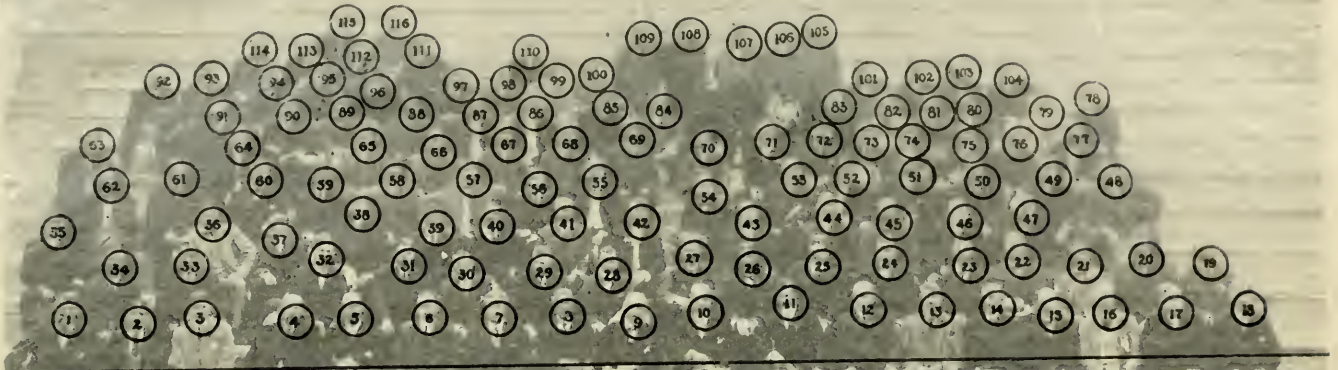
PRINTED FOR THE CLASS

RIVERSIDE PRESS

CAMBRIDGE

1905

88
4. 38.



1 Charles O. Brewster
2 Charles C. Burlingham
3 Dr. Francis G. Curtis
4 Harlan P. Amen
5 Prof. F. W. Taussig
6 A. Duane Hopkins
7 C. Lawrence Perkins
8 Waldron Bates
9 George R. Sheldon
10 I. Tucker Burr, Jr.
11 George von L. Meyer
12 Rev. Samuel Snelling
13 Samuel H. Hoppin
14 Wilmot T. Cox
15 Charles A. Kidder
16 Francis McLennan
17 Samuel Hill
18 Joseph T. Gilbert
19 Prof. John E. Wolff
20 George H. Earle, Jr.
21 Earl B. Putnam
22 Edgar C. Felton
23 Francis Almy
24 Prescott Keyes
25 Dr. F. E. Chandler
26 Dr. A. P. Mason
27 E. D. Sibley
28 Marion Story
29 Capt. F. H. Stone
30 Walter D. Denegre
31 Rev. Wm. DeW. Hyde
32 Dr. F. W. Anthony
33 Woodward Hudson
34 Jabish Holmes, Jr.
35 Rev. R. T. Wilton
36 Thomas Russell
37 Walter Cary
38 Francis B. Patten
39 Henry O. Underwood
40 Jireh Swift, Jr.
41 Dr. F. M. Briggs
42 James E. Thomas
43 William E. Hutchins
44 Dr. J. S. Mitchell
45 Dr. A. C. Aldrich
46 Harry Butler
47 Rev. Edward Hale
48 Francis W. Adams
49 Francis De M. Dunn
50 Rev. C. E. St. John
51 Joseph G. Thorp
52 Judge H. A. Shute
53 Frederick H. Temple
54 Dr. H. W. Newhall
55 Charles S. Crosman
56 Henry Bally
57 M. Grant Edmands
58 Larkin T. Trull
59 Frank L. Crawford
60 Louis B. Harding
61 William I Monroe
62 George A. Black
63 Richard Heard
64 Chas. N. Osgood
65 John A. Thayer
66 Rev. A. A. Brooks
67 Edward H. Atherton
68 George Faunce
69 George D. Ayers
70 John H. Willard
71 Washington B. Thomas
72 Charles H. Whiting
73 Herman W. Grannis
74 John T. Coolidge, Jr.
75 William B. Van Rensselaer
76 William L. Watson
77 Dr. C. W. Galloupe
78 Henry C. Mulligan
79 Dr. J. G. Morris
80 James A. Wright
81 John E. Cowdin
82 Dr. F. C. Martin
83 Middleton S. Burrill
84 Dr. A. H. Hodgdon
85 John A. Brown
86 Rev. E. L. Houghton
87 Charles H. Blood
88 Rev. W. B. Hill
89 Ralph W. Ellis
90 Thomas J. Homer
91 Dr. W. M. Conant
92 Howard K. Brown
93 George W. Jackson
94 John L. Nichols
95 George Hoadly
96 George C. Hodges
97 Clifford Brigham
98 Clement W. Andrews
99 Charles S. Hanks
100 William B. de las Casas
101 Horace C. Alger
102 Dr. Joseph P. Cobb
103 Amos Binney
104 Hiram H. Rose
105 William H. Schwartz
106 Alvah Crocker
107 Stewart Shillito
108 Nat. M. Brigham
109 Frederick W. Smith
110 Dr. J. A. Gage
111 George S. Motley
112 Robert P. Clapp
113 William B. Lawrence
114 Francis A. Houston
115 Dr. Samuel Delano
116 Dr. Wallace Preble

P
Univ
H

Secretary's report

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

OF

THE CLASS OF 1879

OF

HARVARD COLLEGE

1900–1905

20 7

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS

349.88
6. 4. 38.

BOSTON
T. W. RIPLEY COMPANY
THE SOUTHGATE PRESS
1905

H

CLASS COMMITTEE

THOMAS WEBB PRESTON
FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE
ISAAC TUCKER BURR
JAMES ANDERSON WRIGHT
JOSEPH GILBERT THORP

EDWARD HALE, Class Secretary

CONTENTS

	PAGE
PREFACE	9
REPORT OF THE TREASURER	11
MEMBERS OF THE CLASS	13
BIOGRAPHIES OF MEMBERS	21
BIOGRAPHIES OF MEMBERS DURING A PART OF THE COURSE ONLY	121
MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS	139
DEATHS	150
OCCUPATIONS	151
GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION	153
PUBLICATIONS BY MEMBERS OF THE CLASS	157
CLASS MEETINGS: The Wayside Inn, April 15, 1905; Commencement Week, 1905	160
ADDRESSES	163

PREFACE

To the Class of 1879:

AT the annual meeting of the Association of Harvard College Class Secretaries in 1904 Mr. William R. Thayer, '81, Editor of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine, called attention to the desirability of more uniformity in the making of class reports, and a committee of the Association was appointed to consider and report on the subject. This committee made a report February 9, 1905, in which various recommendations were offered in regard to the size, arrangement, typography and binding of reports. With many of these recommendations Almy's previous reports of our Class were already in line, and most of the others I have followed in preparing this report. One important suggestion, however, that "date and place of birth, and parentage, should come after the name, followed by a brief biography which can be added to in each report," I have been unable to follow, chiefly because I had not the time needed to collect and rearrange material; but I hope that this suggestion may be followed in the next report.

Since the last report was issued four members of the Class have died, Lancaster, Norton, E. C. Perkins and Sprague, and two who were members during a part of the course only, Day and Storm. It will be remembered that news of the deaths of Churchill and Goddard was received just as the last report was ready to send out, and the account of their lives was necessarily postponed until the present report.

We have gained five members, Cutler, Shillito, Sibley, Stone and Watson having received the degree of A.B. as of 1879 on Commencement Day, June 29, 1904.

The letters which I have sent to Frank Donaldson, Herbert Tappan, John Vaughn, members of the Class, and to John E. Bonner, S. K. Lewis, George S. Miller, Parry Kennard Solger, William F. Towne, members of the Class during a part of the course only, have all been returned to me, and I have been unable to learn the present addresses of these classmates. I shall be grateful for any news of them, or any clue by which I may learn where to address them.

The only illustration in this report, the frontispiece, will be at once recognized by most of the Class as a reproduction, reduced, of the photograph taken by Tupper in the Stadium on Tuesday afternoon, June 28, 1904.

Trusting that the report will prove as full of interest to all in the reading as I have found it in the making,

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD HALE,
Class Secretary.

65 SPARKS STREET,
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS,
August 1, 1905.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

SHELDON COMMITTEE FUND

THE Sheldon Committee Fund, amounting to $2,571.55, was turned over to the Treasurer in June, 1904, and out of it were paid the expenses of our Twenty-fifth Anniversary, amounting to $1,833.59.

PRESENT ASSETS

Our present assets are as follows:

$1,000 Chicago, Burlington, & Quincy Joint 4%	$980.00
$1,000 United States Steel 2d 5%	940.00
10 shares American Telephone & Telegraph Co. stock	1,400.00
Cash in bank	569.68
	$3,889.68

I. TUCKER BURR,
Treasurer.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS,
May 11, 1905.

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS

Aldrich, Albert Clinton, M.D. 1883

Alger, Horace Chapin

Almy, Francis, A.M. 1880

Amen, Harlan Page, A.M. (Hon.) Williams 1886

Andrews, Clement Walker, A.M. 1880

Anthony, Francis Wayland, M.D. 1883

Apthorp, Harrison Otis, A.M. 1880

Atherton, Edward Herbert

*Austin, William Russell, LL.B. 1882 *1894

Ayers, George David, LL.B. 1882

Bacon, Charles William

Baily, Henry, A.B. Haverford (Pa.) 1878; A.M. 1880

Barlow, Peter Townsend, LL.B. Columbia 1881

Bates, Waldron, LL.B. Boston University 1882

Baylies, Edmund Lincoln, LL.B. 1882, Columbia 1882

Bennett, Samuel Crocker, LL.B. Boston University 1882

Binney, Amos, S.B. Massachusetts Institute Tech. 1881

Black, George Ashton, LL.B. Columbia 1888; Ph.D. Columbia 1889

Blood, Charles Hiram

Bowen, Allyn Hanabergh

Bowen, John Templeton, M.D. 1884

Brandeis, Albert Simon, LL.B. Louisville (Ky.) 1882, Columbia 1883

Brewster, Charles Osmyn, LL.B. Columbia 1881

Brewster, Frank, LL.B. and A.M. 1883

Briggs, Frederic Melancthon, M.D. 1883

Brooks, Arthur Anderson, S.T.B. and A.M. 1884

*Brown, Arthur Clarence, LL.B. Columbia 1882 *1899

Brown, Howard Kinmonth

Brown, John Augustus, 1888

Burlingham, Charles Culp, LL.B. Columbia 1881

Burr, Isaac Tucker

Burrill, George Henry, Union Theological Seminary (New York) 1884

Burrill, Middleton Shoolbred, LL.B. Columbia 1881

*Deceased.

Butler, Harry
*Cadwell, Warren Cushing *1881
Carey, Arthur Astor
Cary, Walter, A.M. 1880
Casas, William Beltran de las, LL.B. 1884
Case, William Warren
Chapin, Herman
*Churchill, John Maitland Brewer *1900
Clapp, Robert Parker, LL.B. 1882
Cobb, Joseph Pettee, M.D. Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, 1883
Conant, William Merritt, M.D. 1884
Cook, George Frederick
Coolidge, John Templeman
Coolidge, William Williamson, Bach. Jurisprudence Boston University 1903
Coverly, George Todd
Cowdin, John Elliot
Cox, Wilmot Townsend, LL.B. Columbia 1881
Crawford, Frank Lindsay, LL.B. Columbia 1882
Crocker, Alvah
Crosman, Charles Sumner, A.B. Haverford (Pa.) 1878; LL.B. Columbian (D.C.) 1884
Curtis, Francis George, M.D. Columbia, (College of Physicians and Surgeons) 1883
Cushing, Livingston, LL.B. 1882; Boston Univ. 1882
Cutler, George Chalmers, 1904
*Dalzell, John Whitney *1896
Daniels, Frank Herbert, M.D. and A.M. 1884
*Davis, George Herbert *1882
Delano, Samuel, M.D. 1883
Denègre, Walter Denis, LL.B. University of Louisiana 1881
*Dolloff, George Lyman *1882
Donaldson, Frank, M.D. University of Maryland 1883
Dow, Herbert Beeman, A.M. (Hon.) Dartmouth 1884
Dunn, Francis De Maurice
Edmands, Moses Grant
*Ellis, Frederick Hamant *1896
Ellis, Ralph Waterbury
*Evans, Glendower *1886
Faunce, George, S.B. Massachusetts Institute Tech. 1882
Felton, Edgar Conway
Gage, James Arthur, A.M. 1880; M.D. 1885
Galloupe, Charles William, M.D. 1883
Gardiner, James McDonald, 1894
*Goddard, Warren Norton *1900
Grannis, Herman Wheaton
Hale, Edward, S.T.B. 1886
Hanks, Charles Stedman, LL.B. Boston University 1881
Harding, Louis Branch

Harlow, William Burt, Ph.D. and A.M. Syracuse (N. Y.) 1883 Heard, Richard
Hill, Samuel, A.B. Haverford (Pa.) 1878
Hill, William Bancroft
Hoadly, George, LL.B. 1882
Hodgdon, Andrew Hall, M.D. 1883
Hodges, George Clarendon
Holmes, Jabish, LL.B. Columbia 1881
Homer, Thomas Johnston, LL.B. 1882
Hopkins, Abram Duane
Hoppin, Samuel Howland, LL.B. Columbia 1881
Houghton, Edward Lovell, A.M. 1880; Andover Theological Seminary 1883
Houston, Francis Augustine, LL.B. 1882
*Howard, William Decreet *1898
Hubbard, William Hammond
Hudson, Woodward, LL.B. 1882
*Huntington, Austin Parks *1893
Hutchins, William Everett
Hyde, William DeWitt, Andover Theological Seminary 1882; S.T.D. 1886; LL.D. Syracuse 1897
Ives, David Otis
Jackson, George West, LL.B. Boston University 1882
Jacobs, Martin Reiley, 1881; LL.B. Columbia 1881
Johnson, Henry Warren, M.D. Boston University 1888
Kelley, Webster
Keyes, Prescott
Kidder, Charles Archbald
Kingsbury, Edward Phipps
*Kinney, Henry Nason, Andover Theol. Seminary 1882 *1900
*Lancaster, Walter Moody, 1881 *1901
Lawrence, William Badger, LL.B. 1882
Lee, Arthur Howard
Lee, Thomas
Leonard, Frederick Moses, LL.B. University of Pa. 1882
LeRoy, Herman Stewart
*McDonald, Frank Virgil, A.B. Yale 1878 *1897
Macfarlane, Wallace
Mack, Charles Samuel, M.D. Columbia (College of Physicians and Surgeons) 1882
McLennan, Francis, B.C.L. McGill 1884
Madden, Edgar
Martin, Francis Coffin, M.D. 1883
Mason, Atherton Perry, M.D. 1882
Mason, Charles Jeremiah, Berkeley Div. S. (Conn.) 1883
Mercer, Henry Chapman

Meyer, George von Lengerke
Miller, George Norton, M.D. 1882
Mitchell, James William
Monroe, William Ingalls, LL.B. Boston University 1882
Morris, John Gavin, M.D. 1882
Motley, George Storer
Mulligan, Henry Coolidge
Newhall, Herbert William, M.D. and A.M. 1884
Nichols, John Loring
*Norton, Jesse Rowland, A.B. Swarthmore (Pa.) 1877 *1900
Nunn, Charles Pierce
Osgood, Charles Nathan
Patten, Francis Bartlett, LL.B. Boston University 1883
*Perkins, Edward Clifford *1902
*Perry, Frederick Gardiner *1890
*Poor, Albert, LL.B. 1882 *1900
Porter, Frank Leslie
Powel, Harford Willing Hare
Preble, Wallace, M.D. 1883
Prescott, Walter Conway
Preston, Thomas Webb
Putnam, Earl Bill
Rand, Benjamin, A.B. Acadia (N. S.) 1875; A.M. 1880, Acadia 1879; Ph.D. and A.M. (Philosophy), 1885
Richardson, William Minard, LL.B. 1882
Rindge, Frederick Hastings, 1890
Robinson, Edward, LL.D. Aberdeen 1905
Robinson, Edward Abbot
Rose, Hiram Holbrook
Russell, Thomas, LL.B. 1882
St. John, Charles Elliott, S.T.B. and A.M. 1883
Sargent, Henry Rufus, S.T.B. Gen. Theological Seminary (N. Y.) 1885
Schofield, William, LL.B. and A.M. 1883
Schwartz, William Henry, 1898
Shannon, Edward Weston
Sheafe, William
Sheldon, George Rumsey
Shillito, Stewart, 1904
Shute, Henry Augustus
Sibley, Edwin Day, 1904
Simpson, Frank Ernest
Smith, Frederic Warren, 1880
*Smith, Willard Everett, M.D. 1882 *1890
Snelling, Samuel, S.T.B. Episcopal Theological Seminary Cambridge (Mass.) 1882
*Somerby, Samuel Ellsworth *1890
*Sprague, Charles Franklin, 1880 *1902
Stetson, Hayward, M.D. 1883
Stone, Francis Hathaway, 1904
Story, Marion Wainwright, LL.B. 1882
Swayze, Francis Joseph, A.M. 1880

Swift, Jireh
Sylvester, William Henry
Tappan, Herbert
*Tarbell, William Croswell, LL.B. 1882 *1886
Taussig, Frank William, Ph.D. and A.M. (Political Science) 1883; LL.B. 1886
Temple, Frederic Henry
Thayer, John Alden, LL.B. Columbia 1889
Thomas, James Eames
Thomas, Washington Butcher
Thompson, John James
Thorp, Joseph Gilbert, LL.B. 1882
*Titus, Willett Losee *1879
Townsend, John Joseph
Trimble, Walter, LL.B. Columbia 1881
Trull, Larkin Thorndike
Tubbs, Alfred Stewart
Twombley, William Greene
Underwood, Henry Oliver
Urquhart, David
Van Rensselaer, William Bayard
Vaughn, John, LL.B. 1887
*Warren, Henry Clarke *1899
Watson, William Livington, 1904
Wells, Charles Luke, S.T.B. Episcopal Theological Seminary Cambridge (Mass.) 1882; Ph.D. (History) 1893
*Wells, John Walter *1892
Whiting, Charles Hoover
Wilton, Richard Thomas, S.T.B. 1881
Wolff, John Eliot, Ph.D. and A.M. (Natural History) 1889
Wood, Stephen Blake
Wright, James Anderson

*26 + 175 = 201

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS DURING A PART OF THE COURSE ONLY

Adams, Francis Willis
Alley, John Stewart
*Arnold, Edmund Aldous *1885
Bailey, Benjamin Francis, A.B. 1877
*Baldwin, Rollin Carroll *1878
Bissell, Herbert Porter, A.B. 1881 as of the class of 1880
Blanchard, Benjamin Seaver, M.D. 1882

Bonner, John Ellingwood
Brigham, Clifford, A.B. 1880
Brigham, Nat Maynard, A.B. 1880
Bryant, Henry Willis
Butler, George Minot, A.B. 1880
Carver, Benjamin Frederic
Chandler, Frederick Emerson, M.D. Tufts 1895
*Conlan, James Francis *1883
Cushman, William Baxter
*Day, Thomas Chadwick *1905
Dodge, Pickering
Driver, Charles
Dwinell, James Herbert
Earle, George Howard, A.M. (Hon.) 1904
Edwards, Pierrepont
Ela, Alfred
Everett, Edward
French, Henry Banks
Friedlander, Thomas Cary
*Gale, John Parker *1892
Gilbert, Joseph Thomas
Grant, Patrick
Greene, Herbert Eveleth, A.B. 1881; A.M. 1884
*Haley, Charles Merton *1891
Haskell, Edward Pritchard
Hayes, Charles Edmund
Henderson, Harold Gould, A.B. 1880; LL.B. Columbia 1883
*Hewitt, Emerick Benjamin *1879
Hilton, Gustavus Arthur, LL.B. Boston University 1882
Hutchinson, Mahlon, M.D. Bellevue 1881
*James, Clarence Gray *1892
*Katzenbach, Peter *1880
Keene, Francis Bowler, A.B. 1880
Kitfield, George Albert
Ladd, John Franklin
Leister, Anton
LeRoy, Archibald
Lewis, Samuel Kleighton
Lincoln, Charles Sprague
Littlefield, George Abner, A.B. 1878
*Lobsitz, Leopold *1879
Miles, Jonas Michael Miller, George Stow
Mitchell, John Singleton
Morse, Edward Leland, A.B. 1895 as of the class of 1877
Osgood, George
Page, William Elias
Perkins, Charles Lawrence
*Pew, Charles Hiram *1880
Price, William Carroll
Robbins, Julian Wainwright
Rogers, William Stanton, LL.B. Boston University 1882
*Sargent, Leicester *1883
Sawyer, Edward Allen, A.B. Amherst 1881; M.D. University City of New York 1883; A.M. Amherst 1886
Shea, John Cornelius, LL.B. Boston University 1879

Solger, Parry Kennard
Stetson, Robert Church
*Storm, George Wilkinson *1903
Strong, John Palmer, LL.B. St. Louis (Mo.) 1882
Taff, John Henry
*Teschemacher, Arthur Moxen *1892
Towne, William Fitzgerald
Ware, Francis Morgan
Weld, Charles Goddard
*Weston, Edward Stanley *1882
Whitcomb, Merrick, A.B. 1880; Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania 1897
Willard, John Howard
*Williams, Otho Holland, A.B. 1880 *1896

*16 + 59 = 75

HARVARD COLLEGE

THE CLASS OF 1879

ALBERT CLINTON ALDRICH (Somerville, Massachusetts, June 6). "I have not changed my residence or business since I last wrote. The nearest I have come to a position of public trust was in 1902 and 1903, when I was medical member of the Board of Health in Somerville during an epidemic of small-pox. The office is said to have been well administered during that time.

"My work takes up all my time excepting two weeks, which for the past three years I have devoted to fishing: — not so many fish, but a mighty good time, with a gain in health and strength which keeps one in very good physical and mental trim."

HORACE CHAPIN ALGER (Sheridan, Wyoming, May 18). "On September 21, 1901, I, with others, organized the State Bank of Sheridan of Sheridan, Wyoming, being a director and Cashier thereof, until the merger of this bank with the Bank of Commerce, occurring on April 9, 1904. At that time I was made one of its directors and its Cashier, positions which I hold now. I am also a director of the State Loan and Trust Company, and its Trust Officer.

"I was defeated as the Democratic candidate for the office of State Treasurer at the last election.

"My trips to the East have been of a very pleasant nature, but not of enough importance to be chronicled."

FRANCIS ALMY (Buffalo, New York, April 20). "My work as Purchasing Agent of the Pan-American Exposition, which began in March, 1899, lasted until January, 1902, the final work consisting in selling off the goods which I had bought. The affairs of the Exposition were in litigation, and, the attorneys for the Exposition deciding that the remaining property must be placed under private ownership at once, I was called upon by the Board of Directors, on January 9, to purchase all that was left, giving a note for the amount; and the rest of the stuff I then had to sell in my own name. It was an especially disagreeable job, and I was glad to get through with it. This whole Pan-American work was of a kind very susceptible to criticism, and I was much relieved when it was finally over without complaint.

"In March, April and May of 1902 I took a vacation trip to Cuba and Mexico, my thoughts turning in this direction partly because I had taken up the study of Spanish during the Exposition, beginning it purely by accident, but keeping on through interest, and doing a good deal of work with it. I went to Cuba via Florida and Key West, and had two weeks in Havana, which was made the more interesting through a letter of introduction from Roosevelt to Leonard Wood, at that time Governor-General of Cuba. As the President's eldest daughter was a guest of General Wood at the time, there was a good deal going on. I acted also as delegate from Buffalo to the first Cuban Conference of Charities.

"My Mexican trip included two weeks in the City of Mexico, five days at Cuernavaca, and from one to two nights at Orizaba, Puebla, Jalapa, etc. An especially interesting incident was two nights spent in Apetatitlan, a charming little village near Tlascala, as the guest of Señor Don Augusto Petricioli. The courtesy of himself and his family toward an entire stranger was extreme. As they spoke no English, and my Spanish was far from fluent, the conversation was a little difficult.

"On returning from Mexico I took a month's vacation in Massachusetts, and then a stay of a week, June 27 to July 4, in Westminster, Maryland, at the Monastery of the Holy Cross. This happened because, being scheduled to write a paper on 'Monastic Life' for a little Buffalo club, I wrote to our classmate Sargent, who is Master of Novices in the Order of the Holy Cross, and received an invitation from the Father Superior to spend a week with them and see the religious life from within. The experience was a most interesting and pleasant one.

"July 7, 1902, I entered the Buffalo Pitts Company (manufacturers of threshing machines, road locomotives, steam road rollers) in a sort of miscellaneous capacity, and stayed with them two years. In May, 1904, I obtained, through our classmate Underwood, an interesting position with the United Fruit Company, in charge of their Merchandise Department at Costa Rica. I deferred going there until after our twenty-fifth anniversary ceremonies in Cambridge, June 29, but started south from New York July 1, reaching Costa Rica July 11. The work there was interesting, and the country still more so. It was always very warm, but never very hot, — never as hot as in Boston when I left there. In a few years more it will be a delightful and thoroughly healthy country. I stayed myself, I regret to say, only until December, when I returned to Buffalo, where I shall continue to make my home, with my brother ('80), my mother and sister.

"Among special interests outside of my Spanish studies I think only of the Society for Beautifying Buffalo, which I helped to organize, in December, 1901, and in which I was a director, and the Treasurer, until I went to Costa Rica. I am now helping as Secretary of the Committee on Dedication Ceremonies of the beautiful Albright Art Gallery, which will be opened May 31, President Eliot making the principal address. I am also working on a committee toward starting a Department of Liberal Arts in the University of Buffalo. It has a good law school, medical school, and dental school, but nothing in liberal arts.

"I had long thought that Buffalo was too far off for a Class Secretary, and I succeeded last June in persuading the Class Committee that Costa Rica was certainly too far, and also that twenty-five years constituted a well-rounded and adequate term of service. . . . "

HARLAN PAGE AMEN (Exeter, New Hampshire, July 1). "Since our last report, I have remained at Exeter, and have given my entire effort to the interests of the Phillips Exeter Academy. The growth and development of the school has been very satisfactory. We have had growth in members, in scholarship, in buildings, and grounds. I have just completed my tenth year as Principal of the Academy. In these ten years, despite the fact that we have required the withdrawal of nearly six hundred boys, largely on account of inadequate preparation for our work, the number of students has grown steadily from 191 in 1895-6 to 382 in 1904-5. We now have seventeen buildings, an increase of ten, and our grounds have been more than trebled in extent. $160,000.00 have been added by gifts to our invested funds, in addition to the Hilliard bequest of $250,000.00, the principal of which comes to the Academy at the end of twelve years. The Hilliard estate is now in the care of three trustees, — Professor George A. Wentworth, Mr. John N. Thompson of Exeter, and myself.

"In the year 1895-6, the number of college candidates from the Academy who presented themselves for examination (preliminary and advanced) at Harvard was twenty-four. This June seventy-four candidates from the Academy have taken the Harvard examinations, preliminary and advanced. One hundred and fifty-seven Exeter boys are this year taking college entrance examinations, and ninety-two of these are final candidates. Seventy-four have taken the examinations for Harvard, twenty-five for Yale, twenty for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and fourteen for Princeton. The remaining candidates enter various colleges, including Dartmouth, Bowdoin, Williams, Cornell, the University of Michigan, etc. Members of our Senior and Upper Middle Classes enter at least fifteen different colleges this year.

"My work is delightfully enjoyable, even with its anxieties and disappointments.

"I spent the summer of 1900 abroad, most of the time in Bavaria, Germany, and Switzerland. Last year I took a journey to the western part of our own country, and spent several days in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

"I have found no time for literary work. I have tried quietly to render some social and political service to the community, and have been a member of various local committees.

"I am a member of the University Clubs of Boston and New York, of the Twentieth Century Club, and of the New Hampshire and Massachusetts School Masters' Clubs of Boston, Vice-President of the New England Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, a member of the Executive Committee of the Head Masters' Association, and a member or officer of various other educational and social organizations.

"My address is Exeter, New Hampshire. Two of my daughters are attending Vassar College; one is a Senior, the other a Junior. My only son is seven years of age.

"My wife died suddenly after a brief illness at Lake Sunapee, New Hampshire, August 18, 1901. Her mother, Mrs. Susan E. Rawson, presides over my household."

CLEMENT WALKER ANDREWS (Chicago, June 13). "The last five years, like the previous five, have been spent in the administration of the John Crerar Library. The growth of the Library from sixty thousand to one hundred and thirty-five thousand volumes and the increase of its readers from one hundred and thirteen to two hundred and seventy-nine a day are visible results of our work. It requires careful attention to a multitude of minute details, and yet it can hardly be said to be monotonous, when a single day brings demands as far apart as the abstracting of papers on the alkalcids of Ceanothus Americanus and an opinion on the authenticity of a poem alleged to have been written by the shade of Robert Burns at a spiritualistic seance. The latter question, by the way, was referred to my colleague at the Newberry Library, John Vance Cheney, as the poetry expert of the town.

"Nor is the work as wholly sedentary as one might expect it to be. Not only do committee meetings and the necessity for seeing candidates require occasional trips east, but the annual conferences of the American Library Association have given me pleasant relief. These were held: in 1900 at Montreal, with a delightful post-conference trip to the Saguenay; in 1901 at Waukesha, Wisconsin, with a post-conference trip, the beauties of which are too little known, around the lakes to Buffalo and the Pan-American; in 1902 at Boston and Magnolia; in 1903 at Niagara Falls; in 1904 at St. Louis. This year we are to meet at Portland, Oregon, with post-conference trips to Alaska and the Yellowstone. In 1904 the Library purchased a large private collection in Amsterdam, and sent me over to arrange the details, dispose of the duplicates, etc. Although most of the time was occupied by business, I had the pleasure of several days' sight-seeing in the Netherlands, North Germany, and London. The pictures of Dutch home life, the fields of tulips in bloom, a day at Dresden with a colleague, and a week-end at Cambridge with one of the professors, are vivid remembrances among much that was pleasant. Incidentally it may be added that I 'shot the owl.'

"A few papers, prepared for various societies, have been printed in the Library Journal and Public Libraries, and a sketch of the Library in Blanchard's 'History of Chicago.' In 1901 a 'List of Serials in Public Libraries of Chicago and Evanston' was published, which had been edited by a committee of the Chicago Library Club, of which I was Chairman. In 1903 the John Crerar Library issued a Supplement which I edited alone, and the second edition of this Supplement is now nearly ready for the printer. These lists make known the location of some ten thousand serials and make the libraries of Chicago in some respects more available to scholars than are the older and more complete collections in the East.

"At present I am giving much time and thought to the plans for our new building, which is to be erected in a very central position next to the Art Institute, in Grant Park. The building will be about three hundred by one hundred feet, and will cost nearly a million dollars.

"Except that I live at the Union Club instead of the Virginia Hotel, that I play bridge instead of whist, and that I have ceased to lunch anywhere, the statements of the last report as to the daily routine of my life hold good. I am no longer a trustee of Unity Church or a member of the Council of the American Library Association, but I have become a member of the Bibliographical Society of America, the New England Society of Chicago, the Essex Institute of Salem, and of the Council of the Caxton Club."

FRANCIS WAYLAND ANTHONY (Haverhill, Massachusetts, April 18). "I have little of interest to report, I fear. I continue to practice my profession here. I have worked with various specialists in the line of nervous and mental diseases at various hospitals in the endeavor to add to my knowledge; have associated myself with Dr. C. S. Benson of this city, a surgeon, and have largely given up the active surgical work to him; have taken up the accident and court work of the Boston & Northern R. R. in this vicinity, in addition to other railroad work previously held, and have examined many cases other than railroad cases for the purpose of testifying in the courts in reference to them. Of late years this work has been largely for the defendant rather than for the plaintiff, at the request of prominent legal firms in different sections of the country. To me the maintaining of a position which you know to be correct against the endeavor of an able and shrewd attorney to break you down is interesting.

"I continue my duties as a member of the staff of the Hale Hospital, and an instructor in its Training School, and am still an associate medical examiner for this district.

"My oldest son, the Class Baby, was married last June, and is happily settled seven miles from me, engaged in railroad work. My other boy, now nine years old, and promising to equal his brother and father in height, is going his way through the public schools. My wife continues to share my sorrows and enhance my joys.

"My yearly vacation trip to Maine is the only break in the monotony of daily work, save the constant breaking of this monotony by the new cases and new experiences which come to every busy practitioner of medicine.

"This is not much to report, and yet I feel that it is much to be busy, contented, and possibly useful, and to have been free from any great sorrow."

HARRISON OTIS APTHORP (Camden, South Carolina, April 11). "About 1902 I began to feel the effects of my work at Milton, and after a year or two of less exacting work, finally, in June, 1904, I resigned my position as Head Master of the Milton Academy. I have since then been resting and trying to see what freedom from responsibility would do for me. I am certainly better than I was, though not yet entirely well. I am hoping, however, to go to work this autumn."

EDWARD HERBERT ATHERTON (Roxbury, Boston, April 26). "As the last report left me, so this one finds me, still trying to teach the young idea how to shoot. My occupation, family, and residence are the same now as five years ago. About the only difference I notice is that I begin to realize more than ever since our reunion last June that we are none of us boys any longer, however much we may wish and try to be. Still, I think I enjoy life as much now as ever I did.

"The nearest I have come to a degree was the receipt in 1902 of a diploma from the Boston 'Teachers' School of Science' for work done in a four years' course in geology. In the summer of 1902 I joined a party under a professor of geology for a three weeks' trip through Nova Scotia to study the geology of that region, and found it very interesting and enjoyable. So much for that hobby.

"During the spring of 1903 I had a very severe attack of laryngitis, which laid me up for several weeks, and the effects of which I have hardly got over yet. When I was able to get out a little, I took up hobby number two, a boy's hobby this time, the study of birds, and I am still riding it. I find it adds much to the interest and enjoyment of a ride or walk in the country to see and distinguish birds whose very existence I before never suspected. Then, too, it is worth while to hear with one's own ears, as I did recently, such a performance as that of the woodcock, which at mating time goes through a sort of dance, then rises suddenly high in air with a sort of whistling noise, and descends swiftly in zig-zags, singing very sweetly. It seems incredible that such a bird can sing so."

GEORGE DAVID AYERS (Boston, June 6). "There is nothing new of any account to chronicle in regard to me. My time has been divided between my practice, my work in the Universal Brotherhood movement, and my home life, and in regard to these three divisions nothing out of the usual course has taken place."

He received word by telegram June 13, 1905, that he had been elected to the new professorship of law in Nebraska University, recently created by the Nebraska Legislature. He has accepted the position.

CHARLES WILLIAM BACON (New York, April 6). "I am practicing law in connection with the firm of Battle &

Marshall at 170 Broadway, and my present personal address is 460 East 4th Street, Mount Vernon, New York.

"I have recently been appointed an Assistant District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, and am now filling the duties of my position."

HENRY BAILY (Boston, April 12). "No change in occupation or residence since 1900. I am still practicing law at 23 Court Street, Boston, and living at 991 Beacon Street, Newton. My summer residence is at Sugar Hill, New Hampshire, unless I am travelling at home or abroad.

"I have done no literary, scientific, or commercial work worth mentioning. In political work I have been defeated twice for Mayor of Newton, but the second time with such a large increase in the vote for me as to make it evident that no human power could prevent ultimate victory from being the result of a few more runs. By running thus far I have already conferred inestimable benefits on the city, the prevailing party being thereby terrorized into such good behavior that Newton is now the finest home city in the world.

"I am holding so many positions of honor and trust that it would be tiresome to name them. I belong to all kinds of clubs and organizations. The best known are the University Club, the Newton Club, the Brae-Burn Country Club, the Civic Club, and the Newton Squash-Tennis Club.

"Although a very busy man — for in this community public spirit is a civic duty which no one can neglect with impunity, while at the same time professional competition is exactingly strenuous — daily exercise is never forgotten. Squash in winter and golf in summer are a sure bulwark against the assaults of increasing years, and I find it no easy task to convince persons unacquainted with the facts that I belong to the college vintage of 1879."

PETER TOWNSEND BARLOW (New York, April 12). "There is not very much to tell you for the Class Report. Two events only of special import have come into my life. First: The death of my eldest boy in 1901. Second: My appointment by Mayor Low of this city as City Magistrate. I was appointed to fill an unexpired term in May, 1902, and after serving one year was re-appointed by Mayor Low for a full term of ten years, and am now hard at it, sitting every month in the year, with prisoners arraigned before me in such great numbers that the figures seem almost appalling. I do not mean that you should infer by this that New York is growing more wicked; it is simply growing larger. I have written nothing, have resigned from all positions of trust, and hold no position of honor save the city magistracy and being one of the governors of the Union Club. I was fortunate enough last year by working extra time to go to Europe for six weeks for a rest.

"My address is unchanged, — No. 55 East 21st Street, — and my boy now at Groton can say a most unusual thing when he returns to this house, namely, that he is the fourth generation of the same name in the same house."

Mrs. Barlow died April 24.

WALDRON BATES (Boston, April 5). "In answer to your circular letter of April 4 to the Class of 1879, I have little to say. No changes in occupation and residence since 1900; no marriage, nor children, and my only interesting experiences or journeys have been in Canada salmon fishing."

EDMUND LINCOLN BAYLIES is still a member of the firm of Carter, Ledyard and Milburn, 54 Wall Street, New York. He has been in London, England, this spring, and the letters which the Class Secretary has written to him have failed to bring a reply in season for the report.

SAMUEL CROCKER BENNETT (Boston, June 1). "My residence continues to be in Weston, Massachusetts, and our family has been further increased by the birth of another son, Thomas Dacre Bennett, born in December, 1900.

"In the spring of 1902 I tendered my resignation as Dean of the Boston University Law School, to take effect at the close of the school year in June following. Since the summer of that year my attention has been given entirely to the general practice of the law.

"Together with Dean Ames of the Harvard Law School and others I have the honor to be one of the charter members of the corporation of the Evening Law School of the Young Men's Christian Association of Boston. As one of the Associate Editors of the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure I have revised some of the work in that publication, and this measures the extent of my activities in the literary line since 1900.

"I am now serving my seventh year as a member of the school committee of our town, and thus rendering what assistance I can toward promoting a sound administration of local municipal affairs.

"The professional work of a lawyer frequently causes his appointment to positions which probably are 'positions of honor and trust' within the meaning of the Secretary's circular letter. But nevertheless one may be expected to forbear the enumeration of them.

"My duties keep me in Massachusetts most of the year, and the few journeys I have taken, either for business or pleasure, have been without any startling incident of permanent interest.

"I still continue to be a member of the Union Club of Boston, and may be addressed there."

AMOS BINNEY (Boston, May 23). "'Ex nihilo'—I have lived and worked in the same places for fifteen years, and in the last five there have been no family events to chronicle; 'nihil'—neither have I distinguished myself in literature, science, or politics; 'fit'—that comes from trying to concoct something out of nothing, to make a story for the Class out of my five years of uneventful living."

GEORGE ASHTON BLACK (New York, May 15). "My residence and interests have not changed since 1900. Last January I published my 'Science{function}Analysis,' and this month a short but comprehensive propaedeutic, resolving the hitherto unrecognized general problem, Differential coefficient = Function, and determining the relation of Science {function} Analysis to Logic."

CHARLES HIRAM BLOOD (Fitchburg, Massachusetts, April 8). "My present address is Fitchburg, and my occupation Law, both the same as in 1900. Am married as then, and no deaths have occurred since. In 1900 I was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives as in 1899, and was again returned in 1901. In 1903 I was Mayor of Fitchburg.

"Mrs. Blood and I attended the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in September, 1904. My only other interesting experiences are political defeats."

ALLYN HANABERGH BOWEN has not written. He probably continues to reside in Brooklyn, New York.

JOHN TEMPLETON BOWEN (Boston, April 5). "Please say that I have no marriage to record, and am leading the life of the specialist in dermatology, combining investigation and teaching with private practice. In 1902 I was appointed head of the department of dermatology in Harvard, with the title of Assistant Professor. My publications have been entirely in the domain of my special work, consisting of various articles in medical journals, embodying the results of research and observation."

ALBERT SIMON BRANDEIS continues to practice law in Louisville, Kentucky. "On January 12, 1901," he writes, "my beloved wife, Amy Thomas Brandeis, died."

CHARLES OSMYN BREWSTER (New York, June 7). "Since the last Class Report I have continued to practice law, with my office at 32 Liberty Street, and have resided at 25 Irving Place. During the interval I have had two children, Horatio Hathaway Brewster, born December 1, 1900, and Elizabeth Brewster, born November 29, 1903. My summers are spent at South Dartmouth, Massachusetts."

FRANK BREWSTER (Boston, May 3). "No change in occupation or residence since 1900. I was married February 24, 1903, to Marie F. Sharp, of Boston, whose parents were Dr. John C. Sharp and Helen Sharp. I have one child, Helen S. Brewster, born December 26, 1903."

FREDERIC MELANCTHON BRIGGS (Boston, May 19). "Since the last Class Report there have been no changes of importance for me, either in occupation or in residence. My work has been divided between teaching and practicing surgery, and this has kept me fully occupied. I am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Boston Medical Library Association, the Boston Society for Medical Improvement, the Harvard Medical Alumni Association and the Union Boat Club. I am Professor of Clinical Surgery in the Tufts College Medical and Dental Schools, and Surgeon to the Boston Dispensary.

"In April, 1904, I took a short trip to Chicago, where I stayed one week, seeing some of the surgical work done there, and also looking over the method of teaching in their medical schools. Other than this my only trips have been during the summer."

ARTHUR ANDERSON BROOKS (Boston, May 7). "I have nothing special to add to my last report. I am living a very retired life at 53 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston."

HOWARD KINMONTH BROWN (Boston, April 6). "I can easily comply with the request in your circular concerning the Seventh Class Report not to confine myself to statistics, for the simple reason that in my case even statistics are lacking. Taking up your 'main points to be covered' in their order, I can say that since March, 1900, I have changed neither occupation nor residence; have neither gained nor lost wife or child; have engaged in no literary, scientific, political or commercial work; have neither achieved nor had thrust upon me any position of honor or trust; have joined no club or other organizations; have inflicted upon the public no articles literary or otherwise; have received no college degrees; have had no interesting experiences or journeys, and have been occupied with no special interests.

"All you can do, therefore, is to instruct the printer after setting up my name to add a few 'quads' and proceed to the next victim."

JOHN AUGUSTUS BROWN (Exeter, New Hampshire, May 12). "Since the last Class Report I have lived quietly in Exeter, engaged in the same lines of business in which I have been for many years past, viz., school work, insurance, and the management of a co-operative bank, all of which I enjoy very much.

"The most important events that have happened in my life are the births of my two children, as follows: Mary Ella Brown, born in Exeter, New Hampshire, June 17, 1902. John Perkins Brown, born in Exeter, New Hampshire, March 18, 1905. Many a time when reading the Secretary's reports in previous years have I envied those of my class-mates who were the fortunate possessors of families, and now out of my own experience I can truly sympathize with the unfortunate few of the class who have not yet found the 'better half.'

"The pleasant recollections of last June's celebrations still linger brightly in the memory, and we cannot have too much gratitude for those who planned the various reunions that so strongly cemented the ties formed in the college days now more than twenty-five years gone by. Especially are the thanks of all due to Thorp and his hospitable wife for the pleasant opportunity they offered us for meeting the 'other half' of the class. I trust that every one who can will make a grand effort to be present at each Commencement, for as our numbers grow smaller, our class associations should grow stronger."

CHARLES CULP BURLINGHAM (New York, May 4). "Nothing extraordinary has happened to me since 1900. I continued to serve on our New York Board of Education until the fall of 1901, when I resigned. Then when Mayor Low came in and the Board was reorganized in February, 1902, I accepted a re-appointment and was elected President of the Board. I served for one year and then resigned. My firm name continues the same, Wing, Putnam & Burlingham."

ISAAC TUCKER BURR (Boston, April 10). "My life in the past five years would have been uneventful but for the opportunity which came to me to serve the class and Alma Mater. That service was made possible by the generous co-operation of our men, who with great unanimity subscribed to our $100,000 fund raised and paid to the University in 1903 for the purpose of building the Stadium, so that it was practically, if not architecturally, complete by our twenty-fifth anniversary. Our action has already borne the fruit for which some of us hoped, in that the Class of '80, with a laudable spirit of emulation, has raised a like sum for the general purposes of the College, to commemorate their twenty-fifth anniversary. So what was an incident is becoming a custom.

"On our great occasion, Commencement Day, June 29, 1904, it was my agreeable duty to act as Chief Marshal of the Alumni, many of whom, including our honored class, were expected to lunch with me at No. 5 University. The day was comfortable, despite the morning rain, and the procession to Memorial Hall and the exercises therein were noteworthy and quite befitting a memorable '79 reunion.

"Last year I was an unsuccessful candidate for the one vacancy on the Board of Overseers, and am again a candidate this year, with no greater chances of success, considering the wealth of good material.

"I expect to go to Europe in May for about a four months' trip with all my family, excepting my oldest son, who comes out to join us in June after his college examinations, and shall probably be absent from the June exercises in Cambridge for the first time in many years.

"I am still a member of the firm of Parkinson & Burr, with offices at 53 State Street, Boston, and 7 Wall Street, New York."

GEORGE HENRY BURRILL (Easthampton, Massachusetts, June 3). "The important event since my last report is my change of residence and field of work from Claverack, New York, to Easthampton, Massachusetts. My thirteen years in the pastorate of the Dutch Church in the former place were most happy years from the beginning to the close. In March of this year I began my work here in the First Congregational Church. The new field promises well, and the return to the state and to the church in which I was born is in itself a matter of not a little pleasure to me."

MIDDLETON SHOOLBRED BURRILL continues the practice of law in New York, with offices at 49 Wall Street.

HARRY BUTLER (Portland, Maine, April 11). "About two years ago I became President of the Portland Trust Company, which I had then served as Treasurer for over eighteen years. At the moment I think of nothing else to add except membership in the Economic Club of Portland and the Union Club of Boston."

ARTHUR ASTOR CAREY (Cambridge, May 5). "The main thing I have to report since 1900 is my undertaking the work of a lay preacher in the New Church. I have a chapel in Portsmouth where I preach during the summer, and during the rest of the year I am liable to be sent here and there to conduct services in the temporary absence of the regular ministers. I am also a Manager of the New Church School here in Waltham, and have my office on the grounds. My special interest in this work is the effort to practice and teach the principles of essential religion as distinguished from conventional religion, and I consider the sectarian element as subordinate to the substantially human and universal.

"In the autumn of 1902 I broke down with a serious nervous illness, from the effects of which I am now thoroughly recovering. It has marked, in connection with my spiritual work, an important crisis in my life, and I am grateful for much new power which has come to me through the experience,— both for receiving, as well as giving, helpful service.

"I have published a pamphlet called 'Nervous Prostration and its Spiritual Cause,' and have written several articles for newspapers and magazines.

"My family, I am happy to say, are well, and I have no change to report as regards births or deaths, — only the happiness of normal and healthy growth in the children."

WALTER CAREY writes on April 23 from Naples, Italy, "There has been no change for me since March, 1900, except the change naturally brought about by five pleasant years quickly passed. My address," he adds, "is the same as at the moment of my birth, 184 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, New York."

WILLIAM BELTRAN DE LAS CASAS (Boston, June 13). "There has been no change in my residence or occupation.

"I was married June 24, 1903, at Christ Church Cathedral, Louisville, Kentucky, to Margrethe Koefoed Christensen, a teacher of art in Louisville and interested in park work in that city and in the country generally as Secretary and Treasurer of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Park and Outdoor Art Association. Her parents were Jorgen and Paulina Margrethe Koefoed Christensen, of Copenhagen, Denmark.

"I am still Chairman of the Metropolitan Park Commission of Massachusetts. I have written no important papers except those incident to this office. I have delivered various public addresses, the most important being before the American Park and Outdoor Art Association Convention in Boston in July, 1902, the American Institute of Architects in Washington on December 13, 1902, the Round Table and American Civic Association of St. Louis, March 14 and 15, 1903, the Worcester Twentieth Century Club, October 3, 1903, and the Unitarian Club of Providence on January 27, 1904, and the College Club in Boston this year. Most of these addresses were in connection with some movement for establishing or extending the park systems in the places in which the addresses were delivered.

"I am a life member of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, a member of the Union Club of Boston, a member of the Malden Historical Society, and an honorary member of the Providence Public Park Association, a trustee of the Malden Hospital, a warden of St. Paul's Church, Malden, and a vice-president of the Spanish Club of Boston. I was a member of the Visiting Committee for the Arnold Arboretum until 1904 and then became a member of the Visiting Committee in the Department of Romance Languages of Harvard.

"My present home address is 95 Cedar Street, Malden, Massachusetts."

WILLIAM WARREN CASE (Chicago, April 7). "Your request for an account of myself comes as a command, but I suppose no member of our class has less to report than I. My residence is still at Winnetha, my office at 172 Washington Street, Chicago, my occupation law. To wring from reluctant clients a livelihood for four children is the sum of my endeavors. There are no changes in my family, nor have I figured as an author, politician, or seer. If that false maxim that a nation without a history is happiest could be received as true, I might invoke it in my own defence."

HERMAN CHAPIN continues to reside and do business in Seattle, Washington.

*JOHN MAITLAND BREWER CHURCHILL was born in Dorchester, Massachusetts, January 18, 1858. His father was Asaph Churchill, a well known lawyer of Boston. He passed six years of preparation for college at the Boston Latin School and entered Harvard in 1875. After his graduation in 1879 he spent the two following years at the Harvard Law School, but in May, 1881, he was obliged to leave on account of ill health, and later in the year he went to Colorado, where he passed six months. The two succeeding years were a time of ill health, patiently endured, so that few but his intimate friends appreciated the burden that he was forced to bear. In October, 1883, he returned to the Law School and from that time until his final illness he enjoyed fair health, as a rule, and was able to do a large amount of work. In July, 1884, he was admitted to the bar in Boston, and soon afterward he entered the law office of his father and brother. At the time of his death he was in successful practice with his brother, Joseph R. Churchill. About 1885 he removed from Milton, his old home, to Boston, although retaining a legal residence in Milton, and became a member of the Puritan Club of Boston, of which he was successively Treasurer and President, holding the latter office at the time of his death. On June 15, 1898, he was married to Florence Winsor, a granddaughter of John J. May, and had one son, born in June, 1899.

His last illness was of about six months' duration. With his usual pluck and tenacity of purpose he remained at work longer probably than he should have, giving up only when he was absolutely unable to go about. During the spring of 1900 he was ill in his house on West Cedar Street, but towards summer he had improved so far as to be able to take short drives, and to remove to the country. His disease, however, was a fatal one from the start, and the end came on the 29th of July, 1900, at the Isles of Shoals, where he had gone with the hope that the sea air would prove beneficial.

Churchill will be remembered pleasantly by all and affectionately by many of the class. The qualities that stood out most prominently to those who knew him well were his courage and energy. He was never very strong, and his illness during the years 1881-1884 was attended with great suffering, which he bore without flinching. In later years he accomplished an amount of work more than commensurate with his strength. His enthusiasm for music will also be remembered, as a considerable part of his leisure was devoted to it throughout his life.

It will be felt that one who could show the better way with so much steadiness and courage has not lived with us wholly in vain.

JOHN T. BOWEN.

ROBERT PARKER CLAPP (Lexington, Massachusetts, June 5). "In response to your 'last call,' I write to say that > "'I do not like the way the cards are shuffled,

> But yet I like the game and want to play;
> And through the long, long night will I, unruffled,
> Play what I get until the break of day.'

"These lines may be taken as fairly representing my average view of life, even since we have passed the twenty-fifth mile post; and so I persuade myself that I am as young as I was a score or more of years ago. I have learned, however, with Stevenson, that 'whatever else we are intended to do, we are not intended to succeed; failure is the fate allotted.' But there is pleasure and satisfaction in playing the game.

"I continue to play it, surrounded by the wife and children (a girl of thirteen and boy of ten) who shared my lot five years ago, and with the same social and professional associations as then. My residence is in Lexington, my office in Boston. I am of the law firm of Johnson ('78), Clapp ('79) and Underwood

('84). I devote my energies closely to the practice of my profession, letting any surplus find expression in attempts to help along local enterprises and charities. Such appointments, therefore, as I have received to 'positions of honor or trust' are confined to town affairs. I have made a number of public addresses, among them being one delivered before the Grand Army post in Lexington on Memorial Day two years ago.

"I am a member of the St. Botolph Club, and of no others worthy of mention."

JOSEPH PETTEE COBB (Chicago, April 14). "I have very little to add, further than the fact that I have not changed the character of my work and am still practicing medicine, and am still located in Chicago. There have been no additions or subtractions to my family during the past five years. The only literary work which I have done has been in the shape of magazine articles which have been printed in one or another medical journal. I still continue to hold the same college and hospital position. Two years ago I had the honor of being the President of our National Medical Society, the American Institute of Homœopathy, and at present am Chairman of the Local Committee of Arrangements, which is preparing the annual meeting of the Institute which takes place here in Chicago in June of this year."

WILLIAM MERRITT CONANT (Boston, June 12). "I am still at 486 Commonwealth Avenue, and am practicing the medical profession. My family remains the same, as there have been no births or deaths since 1900.

"I have written several papers on medical subjects, and some of them have been published in the current medical journals. I am one of the surgeons at the Massachusetts General Hospital, but apart from my other medical appointments I have only the presidency of two local clubs in the city.

"I have, as you see, been practically attending to my regular work, the only journeys that I have taken being a trip into the Maine woods in the fall of each year."

GEORGE FREDERICK COOK (Detroit, Michigan, June 9). "When I left off talking about myself in 1900, I said I did not intend to go west again. I have since changed my mind, and now live in the most beautiful city in America, except dear old Boston. Regarding my life during the past five years, I can sum it all up with the expression 'nothing doing.' It is the same old grind, writing stories for daily consumption of newspaper readers, reading copy and correcting other people's mistakes. For two years and a half I worked on the Daily Tribune of this city. From there I went on a new paper which did not last long, and we both — the newspaper and I — took a balloon ascension.

"However, I have since landed, 'und zwar,' as the Germans say, on the Detroit Free Press. Everybody knows the Free Press. During the summer of 1904 my newspaper work was exceedingly pleasant, for I used to make trips out into the State as staff correspondent, trying to elect the Democratic candidate for Governor. Incidentally I had the pleasure of contributing copy about the one hundredth anniversary of the formation of the Republican Party at Jackson, Michigan, 'Under the Oaks.'

"Last winter we formed a Harvard Club of Michigan in this city, to which over one hundred belong, including Charles Moore, '78, whom you doubtless remember. He is Secretary of the Union Trust Co., of Detroit, and is one of the most prominent men of Michigan. We had a smoker the other night and listened to a delightful talk from Dean Briggs. I wish I could quote what he said, but I promised to keep quiet. The Harvard organization is strong and promises to grow in greatness.

"I am still a married man, but have no children. No deaths; no degrees; no literary work of great importance; no political jobs; no books written; no long journeys. However, my health is good, which is a matter for self-congratulation. Just write me down simply thus: George F. Cook, '79 — don't forget the '79 — reporter for the Free Press, Detroit, Michigan. Home address: 242 Locust Street."

JOHN TEMPLEMAN COOLIDGE (Boston, May 11). "My occupation has not changed since 1900.

"My wife died February 12, 1900.

"Since May, 1901, I have been Secretary of the Art Commission of the City of Boston. It may be of interest to know that this commission has to approve of any work of art of whatever nature before it can become the property of the City. I am Trustee of the Boston Athenæum, and of the Museum of Fine Arts, and Chairman of the Visiting Committee in the French Department at Harvard.

"My literary productions are limited to an illustrated article in Handicraft for June, 1903, called 'A Few Considerations of Japanese Wood Carving,' and to compiling a memorial volume of the history and dedication of the Warren Monument, for the City of Boston, in May, 1905.

"In November, 1903, I made a short journey with two of my daughters to Italy, France and England; and this winter I spent a month in California.

"I belong to the St. Botolph and Tavern Clubs. I have been Secretary of the first and Chairman of its Election Committee, and a member of the Election Committee of the latter. I have been for a number of years on the Exhibition Committee of the Copley Society, and also a member of the Executive Committee of the Public School Art League whose work is to decorate the interiors of the public schools with large photographs of the works of art of the world and with casts and flags."

WILLIAM WILLIAMSON COOLIDGE (Salem, Massachusetts, April 6). "In 1901 I gave up business, and in the fall of that year entered the Boston University Law School.

The next two years were spent in the study of the law, and in 1903 I took the degree of LL.B. After graduation I spent a year in travel. The winter of 1904 was spent in Italy, Sicily and Northern Africa. I took up the practice of my profession in the fall of 1904, and am at present located at 125 Washington Street, Salem.

"I served as a member of the Common Council of Salem during the year 1900. This term was the last of five consecutive terms. I have taken and still take much interest in local affairs.

"I am a member of the Essex Institute, the Salem Board of Trade, the University Club of Boston, the Salem Club of Salem, and the Salem Country Club of Peabody."

GEORGE TODD COVERLY has not been heard from. He probably continues to reside in Malden, Massachusetts.

JOHN ELLIOT COWDIN (New York, May 31). "I am still living in New York, and am still in business there. I hope to go to Cambridge for Commencement, and shall endeavor to get there every year, as I look back with very pleasant recollections to our reunion last year."

WILMOT TOWNSEND COX (New York, May 13). "I am still practicing law. On May 1, 1905, I moved my office to 34 Pine Street. I am President of the Washington Square Home for Friendless Girls, and Chairman of the Local School Board, 9th District, New York City."

FRANK LINDSAY CRAWFORD (New York, April 10). "There is not much to say. I still practice law at 32 Liberty Street, New York, but am alone in business, having recently dissolved partnership. I still reside at Summit, New Jersey. There have happily been no deaths or serious illnesses in my family. My eldest daughter, Lesley, entered Vassar College last autumn. Her younger sisters hope to do the same in 1907. The chief event in our family life has been the coming of our first and only boy, Lindsay Crawford, born at Summit, April 30, 1901. He is a good-sized, vigorous boy, who has been brought up outdoors, and will, I hope, some day go to Harvard. About the first words he learned to pronounce were a feeble imitation of the Harvard cheer taught him by his sisters.

"I now belong to the Union League and Harvard Clubs of New York, the New York Bar Association, the Republican Club of New York, and the Highland Club and Canoe Brook Country Club of Summit. I do not remember which of these I reported on five years ago. I have occupied no positions of honor or trust and have done no secular or public work worth recording, though I now and then take a hand in matters of public interest.

"About a year ago I helped to organize the New Jersey Harvard Club, which has just had its second annual dinner at Newark. I served on its Executive Committee for one year. Swayze of '79 has just been elected President of the Club.

"I spend a part of every summer somewhere in the White Mountains, tramping in the woods and climbing, of both of which I am passionately fond. I have thus been drawn to take an interest in the efforts making for the preservation of the forests of that region; but my active part has been confined to writing a few letters to newspapers and to correspondence with others like-minded with myself.

"No degrees, no publications, no journeys of special interest."

ALVAH CROCKER (Fitchburg, Massachusetts, April 6). "My family are all in good health and there have been no deaths or births to chronicle since the last report. I am still actively engaged in the business of paper making. My oldest boy has just started to learn the same trade, having finished his course at Harvard last year."

CHARLES SUMNER CROSMAN (Haverford, Pennsylvania, May 31). "I have no change to report either in occupation or in family records. The hustle and drive of a school of two hundred and fifty boys told so on my nerves this winter that in February I left everything in the hands of able assistants and took a three months' cruise in the Mediterranean. Mrs. Crosman and I, with a few congenial friends, found the tour of the Oriental countries most instructive as well as most fascinating. Tropical Funchal and Southern Spain, Algiers and Malta, Athens and Constantinople, Palestine, including Nazareth and the Sea of Galilee, as well as Jerusalem, Jericho and the Jordan Valley, Alexandria and Cairo, with Luxor and Karnak, then Naples, Rome and a hurried return across Europe, formed an itinerary of surpassing attractiveness and interest.

"I had a moment's chat with Meyer in Rome, as he was leaving for St. Petersburg."

FRANCIS GEORGE CURTIS (Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, June 8). "I have very little to tell you about myself for the past five years — that is, anything of interest to the Class. I spent the summer of 1901 in Europe with my family, but with that exception my life has moved uneventfully from year to year. I am happy to say that neither my wife nor any of my children have died within the period mentioned.

"I still hold my position on the Newton Health Board, probably because no one else is idiot enough to envy me its possession, and I have become too callous, in the course of years, to mind the criticism which goes with such an office.

"Many experiences befall a man in his daily life which are of interest to him personally, but which would cause him to be mobbed were he to attempt to inflict them upon his classmates."

LIVINGSTON CUSHING (Boston, April 29). "I still abide in the same faith, and am still a lawyer in Boston."

GEORGE CHALMERS CUTLER (Boston, May 10). "Taking your heading 'Main Points to be Covered,' first, there is no change in occupation; 'same old game, nothing new.' No new wives, — and, apparently, no prospects in that direction. My sons' names are John, Elliott, Roger, George, Jr., and Robert. All are fitting for Harvard, or at least are giving an imitation of so doing, but I am unable to discover that they consult much with their books in this process. Most of them are rowing, and intend to devote four years (so they say), to getting the Crimson boat over the line ahead of the Blue. Incidentally, I have some vain hopes they may acquire some other kind of knowledge through books during their sojourn in Cambridge, but the signs pointing to anything of this nature are rather remote at the present time.

"Second, my vocation is that of a manufacturer of lumber, and to that end I have offices in New York, Boston, Bangor, Ashland, St. John, and Campbellton, with mills in various parts of the country, chiefly through Maine and Canada. Our principal markets are in the United States, Canada, various parts of the United Kingdom, South America, South Africa, and Australia. Incidentally we give employment to several thousand people, and I feel thereby that we are doing considerable good to our fellow-sufferers.

"Degrees. Tucker was nice enough to bring in to my office last year an ancient document, which we discovered, after scraping off many layers of moss and much fungus growth, to be a Harvard A.B., somewhat delayed in the transmission, but which I was none the less glad to receive as a charming remembrance of the kindly interest and goodness of some friends of '79.

"Third, as to interesting experiences with dates. I have had many interesting experiences, but not with dates. They form such a dry, stale, unpalatable diet that they could hardly be calculated to lead to interesting experiences.

"As to objects which especially interest me. These might be sub-divided into three heads:

"First, Work, which occupies ten to twelve hours per day. This has grown into a habit, and I have a horrible suspicion that it is growing upon me, and I am learning to like it. This I regard as a calamity. Second, Trying to improve my game. I have dreams in the still hours of the night that I can go around the Country Club golf course in bogey, or less, but when I try to verify these in the cold, garish light of the day, and reckon up my score on the front porch, after having torn the surface of the earth to pieces with wicked gashes, I find that these dreams, in the words of Mr. Shakespeare, 'Fade away like the baseless fabric of an iridescent dream, leaving no rack behind.' Third, Trying to give my boys a few pointers. . . . "

FRANK HERBERT DANIELS (New York, June 5). "Since our last report my life has been rather a quiet and uneventful one. My time is mostly spent in the active practice of my profession. The summer of 1901 I spent in making a tour through Norway with my wife and daughter. In 1903-4 I was President of the Harvard Medical Society of the City of New York. I am at present the President of the Medical Board of the J. Hood Wright Memorial Hospital of this city. My family remains unchanged."

SAMUEL DELANO (Boston, June 7). "My life is of the quiet order, not, I hope, quite barren in its mind-yield, but not productive of those glittering rewards that the every-day sort of ambition (scil. American) leads towards. Thus my worldly decorations, causa honoris, are practically nil! I really have made no essential changes since the last report, — even your 'main points' do not cover me, — and this report finds me possessing, I trust, a more or less wholesome mind in an excellently healthy body, and practicing medicine, the 'cello as well, at 39 Newbury Street, Boston."

WALTER DENIS DENÈGRE (Manchester, Massachusetts, June 13). "Since 1900 my life has been less strenuous, my activity less in law and in politics. Spending more time in travelling and at my country place at Manchester-by-the-Sea, I yet maintain some activity in public affairs, and also in educational work as a member of the Board of the Tulane University of Louisiana.

"I have written nothing for publication beyond the correspondence with the Governor of Louisiana last August, which will be found in the enclosed newspaper clipping, and which I enclose for your personal benefit, but not for the Class Report, as it contains nothing of interest to the Class, and refers entirely to local politics in Louisiana."

This correspondence, it should be added, arose from the publication of a speech by the Governor of Louisiana in which he had referred to Denègre as not a true Democrat. The Class Secretary would have asked Denègre for permission to print it if it had not been too long to give in full, or if extracts would have done justice to its vivacity and vigor.

FRANK DONALDSON has not written since May 20, 1900, and the inquiries of the Class Secretary have thus far failed to locate him.

HERBERT BEEMAN DOW (Boston, April 24). "My residence and occupation remain unchanged since our last report. I am the Actuary of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, and can be found each day at my office in Boston, 19 Pearl Street, where '79 men will be welcome at any time. My home address is still Woburn, Massachusetts. I have a daughter who is now a Sophomore in Smith College, and I expect my son to enter Harvard this fall. He took his preliminaries last June.

"There is very little to report of my life for the past five years, one year being quite like another. No publications stand to my credit, and no public offices, except as director of two banks. The only journey taken was a two months' trip about Florida in the winter of 1903-1904."

FRANCIS DE MAURICE DUNN (Needham, Massachusetts, June 4). "In a few days I shall have completed twenty-seven years of service in the public schools of Massachusetts, the last nineteen of which have been in the Boston Latin School. I hope to reach and possibly continue even beyond Dr. Osler's age limit of usefulness.

"My daughter and only child graduates with distinction from Radcliffe College in June of this year. I have a nephew in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"I continue to reside in Needham, and serve my townspeople in various ways. I am looking forward with great interest to read what the members of the Class of '79 have to say for themselves in the forthcoming Report."

MOSES GRANT EDMANDS (Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, May 12). "During the last five years nothing has happened to me which would be of special interest to the Class. Pleasant summers have been spent at Gerrish Island, Lake Minnewaska, York Cliffs, and on the slopes of Monadnock and Mousilauke in New Hampshire. One of my daughters is in the Sophomore Class of Vassar College, and the other graduates this year from the Brookline High School. Besides various business and financial responsibilities, my attention is occupied with church and mission interests both at home and abroad.

"As compared with the brilliant and prominent careers of so many in the class, I am indeed leading the 'simple life,' which I trust is not altogether useless."

RALPH WATERBURY ELLIS (Springfield, Massachusetts, June 5). "(Your heading 'Points to be covered' reminds me of the title I once saw under the picture of three or four tacks patiently waiting in a pedagogue's chair.)

"I shall have to skip the first course of your menu and pass to the second. When I wrote in 1900 I had just graduated from politics, but the allurement of the mayor's chair of a city of 75,000 inhabitants tempted me to take a P. G. course, and in November, 1901, I was elected Mayor of Springfield. The padding wore very thin before the following fall, and I was very glad to resign my seat to some one else. It was a year of hard, worrying work; but if the local press may be believed the work was satisfactory. I didn't have a 'monumentum aere perennius'; but, in connection with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the city, bronze medals were struck, having the heads of the mayors of the years 1852 and 1902, so I have about twenty-five hundred chances of going down to posterity in bronze, while Horace's old duffer had only one.

"Outside of the three days' celebration of the fiftieth anniversary, the most interesting event of the year was the visit of an '80 man to town. I did the best I could, with mounted escort, four-horse turn-outs, military salutes from the U. S. Arsenal and cheering crowds, to do honor to our guest, but the responsibility for the safety of the President of the United States for a day is enough to keep a man awake through a sermon in August. The pleasantest part of the visit to me was when I saw him bowing his farewells from the rear platform of his train. I thought then that perhaps I had been overcautious in employing extra policemen from neighboring cities, putting mounted policemen at each wheel of his carriage, roping off the street, and excluding even the electric cars; but when I read the next day of the killing of his guard, and the accident which nearly finished his career, in another city in the State, I was very well satisfied that the precautions taken in Springfield would have made such an accident impossible here.

"Barring the honor of being selected to act as toastmaster on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the best class that ever graduated, the only other distinction which I have had is that of being allowed for a short time to put my name on little slips of greenish paper and have the general public glad to pay $5 or $10 apiece for them; but that doesn't count for much, as it was only the presidency of a National Bank which I was put into for the purpose of liquidating it. However, it sounds all right to put it in that I am President of the Agawam National Bank of Springfield.

"I joined De Soto Lodge of Odd Fellows in 1902, but otherwise have no new club affiliations; and, with the exception of business trips, brief journeys to Canada, Florida, and Jamaica comprise all my traveling."

GEORGE FAUNCE (Carnegie, Pennsylvania, May 23). "No changes in occupation, residence or family have taken place since the last report. I was chosen Vice-President of the Carnegie National Bank in October, 1904."

EGAR CONWAY FELTON has not been heard from. He is still connected with the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

JAMES ARTHUR GAGE (Lowell, Massachusetts, June 2). "Surely Gabriel's trumpet will have no terrors for '79 men, after being obliged to give an account of their doings every five years; they can simply refer to your reports — or get you to intercede for them.

"The last five years, while they have produced little worthy of public notice, have brought me much to round out the fulness of life. The ever-increasing demands for service that come with the years to a doctor, and the widening field of usefulness that our science is constantly opening, have filled my time with strenuous but stimulating labor. And in order to lighten somewhat the load and to fill up the ruts of old error with new truth I have associated with me a recent Harvard graduate.

"Consequently my shingle now carries two names, and — horrible thought — they call me the old doctor. It has its compensations, however, for I can the more easily find time to cast a fly for the untamed salmon of Newfoundland, and feel the invigoration that comes from life in the open with a taut line and singing reel.

"While my life work has continued during the years to hold my devotion, I have been blessed with what Dr. John Brown calls the 'sine qua non' of man's existence, a wife, and a companionship that makes the preceding years seem quite incomplete.

"In answer to your specific questions, I can only say that my occupation and residence remain unchanged, but the patient horse, after twenty-two years, could defy time no longer, and is succeeded by a gasolene monster that tries to annihilate both time and space.

"I was married at Lowell, September 2, 1902, to Margaret Josephine Walsh, daughter of William Garvey and Ellen Antoinette Walsh."

CHARLES WILLIAM GALLOUPE (Boston, June 6). "I am anxious to write you and let you know that I am here, inasmuch as I received a letter from some college official a short time ago inquiring the particulars of my death. I presume he has made a mistake, as I do not think I am dead yet.

"My life has been rather quiet the last five years, and my occupation and residence remain the same. I have not yet committed matrimony or any other crime in the calendar, and, consequently, cannot give you the names of children, 'in full' or any other way. I have done no special literary work, and am fortunately out of politics. My life has been passed quietly here in Boston, with the exception of one trip which I took in 1902 across the continent to Japan and China. My services for many years in the Massachusetts militia led me to take a great interest in the preparations of the Japanese for their approaching war with Russia, and my knowledge of the Japanese and Russians obtained by travel in both countries has led me to predict exactly the result that we have lately seen. The religion of the Japanese, which is essentially fatalism, has made them very satisfactory soldiers. Moreover, their mode of life, which for the majority is sea-faring, has made their navy far superior to that of Russia. I was not able to see much of Japanese military manœuvres, as their methods have been secret, although it was possible to infer that they were very efficient. My experience in Russia, however, led me to consider the Russian troops a race of farmers of very little intelligence.

"I left this part of the country in January, 1902, in company with Charles C. Williams of Boston, and went to California by way of Washington and New Orleans, taking with me a number of letters of introduction from authorities in Washington, which, by the way, proved of no value whatever. After a very agreeable tour of California, stopping at the Hotel Coronado and other pleasant places, as well as at the attractive clubs in San Francisco, I sailed February 7 on the steamship 'China' from San Francisco, arriving at Honolulu February 15. I stopped here but twenty-four hours, but I had a number of friends in the place, and was able to get a very good idea of its attractions. After a ride up the mountain and a slight investigation of the attractions of the island, I set sail the following day for Yokohama in a heavy sea and pouring rain. On February 22 we had a very patriotic celebration on board ship of Washington's Birthday, the exercises, which I had the honor of conducting, consisting in a program on the illuminated deck in the evening, containing an article on the battle of Manila by Admiral F. Wilder, who was a participant, and was then on his way out to take command of our navy in the East, and a description of the siege of Pekin by Dr. Davis, who was with our troops at that time. Besides this was a descriptive article on Hawaii by E. M. Griffith, who had been a representative of our government in the islands for some time. After the exercises came dances on deck, followed by an elaborate supper and a very efficient punch. As a result of this the smoking room was a lively place until morning, and the following day nobody appeared.

"I arrived at Yokohama February 28, but kept on the same ship through to Hong Kong, where I arrived March 9. From there I went up to Canton the following day. The next twenty-four hours were spent in a tour of Canton, under the guidance of Ah Cum John, and I may say that with our experience of the ships, pagodas, prisons, executional and gambling places, boats for dancing on the river, and numerous drinks of all nations, that one day was enough.

"March 12 we sailed down to Macao, which is a Portuguese settlement at the mouth of the river. This boat was a highly proper place, as among the notices posted everywhere were the following: — 'Passengers are not allowed to be bare-backed, or to dress hair, spit on the floor, or to make a noise in the saloon.' 'Treasure is not considered luggage.' 'If the saloon boys shall do anything to offend the passenger, the passenger shall not punish him, but inform the Captain of the cause.' It is needless to say that the last rule was not followed, and at times the air was full of howls and lamentations. Macao proved a very fascinating place, although the fan-tan gambling places were running continuously day and night.

"We returned to Hong Kong March 14, where we stayed about a week, and went back to Yokohama March 27.

"In Japan I traveled about quite a bit, stopping at Tokyo, Shizuoka, and Nagoya. At this last place we were politely informed by the manager that the 'guests were full of rooms,' but in spite of that we were well accommodated. We stopped some time at Kioto, which is a most interesting place, and the ancient capital of Japan. From there we traveled down to Kobe and back by water to Yokohama. Life in Japan is most interesting, and the people are very friendly, especially to Americans. The proper way to enjoy Japanese life, however, is to avoid the foreigners and mingle at once with the common people, hiring a house for a month at a time, including Japanese servants, and live on the native food, which is especially rice, vegetables and fish, with very little meat. The favorite drink is tea, although the strong alcoholic mixture, called sake, is always to be had, together with beer, for which there are now two breweries in Japan, but which is used at present chiefly by foreigners. Intoxication is practically unknown in Japan, and the simple life of the people appeals to an American who has plenty of time to spare. Their life is far from strenuous, and in my travels through the country I was more and more attracted by it. I certainly have in mind to try it again, with abundance of time at my disposal. It is a dolce far niente existence, the exact opposite of the American way of living.

"I sailed for Vancouver May 2 on the 'Empress of India,' arriving May 13. This is the northern route, and very much shorter, as well as colder and more disagreeable, than the route via Honolulu. I reached home May 21, and since then my residence has been Boston all the time, although to tell the truth, the feeling is beginning to steal over me that I should break away and experiment again on unknown regions."

JAMES McDONALD GARDINER (Tokyo, May 5, 1905). "Your circular of April 4 has just reached me in time to answer hastily by the outgoing Canadian Mail, which may possibly carry it to you in time for our next Report. . . . Another point, and I hope you will not think me merely a faultfinder for calling your attention to it; I am not a Reverend, as so many seem to think. I am a missionary, but a lay missionary. I came out to Japan, you may remember, nearly twenty-five years ago, as a missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church to take charge of a school for Japanese boys, but while I enjoyed teaching such bright and earnest students as they were and are, I soon found so much building to do for our own mission, and gradually for others besides, that I was obliged to resign the teaching work to others in order to devote the time entirely to architectural work, and for nearly fifteen years now I have had my hands full, building all sorts of things, churches, schools, hospitals, and dwellings, so that I have less claim than ever to the 'Reverend' unless my grey hairs on head and beard entitle me to such a title.

"But to get this into the mail I must not wax too loquacious; so to restrain myself I shall take up your questions and answer them categorically.

"The first question as to occupation and residence I have practically answered above. As to my marriage and children, I gave a full account in the report of 1895. No changes have occurred since then, except that we are all just ten years older, and, I hope, wiser.

"Second question. I have written nothing for publication except reports or accounts of some of the buildings of the Mission for the magazine published by our Board and entitled The Spirit of Missions.

"I still belong to the same clubs, though my activity in some of them is not as great as it was when I was somewhat younger and had more time to give to them. Since the '95 report, however, we have organized in Tokyo the Harvard Club of Japan, of which Baron Komura, the present Minister of Foreign Affairs, is President, and your humble servant is Vice-President. We meet regularly once a year for our annual dinner and oftener as occasion demands, when, for instance, Harvard men visiting Japan make themselves known to us. We have had some very pleasant and profitable evenings with a number of these men, among whom I remember Prof. Agassiz, Simpson of '79, and a number of younger men, the last being the Minturns some time last year. We had the Yale Club at a joint dinner with us the evening we entertained the Minturns, and learned that, after all, Yale sends out some pretty good fellows, or at least they become so after leaving New Haven. We have had two such dinners with them, and are expecting to sit around the same board again in a few weeks from now.

"I still hold the office of Councillor and Honorary Treasurer of the Asiatic Society of Japan, and am Secretary of the Tokyo Dramatic and Musical Association, and have been on the amateur stage a number of times for charitable purposes, and have enjoyed it much. Our most ambitious attempt was in 'Charley's Aunt' when I played the part of 'Spettique' with such success as to bring tears to the eyes of my own children, who thought I was being treated very shabbily by the other characters. Since '95 I have joined the Tokyo Club, with members from the higher ranks of Japanese society in the Capital and most of the reputable 'foreigners' (as we have to call ourselves here) living in Tokyo.

"The only public service I can claim to have rendered is that of architect to our American Legation here. I hope some day our worthy Senators and Congressmen may be persuaded to build a Legation Building that will be in some degree at least commensurate with the importance and influence of our country with the Japanese. The present building, which I have altered and improved from time to time, is not a credit to the United States of America, though I am glad to say that I have been able to make it more so than it was five years ago. There is room for improvement yet, but I have about reached the limit, and do not see where much more can be done on such a structure, except to tear down and rebuild on a better plan.

"No degrees have come to me since my A.B.

"As to journeys since 1900, I took one that was most interesting to me in 1901, when, with my wife and three daughters, and a daughter of a Japanese nobleman, we took a trip around the world, going from Yokohama to Shanghai, Hong Kong, Singapore, Colombo, Aden, Suez, and Port Said on the Hamburg-American steamer, 'Kiautschon,' stopping at each of these ports several days, until we reached Port Said, where we left the steamer and made our way to Cairo. There we intended to stop only a week, but owing to the overcrowding of the following steamers, we were obliged to remain three weeks. Taking advantage of this enforced delay and the approaching Easter season I left the family in Cairo and ran up to Palestine, being from Maundy Thursday to Tuesday in Easter week in Jerusalem where, in company with Dr. Dunning of Yale, I was able to see everything worth seeing (and that is saying a great deal) both in the city and the neighborhood. This will be one of the most precious memories of my life. I have often thought since that if I were a free man, without a family to provide for, nothing would please me better than to join the Palestine Exploration Fund and spend several years in exploring that most interesting and romantic country. I returned to Cairo for my family, and then went on to Naples and Rome, where I had the pleasure of finding Meyer, our American Ambassador. We spent ten days in Rome 'doing' it as thoroughly as possible in that time, under the guidance of a most excellent guide, Prof. Alphonso Ginobbi of the Hotel Marini, 18 Via Pagliari, whom I can confidently recommend to any one who is fortunate enough to secure his services. From Rome we went to Florence, where again we were detained three weeks because of the illness of my second daughter. In one sense, however, this was a gain, for had we hurried on as we had planned, we should not have had such pleasant memories of Florence and its art treasures, its beautiful suburbs, and delightful colony of resident Americans. Pisa was the next point we visited, and then beautiful Venice, with its since fallen Campanile, which we were fortunate enough to see and to mount. Then my architectural proclivities demanded a stop for a few days in Milan. Then on to Genoa, where we re-enjoyed Mark Twain's account of his experience with the guide before the famous bust of Christoforo Colombo. Some of our own experiences there were almost worthy of being recorded because of their ludicrousness, for we were all tempted to follow the example of the Doctor in 'Innocents Abroad' and succeeded fairly well in starting our guide on his way to the lunatic asylum. Then our course took us on through the Riviera to Nice, but the first long stop we made was at Marseilles. From there we ran down to Nimes and Montpellier, where a friend of my wife insisted on a long visit to her, so we stopped a week, and were almost sorry to leave when we started for Paris via Avignon and Lyons. In Paris we spent another two weeks before we went on to London, where we had allotted one week for our first visit. During this time we ran out to Cambridge to visit an old friend whom we had known years ago in Tokyo, and at that time a professor in King's College, Cambridge, now Director of Education in the Royal Naval College at Greenwich, Prof. Alfred O. Ewing. Then I took the family to visit in Scotland my father's birthplace, Auchtermuchtie, Fifeshire, and my mother's old home, Kirkcudbright, with Edinburgh and Glasgow of course en route. Whether it was out of respect to the Scotch blood in their veins or for some other occult reason, the children all insisted that they enjoyed the visit to Scotland more than any other place, and I am not sure that I did not, too.

"After Scotland, where we spent some three weeks only, we rushed back to London for another week before our steamer left Southampton for New York, where we arrived in the latter part of June. We showed our young Japanese protegée as much of our glorious country as we could manage to do, and in some of our travelings about I met a number of our class-mates, Thorp and Taussig in Cambridge, where we could spend only a day or so, and Hyde in Brunswick, Maine, Barlow, Brewster and Wright in New York, Leonard and Felton in Philadelphia, etc., but I would have given a great deal if I could only have been present with you all last Commencement. I really doubt if any member of the Class reads more eagerly and with greater interest every word of the Report than one who is so far away and has to miss these pleasant reunions which those of you at home so often enjoy. The invitations Hanks sent out last year (or was it the year before?) made my mouth fairly water with the desire to join in the good things provided for the more fortunate, but if I were not there in person I was often so in spirit at least, and I was glad to learn that you were all having such a good time.

"My permanent address is here at No. 15 Gabancho, Tokyo, Japan, and not 281 Fourth Ave., New York, except when I am at home sometimes on furlough. I hope that any member of the class coming out to Tokyo, or Japan, as so many people are likely to do, after this frightful war is over, to see something of these wonderful people and the equally wonderful land in which they live, will not forget to look me up. I assure you you will find the latch-string out for you all, and I shall do what I can to make your stay pleasant in any way in my power."

*WARREN NORTON GODDARD was born July 17, 1857, on West 11th Street, New York. His father was Joseph Warren Goddard and his mother Celestine Gardiner Goddard.

I first knew him in our Freshman year when we both roomed at Mrs. Howe's on Garden Street. He had prepared for Harvard at the Anthon Grammar School. He did not have many friends when he came to college, and neither had I, but it was some time before our acquaintance ripened into friendship. As a Freshman Warren was perhaps unusually "fresh." He had early learnt to have confidence in himself; he was accustomed at home to have his ideas treated with respect; he expressed them with the greatest candor, and, although they were sometimes above the heads of his brother Freshmen, they would often respond to his seriousness by poking fun at him. There was something deliberate about the working of his earnest mind that was a temptation to the rest of us to tease him. The teasing was pretty persistent and not always kind, and one of the first steps in our friendship was a flash of recognition on my part of his extraordinary patience and sweetness.

He never was a man of many friends, and by those who did not know him well he was very little understood. He never slighted his work, and was always earnest and sincere in every word he spoke. The same earnestness which was at the bottom of his scholarship led to his steady and normal physical development, and finally to his being the single scull champion of the college, in which capacity he defeated Livingstone of Yale. His chief characteristics were earnestness, sincerity, a capacity for gentle tenderness toward those whom he trusted, and a transparent honesty of character which those who had eyes might see. These qualities, which were the foundation of his honorable college career, grew and ripened with his maturing life.

He became a partner in his father's business about a year after leaving college, and while developing the organizing qualities of a good man of business, he at the same time achieved the far greater accomplishment of a true human relation with every one of the employees of the establishment. While maintaining a high standard of duty, both for himself and others, he always respected the individuality and the rights of those with whom he had dealings. I never noticed a touch of sentimentality about him, but he had a great capacity for human sympathy, which he put into practice in all the relations of his life.

He was married on May 8, 1890, to Annie Reboul Larocque, daughter of Joseph Larocque of New York; but his married life was very short, for his wife died on April 25, 1891, leaving a little daughter, Annie Celestine Goddard, now in her fifteenth year.

His love of human service was all the more vigorous that it was based upon a very definite religious instinct; and this manifested itself, in his later years, in his efforts to contribute to the happiness of the people with whom he came into contact on the East Side of New York City. He was the founder and first president of the Friendly Aid Society, which is still carried on according to his principles, and includes a settlement house which goes by the name of the Warren Goddard House. The spirit of this work is the farthest possible removed from that of conventional charity. His aim was to share with others in a neighborly spirit, to meet on the common ground of human sympathy, friendship and interchange of ideas, and he did not permit differences in external conditions to interfere with the essential unity of manly human relations. The Friendly Aid Society was Goddard's chief interest outside of his business at the time of his death, and it is a fitting expression of his character, as well as an example of his simple and direct way of turning his aspirations into useful service.

He was a sound scholar, a victorious athlete, and successful merchant; but — more than these — a broad-minded man, a loyal friend, and a loving servant of his neighbor.

He died in New York, July 25, 1900, shortly after his return from a trip to Europe, which he had taken for health and rest.

ARTHUR A. CAREY.

HERMAN WHEATON GRANNIS (New York, June 2).

"Shortly after our last class report I severed my connection with Scribner's Magazine to start in business on my own account. During the time that has elapsed since then I have been engaged in developing the H. W. Grannis Advertising Agency and the Grannis Press with a satisfactory degree of success. We have recently moved our entire plant to much larger quarters, at 110-114 West 32d Street.

"I am Vice-President and Director of the Nevius Company, Jewelers, New York.

"My greatest personal interest lies in a farm in Dutchess County, New York, somewhat recently acquired, which I have every hope of making a profitable venture, besides furnishing much pleasure and recreation."

EDWARD HALE (Cambridge, Massachusetts, May 15).

"My occupation has remained unchanged. I am still teaching homiletics in the Harvard Divinity School and am still minister in charge of the Unitarian Church at Chestnut Hill. In May, 1901, I was elected President of the Meadville (Pennsylvania) Theological School, but I decided not to accept the position.

"In the summer of 1901, at the request of a committee of the Harvard Divinity Faculty, appointed to consider the feasibility of publishing the lectures on theology of the late Charles Carroll Everett, I undertook to edit the lectures which Dr. Everett delivered in the shorter of his two courses in theology. These lectures were published by the Macmillan Company in 1902, under the title, 'The Psychological Elements of Religious Faith.' I am now editing the lectures on theism to which the lectures on the psychological elements of religious faith formed the introduction. Dr. Everett left no manuscript of his lectures in theology, and I have had to depend for my material entirely upon the notes taken by students.

"I have found increasing enjoyment in all of my work, both the work with the little parish of which I am the minister, and that which comes to me directly and indirectly in connection with my position in the Divinity School. If there is any one thing which I have valued above the rest it has been the opportunity given me from time to time to conduct morning prayers in the College Chapel.

"I have travelled little in the five years. A visit to Buffalo in the fall of 1901, very short, but made delightful by Almy's hospitality; a similarly short but similarly pleasant visit to Poughkeepsie one Sunday in January, 1902, when I preached at Vassar College in the morning, and in the evening at the church of which W. B. Hill was then the minister, a week in Baltimore a little later in 1902, and two or three hurried trips to New York — that has been all, outside of New England. My summer vacations for the five years have been spent in New Hampshire, on the outskirts of the White Mountains at Shelburne, Tamworth, and Bridgewater, and at Jaffrey in the beautiful Monadnock region. I am a novice in mountain climbing, as compared with other members of the Class, but some of my experiences in these recent summers, more especially a night on Adams some years ago, and a day spent with Hudson last summer on Monadnock, brought a pleasure the zest of which is fresh whenever I recall them."

CHARLES STEDMAN HANKS (Boston, April 21). "Your circular letter comes while I am laid up with a ruptured leg muscle, the result of doing 'stunts' on a spring board at the Brookline swimming tank with Stedman, my son, who is now home from Groton on his Easter vacation. Our last Class Report, with its brilliant red cover, is on the bed beside me. I have thumbed it over for inspiration, but it is apparent that when we wrote it, most of us held Almy's letter of advice in one hand and ground out copy. We all told of our successes, and the more important the game of checkers, the more modestly we spoke of it, which shows the kind of stuff the men of '79 are made of. Some of us wrote only a few lines, because of our temperaments, and those who had nothing to say I am sure were confident that their suppressed energy would later show itself in their children. Some of us spoke of our clubs, some of us of the corporations in which we are officers, and a few of us spoke of gray hairs, which no longer is of special interest. Most of us wrote that nothing of importance has occurred since the last report, and most of us, I presume, will do the same thing this time, as it is still early for reports of grandchildren.

"So much for a preliminary canter. I have no births, no deaths, no marriages, and no change of address to report. In the summer of 1901 we cruised for three months along the Maine coast in our house boat remodelled from a coasting schooner. It differs from all house boats that I know of in having four bay windows. In the summer of 1902 we still cruised in the house boat. One afternoon when we were out of sight of land between Cape Ann and Monhegan Island we were caught in a storm, and that night, while I was getting a cat nap, the wicker sofa and I found ourselves in a heap at the other side of the cabin. As my weight is one hundred and ninety-six pounds and the toss was twenty-four feet, this shows what the swing of the waves can do when the conditions are right. That cruise took the yachting fever out of the family, and in the summer of 1903 after reading 'The Lightning Conductor' we had a try at the same trip. Most people will tell you that automobiling is sport, but if your nerves are on edge from eight o'clock in the morning until six at night wondering whether you are going to run into a tree, or over a dog, a chicken, or a pig, it is only a question of time when you get what Englishmen call 'the jumps.' We had the jumps, sent the automobile back to Paris and recuperated until fall at a French watering place. But I am getting ahead of the chronological order of 'interesting experiences and journeys with dates.' In February, 1903, a friend invited me to go with him to South America on his yacht. I will say here that the man who tells you that deep sea yachting is fun, after he has seen what the wind can do, is not a truthful man. During a gale of ten days we were blown half-way across the Atlantic, at one time being nearer the Azores than America. It was awful. One afternoon the one sailor whom I knew by name was jerked overboard, while pulling in on the trysail. I was the first to see it, as I was standing beside him at the time, and threw him a life preserver, but as he could not swim he missed it. He was, however, able to get hold of the log line, which was trailing astern, and as soon as I saw him dragging along on the top of the water, for we were going twelve knots an hour, I crawled to the stern of the boat to pull him in. A second sooner and I could have saved him, but just as I was reaching for the line the knot pulled out of the swivel. A minute later we saw him throw up his hands, then only his blue tarpaulin was floating on the water, and although no one said it, we all felt that a shark had taken him. We had launched a boat at the first cry of 'man overboard,' and cruised about the rest of that afternoon, hoping that after all he might still be above water, but we never saw poor Dick again. For days and nights I saw that agonized look when he threw his hands into the air, and many a night, as I lay in my berth, I spelt words with my fingers to shut it out. Finally we made the island of St. Lucia, and from there sailed to Martinique to see the ruins of St. Pierre after the eruption of Mount Peli. From Port au France, where we anchored, to St. Pierre is a hot all-day's drive of twenty miles, and that night, after we had seen the ruins, we decided to stay at a negro settlement in a grove of palm trees further up the shore. The people were fishermen and a bad lot, and their settlement was three miles from the nearest road. A fat, greasy negress said we could stay at her house, and after we had had our supper, which I might tell you about, the room began to fill with negroes. This did not strike me as anything peculiar until a burly negro, in a brazen-faced way, asked me for a drink of whiskey. With the best French I could get together I told him I didn't have any, and then he said, what in English would be 'Damn you, you have.' While I was talking rather fast in English and breathing hard, the negress came between us, and told me that we must go up-stairs at once. At the head of the stairs were two rooms, and in the dirtiest room I was ever in we spent the night, the negress sitting on the stairs, the men staying in the room below, sometimes coming to the foot of the stairs, but not daring to come up, as our friend had told them that we were armed, although two pocket knives were all the ammunition we had. She had as hard a face as any of them, and I believe what saved us was the fact that our courier went with us to her house, before he left, to tell the captain to bring the boat around, and she had foresight enough to know that if anything happened she would be held accountable. The next morning when the boat dropped anchor in the roadstead the men disappeared, and the comedy, which I always felt came near being a tragedy, was over. One incident closed the episode. When we had paid our bill, and said good-bye to our dark-skinned Amazon, she took my hand and kissed it, and then put out her cheek for me to kiss. Her Mother Hubbard dress was covered with grease, she had only two front teeth, and her face and hair were — well, simply were; but I kissed the cheek willingly. My friend, who is a particular sort of man, said in a low voice, as I started on the job, 'Well, I wouldn't do it,' with emphasis on the I. The old lady heard him, walked over to where he stood, turned her cheek broadside, and he kissed it more vigorously than even I had done.

"So much for 'interesting experiences.' I do not want another. In the summer and fall of 1904 we were in California and the Canadian Rockies, and so far this year there's nothing doing. I can only say what some other fellow has said, and therefore put it in quotation marks, 'There's always a day after today.'" LOUIS BRANCH HARDING (Boston, April 18). "I am still in the wool business at the old stand, — No. 620 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, — handling chiefly foreign wools, representing as agent for America some large European houses.

"Early in 1901 I brought my family to Chestnut Hill, where I have since built, and hope to reside permanently.

"On November 15, 1900, my third daughter, Lucy, was born in Stamford, Connecticut.

WILLIAM BURT HARLOW writes, April 8, from his home at Somers, Connecticut.

His first child, William Morehouse, was born at Somers, December 18, 1900; a second son, Frank Norman, born January 18, 1902, at Somers, died February 10, 1905.

He has written "Scenes Abroad and Other Poems," published at Springfield, Massachusetts, in 1900, a paper on "Circumcision in Infancy," in the New York Medical Record of September 26, 1903, an article on hypnotic influence, entitled "The Willing Game" in Public Opinion, February 4, 1904, and an article on "Glacial Remains at Kibbe, Connecticut," in the Springfield Republican of July 25, 1904.

RICHARD HEARD (Boston, April 18). "I have continued in the business of musical management with such artists as Chaminade, Paderewski, Bauer, Mascagni, Schelling, etc. The season of 1903-4 was spent in Washington, as manager of the Symphony Orchestra there. In the summer of 1904 I returned to Boston, and now make my headquarters there. My address is the St. Botolph Club."

SAMUEL HILL (Washington, D. C., April 20). "I am doing nothing, but hope to get to work shortly. My legal residence is Seattle, Washington, and I have a place at 1712 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, and one at Lenox, Massachusetts. I have done nothing worthy of record. McLennan and I had a trip through the Yellowstone, which was most enjoyable.

"You ask, does anything interest me. I answer 'Yes, Harvard.' Recently I have had lantern slides made of the grounds, buildings, etc., and have offered prizes for the best essays suitable to be read to boys of from fourteen to sixteen years, on the question, 'Why Should a Student Choose Harvard University?' I hope it will arouse interest in the subject, and bring us some new men of the right sort.

"Two years ago I brought Professor Yamashita to the United States, and introduced the art of Judo (the Japanese art of defense without weapons) in this country generally, and especially at Harvard. Later Professor Yamashita was taken away from Harvard without my permission, although I acquiesced finally.

"I have been interested for some years in having globes built. One of these I gave to a friend in the War Department. I am told that these globes are used for official measurements.

"I am President of the Seattle Harvard Club.

"What a good time we did have on our Twenty-Fifth Anniversary!"

WILLIAM BANCROFT HILL (Poughkeepsie, New York, April 10). "When I sent in my report five years ago I was endeavoring, with the aid of an assistant, to perform the duties both of a pastor and of a college teacher. The work in the College increased rapidly, and in June, 1902, I gave up my pastorate and accepted the position of Professor of Biblical Literature in Vassar. The courses I offer are wholly elective; they seem to be popular, and I greatly enjoy my work. I am at present building a house on the College grounds, which looks as if I expected to spend the rest of my days as a Vassar professor.

"The only extended trip I have taken was a cruise around the Mediterranean on the 'Augusta Victoria' in the spring of 1901.

"The only book I have written is a very little one, 'The Present Problems of New Testament Study,' published by Gorham in 1903."

GEORGE HOADLY (Cincinnati, Ohio, April 10). "They say that land is happy which has no history, and if the same is true of man, I may esteem myself supremely happy. I am still practicing law at the old stand [St. Paul Building, Cincinnati], and I still live on Grandin Road, where I shall be most happy to see you or any other '79 man who may happen to be passing by.

"Not being a Mormon, I have not married since the last report, and no children have been born, and I am glad to say that, except for the results of the flight of time, my family is just as it was.

"I have done no literary, scientific, political or commercial work, nor have I been appointed to any position of honor or trust. I still am a trustee of the Cincinnati College, as I have been for a number of years past, since long before the last report.

"I am still, as I have long been, especially interested in the historical and scientific aspects of our law, and form many good resolutions to prosecute studies in that direction with more vigor, but they share to a great extent the usual fate of such resolutions."

ANDREW HALL HODGDON (Dedham, Massachusetts, April 28). "Again I have to report no change in occupation or residence. I still practice medicine in Dedham, where I have been located over twenty years. Besides the three sons mentioned in the last report, I now have a daughter, born October 17, 1900. Her name is Ruth Ellis Hodgdon.

"My literary work has been limited to papers before local medical societies. My appointments of honor or trust are purely local, connecting me with the Dedham School Board, the Public Library, and the Savings Bank. I am still Medical Examiner for this district. My clubs are the Fisher Ames and Norfolk County Club. My longest journeys have been to England and the Continent in 1900, visiting the Paris Exposition, and to St. Louis in 1904, with my wife and sons, to visit the Columbian Exposition."

GEORGE CLARENDON HODGES (Boston, April 7). "'Story! God bless you! I have none to tell, sir.' Fortunately you bar statistics, — fortunately, because I have none to give you. Mr. Edward Atkinson, on the top floor of this building, has cornered the supply, so you are saved from that infliction.

"As a matter of fact, Ned, no one of your first three 'main points to be covered' hits me where I live. I have not changed my occupation or my residence, I have not been married before or since March, 1900, I have not done any literary, scientific, political or commercial work, nor, in a word, am I guilty on any of the specifications."

JABISH HOLMES (New York, June 5). "The life of a lawyer in this city is much the same from year to year. There has been with me no change of residence or occupation since the last report. The firm of Dixon & Holmes has remained at 32 Liberty Street during the last five years. My only literary work consists of numerous printed briefs, which, unfortunately, do not count in your list, and although of interest to me, and, I trust, to the courts to which they were submitted, would hardly interest the Class. I am a member of the University Club, the Harvard Club, and Bar Association, all of the city of New York, and of the Garden City Golf Club, where I play when I can find the time, and often meet members of the Class. I attended Commencement last June, and it was a great pleasure to be with so many members of the Class at the old College and see the great advance that she had made. I enjoyed it all greatly, and I hope that all members when here will drop in on me, for it will always be a pleasure to see them."

THOMAS JOHNSTON HOMER (Washington, D. C., May 30). "My life for the last five years is soon told. My beloved mother, on the 2d of August, 1899, passed from this life into life immortal.

"I think you may already have from Almy the happy record of the birth of my second child, Edmund Stowell Homer, on the 17th of November, 1903.

"After the privilege of some experience as a volunteer in the Boston Public and Harvard College libraries, and the course in 1904 at the Amherst Summer (Library) School, and a brief period in the Amherst College library, I reported here at the Library of Congress for work, on the first of October, 1904. I am thankful to be in library work, and in this marvellous library."

DUANE HOPKINS has not been heard from directly. His address is now Stockdale Ranch, Bakersfield, California.

SAMUEL HOWLAND HOPPIN (New York, May 31). "I regret to say that my life recently presents nothing especially worthy of record or that would be of interest to my class-mates. To all who were present, the reunion of our Class last year will probably figure as one of the pleasantest happenings of the past five years.

"I am still practicing law at No. 55 Liberty Street, New York, the name of my firm being Hoppin & Berard."

EDWARD LOVELL HOUGHTON (Cambridge, Massachusetts, May 12). "At the time of our last report I was pastor of the Universalist Church in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. I remained there until the fall of 1903, completing then a pastorate of eight years. I look back upon those eight years of my home and work in Pawtucket with, upon the whole, considerable satisfaction. Not that any startling events characterized my pastorate, nor that I produced, or tried to produce a 'boom.' But I found myself growing through those years into continually higher and broader ideas of the work of a Christian church in a community, and I was continually striving to work out these ideas in the life of that particular church, and with a fair degree of success. A debt of $5,000.00 was raised, and the parish left free from debt. Pew rentals were abandoned, and the more business-like as well as more Christian way of direct advance pledges for all expenses substituted. A comprehensive plan of transformation of the Sunday School from old-time to modern ideals was partly worked out, beginning with the primary department, which is now an excellent example of a Bible kindergarten. The young people were organized, and set to work in many ways for their own development and the good of the community, — as 'King's Daughters,' for general charity and especially summer fresh air work, in boys' clubs, for amusement and instruction, in sewing schools, for the help of the poor; and a sufficient number, chiefly young people and children, were imbued with the Christian spirit of going out after the unchurched, so that as many as thirty families, before without the slightest connection with any Christian church, were brought more or less under its influence. Thirty-five members were added to the fellowship of the Church.

"When I believed that my work was finished and the time to go had come, a suitable opening did not appear. I therefore determined to come to Cambridge for a time, led not only by the intrinsic attraction of the place, but also by the fact that my daughter was nearly ready to enter college, and it was desirable that she should be at home for the first year at least. From six years of age she had chosen Radcliffe for her college.

Last fall she entered the Sophomore class, three years after beginning her preparation in the Pawtucket high school. While her preparation was mainly in the public school, I, perhaps, had somewhat to do with it, inasmuch as the latter part of the time I used her for material in experimenting with certain educational theories of mine, to the effect that it is entirely possible, by use of different methods, greatly to abridge the time commonly used in various preparatory studies, particularly foreign languages.

"I have spent some of my time the past year in trying these same theories more extensively upon my son. He is nearly ten years of age, has never been to school, and never had, until this year, anything like systematic instruction. He had, however, worked through Bradbury's Practical Arithmetic, the geography taught in the Grammar School, and knew more American History from his own reading, than I do, or ever did. This year he has studied Latin, German (begun last year), Algebra, and English History, with a little English Composition (which is his abomination), thrown in once in a while. Then he goes out and plays ball, or anything else. He has very nearly covered the ground of the first two years in Latin in the Cambridge Latin School, while in German and Algebra I should not hesitate to set before him the elementary examination papers for Harvard. In fact, I shall probably try him in some of them before the end of the year.

"I am confirmed by this bit of experimenting in my belief that for those who expect to study foreign languages the best time to begin is much earlier in the course than usually, before Algebra, and much of Arithmetic, or even History and Geography, as studied in the last grades of the grammar schools, since all these things require more advanced mental development than the elementary stages of a foreign language, while the memory, especially necessary for the acquirement of the elements of a foreign tongue, is quicker and more retentive in the earlier years than in the later.

"I have made no journeys, have had no new honors or work, have not published anything since the last report."

FRANCIS AUGUSTINE HOUSTON (Concord, Massachusetts, June 4). "Looking back it is difficult to realize that five years have gone by since our last report. I see no high peaks or prominent headlands in the way of striking incidents, but still, they have been busy — I hope, useful — years. I note with gratification that much time and thought have gone to the making of two little boys into sturdy big ones, and it is a genuine surprise to me that the elder will go to his preliminaries this very month. In the full realization of this fact I find the first convincing testimony that five years have elapsed.

"Showing a bit of respect to the line of thought which you outline, I announce a change in occupation, as of January 1, 1904, upon which day I laid down highly specialized legal work to become the General Manager of the telephone company with which I have so long been associated as counsel. I am still to be found, however, by class-mates who favor me with a call, in the same building on Milk Street, No. 101, and doubt if there is outward evidence of the change in occupation which I report.

"To your remaining suggestions I can make little response until I come to your request for 'present address' which is — and I hope will continue to be — Concord. There have been times when I have contemplated the compilation and publication of elementary Latin, Greek, and mathematical treatises for the instruction of the young, but I have put off the work until it is no longer required for family uses, and is not likely to take a finished form.

"My public service has not gone beyond membership in our town School Committee, an activity which I continue to find most congenial.

"My social clubs remain as heretofore reported, with the addition that there came to me, in 1901, the honor of election to the Social Circle in Concord.

"My journeys are still in the future. Each year they are duly planned, only to be laid aside for next year under the pressure of immediate and exacting duties. It begins to look as though my experiences of travel must await that period of semi-retirement which is still a long way ahead for men so active as those of our Class."

WILLIAM HAMMOND HUBBARD (Chicago, April 11). "Since the last report there have been no changes in my family, excepting in the growth and development of my children, three daughters and a son. My oldest daughter is now in her last year of school, at Miss Kelley's in Cambridge. As she could not go to Harvard, I wished her to have at least a knowledge of Cambridge as I have, and as evidence that she has the love we all have for the dear old town, I quote a few lines from her last letter: — 'I wish that you might have seen the sunset on the Charles yesterday; it was beautiful. I dined in Marlborough Street, and then walked out, following the river, and in by Soldier's Bridge. It was about four miles, and perfect walking. I am afraid that I am going to miss Cambridge very much next year; it is strange how fond one can grow of the place!' Though my daughters can not go to Harvard, my boy is eager for the time when he will go, and he already cheers for 1915.

"In reading the list of suggestions under the second of the main points to be covered for the report, I realize how little I have accomplished. For I have been sick much of the time for the last five years. I am glad to say that I am now as well and strong as formerly. The business that I was in for more than ten years was killed in January, 1901, by the competition of more powerful rivals, and this came when I was far from well. It was not until the spring of 1902 that I was able to get into the harness again. I then took charge of the office work for a firm of contractors, building a line from East Cairo to Paducah in Kentucky. In the latter part of July the heat and poor food brought back my old trouble, which resulted in blood poisoning. After four weeks in the hospital in Paducah, I was taken to Lake Forest, my home, where I soon began to improve. It was nearly two years, however, before I was able to work again.

"I have done a little writing, but nothing for publication. I am a member of the Harvard Club of Chicago, the University Club, the Chicago Literary Club, and the Onwentsia Club and the Winter Club of Lake Forest. In none of these do I hold any office, I am pleased to say, for I feel that all my attention must be given to the business in which I am now engaged. It is entirely new, and the first plant has just been completed and, we hope, will be in full operation within the next few weeks. We own certain patents for the United States, taken out by Dr. Alexander Classen of Aachen, Germany, for the production of 'Ethyl Alcohol,' 'Wood Alcohol,' charcoal, and other by-products, from sawdust and the waste wood from sawmills. It promises to be a fine business, and is particularly valuable in that it utilizes what has been heretofore a waste product. Later on, and, I hope, before it is too late for the report, I shall write you as to the success of the process.

"During the long period of my enforced idleness, I spent much of the time in a small workshop which I have, making various things, both of wood and metal. I found this work a great resource, and it gave me the exercise needed. The only writing which I did during that time was for my children, telling of various incidents of my early life, such as my experiences in the 'Great Fire' of 1871, and my work on the telephone with Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, in Boston, during my Freshman year.

"As you see, my life has been uneventful, quiet, and with little in it of interest, and what I have written comprises all there is to tell."

WOODWARD HUDSON (Boston, April 10). "I approve of the hopeful tone of your circular of April 4, but there is little that can be stated about my life for the last five years, except a very few 'statistics' to which you vainly wish me not to 'confine' myself.

"There has been no change in my residence or occupation, no change in my family; I have done no literary, scientific, political or commercial work; I have had no college degrees, made no literary efforts, joined no clubs.

"I was elected on March 25, 1901, Trustee of Town Donations of Concord for nine years. I was also elected Water Commissioner of Concord on March 25, 1901, for three years. This board of commissioners was consolidated with the sewer board by act of Legislature passed February 6, 1902, and accepted by the town February 27, 1902, and on March 31, 1902, I was elected Water and Sewer Commissioner for one year. My only town offices now are those of member of the Trustees of Town Donations and Treasurer of that Board, and member and Treasurer of the Concord Free Public Library. On December 1, 1903, I was appointed Trustee, member of the Investment Committee and Solicitor of The Middlesex Institution for Savings, our local savings bank, and am still serving in those positions, in which I succeeded Houston of our Class. Samuel Hoar of the Class of 1867, Counsel of the Boston and Albany Railroad, N. Y. C. & H. R. R.R. Co., Lessee, with whom I had served as assistant from October 1, 1887, died April 11, 1904. On June 17, 1904, I was appointed Attorney for that railroad. On October 6, 1904, I was elected Counsel of The Boston and Albany Railroad Company. I still hold those positions.

"My present address is Concord, Massachusetts, or 340 South Station, Boston, Massachusetts.

"I wish I could furnish the Class with some interesting experience or entertaining episode, but I am occupied with everyday practical life to an extent sometimes monotonous to me, the story of which must be always so to my friends."

WILLIAM EVERETT HUTCHINS (Boston, May 31). "I know of nothing of interest to add to the last report. My occupation is the same, my address the same, my residence the same, and my family the same."

WILLIAM DEWITT HYDE (Brunswick, Maine, April 11). "My life for the past five years has been as uneventful as usual. The College has grown steadily in numbers and resources. During this period there have been added to its buildings a library costing about $300,000, and generally regarded as one of the finest college libraries in the country. We have also added a very complete grandstand and athletic building of stone and brick, which is as complete for our purposes as is the Stadium for the needs of Harvard.

"I have published two books: 'Jesus' Way,' published by Houghton, Mifflin & Company in 1902, and 'From Epicurus to Christ,' published by The Macmillan Company in 1904. The latter consists of a course of lectures delivered a year ago before the College Club of Portland, Maine, the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, the Institute of Arts and Sciences in Brooklyn, New York, and Haverford College, Pennsylvania.

"At the Congress of Arts and Sciences at St. Louis in September, 1904, I read a paper on 'The College,' which was published in the Educational Review for December, 1904."

DAVID OTIS IVES (Omaha, Nebraska, April 24). "I was very glad to get your circular, and wish I had something that would be interesting to our class-mates.

"I came to Omaha in December, 1902, as General Freight Agent of the lines of the C. B. & Q. Company west of the Missouri River (some 4,500 miles of road).

"There have been no changes in my family, and I have done no work which would be of interest; nor have I had any interesting experiences or journeys, although I have probably traveled as many miles (up and down over the same ground), as almost any one.

"My present address is Omaha."

GEORGE WEST JACKSON (Boston, April 10). "There has been no change in my occupation or residence since our last report. Another boy, Allen by name, was born June 28, 1902. The University Club and Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club are the only clubs to which I now belong, and I am but a private in the ranks."

MARTIN RILEY JACOBS continues to reside at Brownsville, Pennsylvania.

HENRY WARREN JOHNSON (Boston, June 23). "I have very little to write concerning myself since the last report was published. The only event worth mentioning is a second trip to Germany during the spring and summer of 1902. My time otherwise has been wholly absorbed in my practice."

His residence continues to be at Berlin, New Hampshire.

WEBSTER KELLEY continues to reside at 37 Springfield Street, Boston.

PRESCOTT KEYES (Concord, Massachusetts, May 5). "I am still living in Concord and practicing law in Boston. Owing to the tearing down of the building where I had had my offices for many years, I have now taken new offices on the eleventh floor of Barristers' Hall, Pemberton Square, whence I get a fine view of the harbor.

"I have been President of the Concord National Bank since January, 1901.

"I am much interested in my automobile (a Stanley steam runabout), and usually drive it each day from Concord to Boston, averaging over fifty miles."

CHARLES ARCHIBALD KIDDER (Boston, April 13). "Since our last Class Report was issued I have renounced my life of leisure, having been given, in June, 1901, the position of Manager of the Transfer Department in the office of Kidder, Peabody & Co., Boston. This occupies the largest part of my spare time, so that with the exception of short jaunts in my own country I have done no travelling since that date.

"My list of literary efforts is confined to my letters to the Class Secretary, and my political work to one year (1901), as one of the Board of Assessors of the town of Southborough, Massachusetts, to which position I was elected by my fellow townsmen by the large majority of two votes. Although elected for three years, I resigned at the end of the first year, as I felt it somewhat of a wrench on my conscience to be a Transfer Agent and an Assessor at the same time. The most important event in my life during the last five years was my trip to our Twenty-Fifth Anniversary last Commencement."

EDWARD PHIPPS KINGSBURY (Olympia, Washington, April 15). "My post office address and general history continue the same as at the date of our last report. I am still holding the position of United States Surveyor-General for this State, to which I was reappointed March 1, 1905, for another term of four years."

*WALTER MOODY LANCASTER was born at Lowell, Massachusetts, November 6, 1857, and died at Worcester, August 16, 1901. He was the son of Samuel Thomas and Lucy Ann (Moody) Lancaster. On the maternal side he was descended from Rev. John Rogers, the fifth president of Harvard College, and many of his ancestors were Harvard graduates. He could also count in his ancestral line a captain of the Colonial forces and one of the representatives to the first Congress. He himself was educated in the public schools, being a medal scholar and valedictorian of his class. During his college course he devoted much time to history and to music, a study which he began with a competent teacher at the age of nine, and followed with increasing interest to the end of life. He was active in the social life of his college class, being elected vice-president of the Pi Eta Society.

After graduation he engaged for three years in commercial pursuits, but gave these up to enter upon newspaper work with the Lowell Morning Mail in 1882. During his connection with the paper he became city editor, and had much influence in shaping its course and increasing its circulation. At this time also he entered political life, being elected to the Lowell School Board, a position which he filled until his removal to Worcester in 1886 to accept a position on the Spy. After two years with this paper he was called to New York as musical critic for the Times, the quality and originality of his work demanding for him immediate recognition.

After the death of his father in 1889 he returned to his old position upon the Worcester Spy, remaining with that paper for ten years. During this time he became actively interested in the work of the Worcester Musical Association and compiled the annotated program book annually up to the time of his death. He also entered largely into the social life of Worcester, becoming a member of the Bohemian Club, the Tatnuck Country Club, and the Quinsigamond Boat Club.

During the last two years of his life he engaged independently in literary pursuits as musical critic, editorial and magazine writer, and during the winter of 1900 he served the Boston Herald as critic during the grand opera season.

On June 4, 1892, he was married to Sarah, daughter of J. Henry Hill, a prominent Worcester lawyer, and had two children, Southworth and Bruce Lancaster.

Although he did not have his usual health during the last year of his life, his final illness was of but two weeks' duration, and he died of Bright's Disease at his home in Worcester August 16, 1901.

Such is the bare record of a full life ended abruptly at its prime. But as fellow classmates we seek some measure of this fullness, some knowledge of the man's influence on life about him. Let those speak who knew him best and did life's work at his side. He inherited from his Puritan ancestry those sterling qualities that have left their mark upon New England character, and his frank and receptive nature found in the careful nurture of his Alma Mater a soil for the growth of these qualities into a ripened character of beauty and strength, a character that was not tarnished but enhanced by contact with the active life of the world. "Of a peculiarly sensitive and modest disposition, his greatest worth was known only to those who knew him best. A loyal-hearted man and true, with every year of his life one unblemished record, he stood for everything that was high and good, and was never known for one moment to lower his ideals of highest honor." "He was quick to grasp the idea of power in journalistic work; he set up a good standard and was faithful to it. He was a peculiarly effective writer, combining with an added sense of what was material a marked felicity of expression and directness of statement." "He was thorough and painstaking to a marked degree, and, like most newspaper men, he loved his work. As a writer his work was uniformly good. He was an authority in musical and dramatic matters, and his judgment was highly valued. Throughout his connection with the Spy he maintained its reputation for truth, accuracy and honorable dealing. His editorials reflected his own sterling character and high principles." Philip Hale says of him, "The life of Mr. Lancaster was gentle. Overworked, he did not show impatience. Distressed when there was violent enthusiasm for that which was positively bad, he kept cool and still used ink instead of vitriol."

Such is the record of a life full of honor for its possessor, credit for his Alma Mater, and inspiration for his classmates. Its fullness cannot be measured by the number of its years.

J. ARTHUR GAGE.

WILLIAM BADGER LAWRENCE (Boston, May 11). "I have held no public offices for the last few years, except honorary ones, such, for example, as Delegate to the Republican National Convention last year in Chicago, to represent in the Convention (with ex-Alderman Carstein of Cambridge) the cities of Cambridge, Somerville, Medford, and Woburn, and the towns of Winchester, Arlington, and Belmont. I am still an attorney-at-law, and Corporation Clerk of the Boston and Maine Railroad and Clerk of its Board of Directors."

ARTHUR HOWARD LEE (Buffalo, New York, June 3). "Since the last report I have moved from Scranton, Pennsylvania, to Buffalo, New York, where I have been for the last three years. My occupation is the same — Superintendent of Blast Furnaces of the Lackawanna Steel Company.

"There has been no change in my family, except that the children are growing up fast, and I shall soon have a son ready for the Harvard Scientific School.

"The Harvard and the Westminster Clubs are the only ones to which I belong.

"My family generally spend the summer on Eggemoggin Reach, Penobscot Bay, Maine, where I also put in two weeks which go altogether too quickly."

THOMAS LEE (Frogmore Post Office, South Carolina, April 23). "I have been leading a very uneventful life since last report, spending the summers at Westport and the winters here in South Carolina.

"I am very reluctantly taking hold of the subject of colored education here. I have consented to serve as Trustee and Vice-President of The Port Royal Agricultural School. We are attempting to turn the schooling more toward industrial lines, and to see if we can turn out boys and girls better able to farm these lands which respond so readily to intelligent treatment. It's a pity that we have got to push these colored people out of their natural, happy, irresponsible way of living toward what one calls Progress and Civilization, with the endless scrabble for money and all the attendant longings, to say nothing of the actual poverty and misery involved. However, they have got to face this change, and we hope we can work out some method of education that will help these people. There has been a good deal of schooling that has enabled the brighter individuals to better themselves, mostly by leaving the State. We are striving for something that will help the average boy and girl who of necessity must stay at home.

"We have to beg our way, and it is a thankless task, but I have been among these people so long, and been so long interested in farming problems, that I may be able to help this thing along, and I feel that I have no right to shirk the task."

FREDERICK MOSES LEONARD (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, June 16). "When a man who, practicing actively as a lawyer, has been for more than twenty years absorbed in protecting and promoting the interests of other men, is asked to say something about himself, he is at a loss for an answer. Of the chess-games of finance, railroad, and industrial development, politics, etc., in which he as a lawyer has had a hand, he could tell you some entertaining stories, and some stories even better. But of himself, what can he say? This, my dear Hale, will indicate the difficulty in which I find myself when I try to answer your kind inquiry for the Class Report of '79."

HERMAN STEWART LEROY has not written. He still does business in New York, with offices at 10 Wall Street.

WALLACE MACFARLANE (New York, June 6). "There has been no change in my occupation or residence since 1900. I am still a lawyer, residing in New York, and my office is still at 32 Liberty Street. I am unmarried.

"Since 1900 I have not been engaged in any work of the kind referred to in the circular of the Class Secretary, nor have I filled any public positions, or received any college degree, since that date."

CHARLES SAMUEL MACK (La Porte, Indiana, April 11). "My occupation and residence are as in 1900. My fourth son and fifth child, Julian Ellis, was born April 26, 1903.

"I might mention as an especial interest the question whether the medical profession is to become united. I think that the split over homeopathy will not prove final. Another especial interest is what was done through Swedenborg. For the past nine years I have been licensed to preach in the New-Church, and I have preached several times a year."

He has written a number of papers, which have been printed in the Hahnemannian Monthly and other journals. A full list of these papers is given in the record of publications by members of the class, on page 157 of this report.

FRANCIS McLENNAN (Montreal, Canada, May 16). "I have made no change in occupation since the last report, but my address in winter time is 949 Dorchester Street, Montreal. In summer I live at Indian Lorette, a few miles from Quebec. At either place I shall be glad to see any member of the Class.

"I have been working quietly at law without venturing into other fields. In 1903 I was named King's Counsel, and last year was made a Fellow of the Corporation of McGill University. I have been for two years a member of the Committee on French at Harvard.

"My clubs are the Mount Royal of Montreal, the University of New York, and the Royal Societies, London.

"In 1903 I went to England with my wife. We were fortunate in our opportunities for seeing the Coronation and the Naval Review. Then we spent some weeks at Schinznach Bad in the Aargau, a very charming part of Switzerland, all the more so that it is not much affected by the stream of travel. One interesting experience was a visit to a local shrine, where we saw nearly twenty thousand peasants. In these quiet places in Switzerland there is much to be learned and great pleasure of a quiet sort to be had, not the least in getting to know the Swiss people. From Schinznach Bad we went to Lugano, where again we were lucky in meeting some interesting people, and thence to Florence and Rome.

"In Rome I saw something of the work of the American School of Archæology. Every Harvard man should go to visit it. He will come away proud of his University and glad to contribute to help Richard Norton in the work he is doing so well. To Meyer's hospitality I was indebted, as so many have been who visited Rome while he was Ambassador, and thanks to Sam Hill, I got to know two most interesting Monsignori. In Paris, on my way home, I saw some literary men whose kindness warmed my heart to that country.

"That fall I went abroad again, making my longest stop in Rome, where I was in the same hotel with W. W. Coolidge. I met more Italians in Rome, in Perugia, and in Venice, and owed much to their friendly, hospitable ways.

"Last summer I went out to the Yellowstone Park, and afterwards to Seattle with Sam Hill, and became as enthusiastic a Westerner as he is."

EDGAR MADDEN (New York, June 5). "I was very much pleased to receive your letter some time ago, in reference to the new report of the Class. I am sorry to say that I have been so occupied that the matter escaped my immediate attention, and I feel that it is now too late to put in any extended account of myself. Therefore, be kind enough simply to state, if you can, my present office address at 49 Exchange Place, New York."

FRANCIS COFFIN MARTIN (Roxbury Station, Boston, April 24). "I go on the even tenor of my life much as usual. Outside of my domestic life, perhaps you would say that some departments of the Fine Arts, and the affairs of the Society of the Cincinnati are my especial interests. I am blessed with many good things, but am very gray, and pretty bald. However, even that is hardly a distinction now, in Seventy-Nine."

ATHERTON PERRY MASON (Fitchburg, Massachusetts, May 1). "My father died in March, 1901, at the age of nearly ninety-one years. He and Samuel W. Rodman, of Boston, were, up to that time, the only survivors of the Class of 1834, and were among the oldest living graduates of the College.

"I have continued in the general practice of medicine and bacteriological work, and hold the same official, medical and Board of Health positions, and belong to the same societies and organizations that I did five years ago. The passing years have brought me to the position of Vice-President of the Worcester North District Medical Society, and I hold the same office in the Fitchburg Medical Club. My membership in the Boston Society of Medical Sciences and Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health brings me into occasional contact with many very agreeable scientific men, and enables me to keep in touch with the advance in bacteriology and sanitary science.

"As a side issue, I was drawn into business to a slight degree a year or two ago, and I am President of the Fitchburg Horn Goods Company.

"My only journeys since 1900, aside from short vacation trips, have been one with my family to Cape Breton and the Bras d'Or lakes in the summer of 1902, and one to Florida and the South in April, 1904."

CHARLES JEREMIAH MASON (Brooklyn, April 11). "I came to Brooklyn, as assistant to the Rev. Reese F. Alsop, D.D., Rector of Saint Ann's-on-the-Heights (Episcopal), in February, 1900, and I still continue to hold that position. My three children were all born before that date. The two little girls, Blanche and Harriette, were born in San Francisco, — Blanche, on May 31, 1893, and Harriette, on June 10, 1894, — and the boy, Charles J. Mason, Jr., in Orange, New Jersey, October 26, 1899.

"During the last five years all our summers except one, when we were at Point Pleasant, New Jersey, have been spent on the beautiful coast of Maine, at Prout's Neck, near Portland, but this year we hope to try the Adirondacks.

"I cannot report any special honors or achievements, literary or otherwise.

"Last summer, in August, I made a trip of some sixteen days to Costa Rica, with my father-in-law, Hon. William L. Merry, Minister Plenipotentiary to the Central American States of Nicaragua, Salvador and Costa Rica, on his return to his post from his summer vacation. The journey by sea, past Jamaica, Watling's Island, the end of Cuba, and through the Caribbean Sea, was most interesting. I sailed from, and to, Boston. The trip from Port Limon, the Atlantic port of Costa Rica, through the banana plantations, along the marshy lowlands, and then up by the winding railroad, over four thousand feet, to San José, the capital, was magnificent. Such scenery! While at San José I had the honor of being presented to the present President, Esquivel, and I also had the good fortune, though it was out of season, to see the gorgeous opera house during a performance. Moreover, I saw the ceremony of the consecration of the new Roman Catholic Bishop.

"From San José, Mr. Merry and I travelled by train and on horseback across the country, to the Pacific Costa Rican port of Puntarenas. So I went from ocean to ocean. It was a hard trip, especially the saddle part of it, during which we went through a fierce thunderstorm; but it was well worth while. From Puntarenas we were taken by government tug up the Gulf of Nicoya, a beautiful sail, and along a lovely river to the little settlement of Bebedero, where an immense ranch of the United Fruit Company is situated. Here we were in the midst of tropical vegetation and life, — cocoanut trees, fine mahogany trees and other valuable woods, and alligators, white-faced monkeys, parrots and parroquetas, and macaws with their gorgeous plumage. A native swarmed up a cocoanut tree right beside the hacienda and gathered some cocoanuts, of which we were given the milk. 'De gustibus!'

"While in San José I preached twice at the little Anglo-American Chapel, for there is quite a colony of English and Americans, both at the capital and at Limon, though they are not great church goers. Limon, by the way, owing to the improvements made by the United Fruit Company, and through the energy and activity of the English and American residents in general, has become of late decidedly healthier, though at no time can I imagine it as a pleasure resort."

HENRY CHAPMAN MERCER continues to reside at Doylestown, Pennsylvania, where his special interest is still the manufacture of pottery and tiles. In 1902 he invented a method for making mosaics, and in 1904 a process by which large colored designs may be printed on fabrics and on paper without a press. In 1904 he was awarded a Grand Prize at the St. Louis World's Fair.

GEORGE VON LENGERKE MEYER (St. Petersburg, April 12-25). "I was appointed Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Rome by President McKinley December 11, 1900. On March 7, 1905, I was appointed Ambassador to St. Petersburg by President Roosevelt. I left Rome April 1, after a sojourn there of over four years, during which I had been deeply touched by the kindness of the people, and much impressed with the great attractions of Italy. I arrived here April 7, and was surprised to find it practically the same as mid-winter, as the country from which I had just come was in the full bloom of spring.

"It would not be proper for me to go into the conditions in Russia at this time, and I shall content myself with stating that the question of constitutional and representative government is agitating the minds of the people and arousing much attention, notwithstanding the fact that the country is engaged in a serious war with Japan.

"I regret that it will be impossible for me to be present on Commencement Day, June 28."

GEORGE NORTON MILLER has not been heard from. He probably continues to reside and practice medicine in New York.

JAMES WILLIAM MITCHELL continues to reside and do business in Boston.

WILLIAM INGALLS MONROE (Boston, April 12). "There has been no change in my occupation since 1900. I have published nothing.

"I am a member of the University Club of Boston and of the Harvard Musical Association."

JOHN GAVIN MORRIS (South Boston, June 13). "I am still practicing medicine in South Boston, and have recently been appointed Medical Examiner for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. I am a member of the American Medical Association and of the Harvard Union."

GEORGE STORER MOTLEY (Lowell, Massachusetts, May 1). "I live in Lowell. I am the President and General Manager of the gas company here, and am interested in one of the banks, of which I am active Vice-President.

"I belong to the Union Club of Boston."

HENRY COOLIDGE MULLIGAN continues to practice law in Boston and Natick, Massachusetts. He still resides at Natick.

HERBERT WILLIAM NEWHALL (Lynn, Massachusetts, June 9). "There is little to add to my previous reports. There have been no changes in my family. Last fall I was elected a member of the Lynn School Committee, and have become much interested in the methods of education in our common schools."

JOHN LORING NICHOLS continues to do business in Boston, with his residence in Somerville, Massachusetts.

*JESSE ROWLAND NORTON died at Ironton, Ohio, June 25, 1900. His wife wrote to Almy as follows:

1208 McGavock Street, Nashville, Tennessee, December 11, 1901.
DEAR MR. ALMY:—

Ever since Mr. Norton's death, I have intended notifying his Classes of Harvard and Swarthmore. Ill health and caring for the children have kept me busy, and then it is hard to write when one is in trouble. Jess always kept up with his Class, and was interested in his College friends.

He came to Tennessee in 1887, I believe, and lived here four years. Then he went to Chicago in 1891. We were married November 15, 1894, and lived in Chicago three years. His business was paving and guttering in asphalt. We moved to Nashville in September, 1897. Jess was sick from August, 1899, until his death in June, 1900. I am thankful to say he did not suffer, except during the last three weeks. Just a week before he died we carried him to his mother's home in Ironton, and there he breathed his last, and lies in the little Ironton Cemetery with his father. His death was caused from cancer of the tissues, beginning in his right arm. It never appeared on the surface, and it was months before the doctor told me what the trouble was. I hope Jess never knew. He was up and walking around until just ten days before his death. Then the disease went to the brain, and caused his death immediately. We have three children, one girl, Evelyn, and two boys, Frederic and Jesse Rowland. If there is anything further you would like to know of his life, I will be glad to let you know.

Sincerely yours,

EUNICE POLK NORTON.

CHARLES PIERCE NUNN (Boston, April 26). "In our Class Report please change my business address from 600 Atlantic Avenue to 316 Summer Street. Otherwise there has been no change in my life during the past five years. I made a three months' trip to Europe this winter."

CHARLES NATHAN OSGOOD (Washington, D. C., May 27). "My duties for the past five years have been continuously what they were five years ago, and consequently I have kept pretty close to Washington. I have no new offices, publications or children to report, but have a boy at Old Harvard who expects to graduate next year, and another who hopes to enter the year following. I was glad to be told by several of the fellows at our quarter-century dinner last year that I hadn't grown old a bit, and am glad to say I found numerous opportunities to return the compliment."

FRANCIS BARTLETT PATTEN (Boston, June 8). "At the time of my last report in 1900 I had just left the Massachusetts Title Insurance Company, and had opened an office in Boston, with the intention of making a specialty of real estate law. One of the pleasantest features of this brief stage of my career was the examination of titles for the Metropolitan Park Commission, and it is a great satisfaction to have been thus associated, though in a subordinate way, with the great work which the Commission is carrying on under the able chairmanship of Casas, for the preservation of the natural beauties of the Metropolitan District.

"In September, 1900, I entered the service of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, at its Home Office, 178 Devonshire Street, Boston, where I still remain. My official title is 'Counsel for the Weekly Premium Department,' though my work is not confined to that branch, but has to do with the various legal questions that may arise in any of the departments of the Company.

"The only club to which I belong is the Club Español. This club was formed in 1901, and has for its object the bringing together for study and social purposes of the Spanish-speaking people of Boston and vicinity and American students of the language. Casas is its Vice-President, and several Harvard men, among them Lawrence and Martin of our own Class, have been among its members."

*EDWARD CLIFFORD PERKINS, born in Florence, Italy, January 17, 1858, was the elder son of Charles C. Perkins of Boston, one of the founders of the Boston Art Museum, and Frances Davenport Bruen of Newport. He attended Hopkinson's School in Boston, but his more immediate preparation for college was at St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire. He entered college as a Sophomore in 1876. In college he was a member of the Institute, the Pudding, the O. K., the A. Δ. Φ., and the Art Club. He was also on the Crimson Editorial Board. He wrote a poem for our Class Supper in April of our Sophomore year, and the Class Ode for our Class Day. He roomed in Beck the latter part of his course. He was often at his father's delightfully hospitable home on Walnut Street, Boston, thus losing something of the full swing of college life, but perhaps gaining much more from the cultivated people he met there. His summers were spent at Newport. In college, as in later life, he was simple, friendly, unassuming, interested in his studies, in literature and art, but not much in athletics, although he played tennis.

While still in college he became engaged to Miss Elizabeth Hoar Evarts, the daughter of Hon. William M. Evarts. He spent his first year out of college in the law office of Hon. George F. Hoar at Worcester, and his next at the Harvard Law School, rooming with Keyes in Matthews. In April, 1881, he went to the International Monetary Conference at Paris as private secretary to Mr. Evarts, and in the fall of 1881 he spent two months in the law office of Col. S. R. Honey at Newport, whence he went to the office of Gray and Davenport, 115 Broadway, New York. He was married at Windsor, Vermont, August 2, 1882, and in November was admitted to the New York Bar.

The long waiting years of preparation were now over, and he was fairly started on his career of a successful lawyer, a good citizen, husband and father. He continued with Gray and Davenport, being soon admitted to the firm. Upon Mr. Gray becoming a Justice of the Court of Appeals, the firm name became Davenport, Smith & Perkins, then Smith & Perkins, and then Perkins & Jackson. His practice was large and remunerative, and he worked hard at it. One of his later cases was the case of Goetze vs. United States, 182 U. S. 221, before the Supreme Court, in which it was decided that Porto Rico ceased, after the treaty with Spain, to be a "foreign country" within the meaning of the tariff laws. He carried into his relations with his clients and brother lawyers a certain personal element which could, perhaps, be called New England, and which certainly came largely from his New England training and ancestry. This made him a valuable member of the grievance committee of the New York Bar Association.

His home life was most delightful. He had four boys and two girls. His oldest son is in the Senior class at Harvard this year and his second son in the Sophomore class. After a few years in New York, he established his home in Plainfield, New Jersey, and chief among his local interests there was the Episcopal Church.

October 30, 1902, in the full vigor of his manhood, with everything his which makes life worth the living, he died of pneumonia after a short illness of ten days. An irreparable loss!

PRESCOTT KEYES.

FRANK LESLIE PORTER (Lawrence, Massachusetts, June 14). "The past five years have been with me uneventful but prosperous. I wish I had something interesting to report, but unfortunately I have not been doing remarkable things. I am of course connected with many of the institutions of the city, a trustee of the Public Library, a trustee of the Broadway Savings Bank, Chairman of the Trustees of our Unitarian Church, etc.; but it goes without saying that '79 men everywhere are more or less active in work of that kind.

"We have an exceptionally good literary and social club (the 'Monday Night Club') composed mainly of college men, and what little writing I do is for this club.

"I do not know that I have anything further to say, except that I should like to correct an error in our last Class Report, in which I was surprised to find it stated that I have no children. I have a daughter, born September 25, 1888, who expects soon to enter Wellesley, and a son, born January 2, 1893, who is in constant training for the Harvard base-ball and foot-ball teams, and is a very promising candidate."

HARFORD WILLING HARE POWEL has not been heard from. His address is probably Newport, Rhode Island.

WALLACE PREBLE (Cambridge, Massachusetts, May 14). "I am still practicing medicine at 22 Appian Way, where my family has remained the same as at the last report. I have been Aurist and Laryngologist to the Cambridge Hospital since '91, and at the Avon Home. For the last three years I have been one of the censors of the Massachusetts Medical Society. I am still a member of the Boston City Hospital Alumni Association, Colonial Club, and Cambridge Medical Improvement Society."

WALTER CONWAY PRESCOTT now resides at 29 Berwick Road, Newton Centre, Massachusetts. He writes that except for this change in residence he has nothing new to report.

THOMAS WEBB PRESTON (Boston, April 18). "I can't tell you of any very exciting events in my life since 1900, as I seem to have left the excitement when I left my old life in the West. I have, as you know, been in business at this address [186 Boylston Street] since 1901, with an occasional trip away, — to Cuba, to England, etc.

"I was married in 1902 to Mrs. Effie Grace McLennan of Chicago."

EARL BILL PUTNAM (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, April 22). "There is little to add to the last report. My address is the same, I have the same number of children, and my occupations are pretty much the same as five years ago. Nothing startling has happened, unless I except our Twenty-Fifth Anniversary, which was indeed memorable.

"I find, upon referring to the last report, that the number of my children was erroneously stated to be five. It should have been six, four girls and two boys. The list should be corrected by adding the name of Katharine, born at Waterville, New York, August 4, 1898. Otherwise it is correct.

"The club list might be revised by adding the Harvard Club of New York, Philadelphia Country Club, Merion Cricket Club, Philobiblon Club, Waterville Golf and Pickwick Clubs of Waterville, and by striking off St. David's Golf Club and the Huntingdon Valley Country Club."

BENJAMIN RAND (Cambridge, Massachusetts, June 20). "In January, 1900, the first proofs of a 'Bibliography of Philosophy' were received from the Oxford University Press. Ever since, proof has been regularly forwarded, until the work now amounts to twelve hundred pages of double columns. Midsummer of the present year will witness its completion. Of a task of such magnitude perhaps the insertion of the following paragraph from the as yet unprinted introduction may be permitted, to reveal the spirit which has inspired the labor: 'The endeavor has been to make this work, so far as possible, an international bibliography. Since the titles of the books are in the language in which they originally appeared, the work will in every country be equally serviceable. In the selection of literature, also, there has been no discrimination based on national prejudice, and the countries richest in philosophical literature are here represented in the order of their importance. The true scholar ought, as Shaftesbury, the greatest of modern Stoics, teaches, to be a citizen of the world. . . . Justice toward all and prejudice against none is the spirit which has pervaded the production of this work. If it happens in coming years that students of philosophy shall first turn here for the sources of their information, and, without retracing the steps already laboriously trod, shall proceed more readily with their own original researches, then this work will indeed have served a useful end. That it shall give readiness of access to the works of the 'great ones' in philosophy and shall render available to all the literature of those systematic subjects with which philosophical writers have dealt; that it shall furnish the means through which philosophical libraries may more readily be founded or enlarged; shall prepare the way whereby through study, new systems may be created and new philosophers arise; that it shall testify to the intellectual brotherhood of man by true service toward all: — are hopes which have lightened toilsome hours and stimulated to renewed efforts in the preparation of this work. If, in spite of the work's limitations, any of these purposes shall hereafter be fulfilled, the aim desired by the author will have been attained, and its real reward received.'

"With the publication of this book, however, I deem the task only half completed. My ideal would be to found 'A Philosophical Library for the American Continent' which shall be the counterpart of this 'Bibliography of Philosophy.' And for such a library what more fitting institution could be named than our own beloved Alma Mater? And what more appropriate place in it could be chosen than the new 'Emerson Hall'? For the attainment of this end I have addressed a printed letter to the Chairman of the Harvard Philosophical Department, in which I have estimated that $50,000 would be the cost of the forty thousand volumes necessary as a minimum for a Continental Philosophical Library. The ideal has been well received. Its realization waits upon 'the sinews of war.'"

WILLIAM MINARD RICHARDSON (Boston, April 25). "I have suffered no change in occupation or residence since 1900. My present business address is as before, No. 57 Equitable Building, Boston, Massachusetts; my residence is 180 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

"I plead an alibi to all the other accusations of the indictment."

FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE (Los Angeles, California, June 7). "In accordance with your request, I am sending you a brief outline of some of the work that especially interests me in this Great Southwest, and it is with pleasure that I enumerate below some of the enterprises of which I am the President and the principal stockholder.

"The one that I believe is doing the greatest amount of good on this side of the Mountains, and which has achieved phenomenal success since its incorporation, is the Conservative Life Insurance Company. The Middle River Navigation & Canal Company and the Rindge Navigation & Canal Company have successfully reclaimed about twenty-five thousand acres of tule lands near Stockton, California. The Artesian Water Company and the Maclay Rancho Water Company are achieving success in the production of vegetables and citrus fruits, and in addition thereto I must not fail to mention the Artesian Company, which is carrying on an extensive real estate and colonization project covering a million acres of choice lands in the State of Sinaloa, Mexico. As a director of the Edison Electric Company and Vice-President of the Union Oil Company of California, I am keeping in touch with the question of light and power.

"I am President of the Y. M. C. A. of Los Angeles, a work that I am greatly interested in, and one which affords me much enjoyment, and Vice-President of the Southwestern Branch of the American Institute of Archæology.

"Since the last report I have published a book entitled 'The Best Way,' a religious work which went to press in 1902."

EDWARD ROBINSON (Boston, May 3). "The most important change in my work since our last Class Report was my appointment as Director of the Museum of Fine Arts, in Boston, which was made on May 27, 1902. In consequence of the added duties involved in the acceptance of that position I was obliged to give up my teaching at Harvard, and therefore resigned my position as Lecturer on Classical Archæology about the same time, which I did with the greatest regret; for during the four years of my service at the University, I lectured to about a thousand students, and the interest which the great majority of them showed in the subject of Greek Art made me feel that in some small degree I was repaying the debt of gratitude which many of our Class, and many more outside of it, have owed to Professor Norton for what he first taught us to appreciate.

"In the three years that I have been Director of the Museum my work has been of a more or less routine character, principally that of helping in the development of the organization of the institution and its collections. The consideration of plans for a new building, which is to be erected within a few years, has also occupied much time and thought.

"Since the spring of 1900 I have been in Europe three times, — in the summer of that year, when with my wife and son I went as far as Constantinople, where we spent a month; in the winter and early spring of 1904, when I went as one of a commission of our museum to study the museums of Europe with reference to our new building, and this spring, when I received the honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Aberdeen, upon the occasion of the opening of a new municipal art gallery in that city."

EDWARD ABBOTT ROBINSON (Buckland, Massachusetts, June 23). "I am no longer settled here, my present address being Hingham Centre, Massachusetts. . . There have been no deaths in my family, no births, no anything indeed of importance to the worthy Secretary or to the Class. The years have gone quietly by, while I have ministered to the needs of a country parish. . . . I came from Wollaston to Buckland in 1898, and from Buckland to Hingham Centre in 1904."

HIRAM HOLBROOK ROSE has not been heard from at this time. His address is: Care of the Colonial Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Illinois.

THOMAS RUSSELL (Boston, June 10). "The only addition to my history since the last report is the birth of a son born May 19, 1904, and named William Goodwin Russell."

CHARLES ELLIOTT ST. JOHN (Brookline, Massachusetts, May 8). "Five years ago I had just been elected Secretary of the American Unitarian Association, with headquarters at 25 Beacon Street, Boston. I assumed the full duties of that office July 1, 1900, and am still occupied with them. This Association is the principal executive body of the Unitarian denomination, and so I am its man of all work, chairman of most of the committees of its Board of Directors, and assistant to the President in preparing business for the monthly Board meetings. The Association publishes liberal religious books and free tracts, deals with churches and ministers, and exerts an influence throughout the United States and somewhat in Canada in founding new Unitarian societies and aiding enfeebled ones.

"Such responsibilities as these take me out of the active pastorate and cause me to spend most of my week-days at the office at headquarters. Yet I am preaching more than ever, not only every Sunday in one or another church, but frequently on other days. About twice a year it is my duty to take a long journey in the visitation of the churches and conferences, while hardly a week passes without a short trip to some New England church or churches. I try to interest the strong churches in the welfare of the smaller or new ones, and I endeavor to act as an adviser, who is at least official if not wise, among the less prosperous societies.

"During the five years these journeys have taken me into all but four of the States and Territories of the Union and those have been passed by only because my denomination has no churches in them. I counted my mileage the first year till it reached 20,000 miles, and then got tired of keeping the record. The following quotation from my second official annual report may serve to show the amount of this side of my work:

"'Rev. Charles E. St. John, Secretary of the Association, has during the year visited ninety-five churches, scattered over the following States: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Texas, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Delaware, Canada, and New Brunswick. He has preached seventy-four times, delivered forty-eight other addresses, taken part in six installation services, two church dedications, ten conferences, and seventy-four meetings of boards, committees, and other special meetings.'

"The next year, in an extremely interesting journey of about seven weeks, I visited all the Unitarian Churches west of the Rocky Mountains, from San Diego to Seattle, Helena, Salt Lake, and Pueblo.

"I write frequently for denominational publications, but am of necessity less of a student and reader than formerly. All this makes an arduous life, but I am favored with good health and so stand the work well.

"I still render active service as a trustee of the Meadville Theological School, was preacher of the sermon before our National Conference at Saratoga in 1901, and have been honored by one appointment as a preacher to Cornell University. I am this year one of the Directors of the Ministers' Institute, and a member of the Society for Promoting Theological Education.

"As a recreation I practice photography, and often of late have illustrated my addresses on the progress of Unitarianism by lantern slides made from the photographs I have taken on my journeys. If Nat Brigham doesn't look out, I shall loom up as a rival in his own field."

HENRY RUFUS SARGENT (Holy Cross, West Park, New York, May 3). "I have little to add to my report of 1900. With the single exception that in May, 1904, our Community, the Order of the Holy Cross, transferred its residence to this place, West Park, on the Hudson River, my life has been practically unchanged. Here at Holy Cross the opus Dei, in chapel, the correspondence and other writing, and the farm work, in which all have some share; abroad, the work of mission preaching and duties of like nature: — these fill up and constitute a busy life. In the fall two of our Fathers leave for a mountain work in Tennessee where we hope to build a mission-house and conduct a school for boys. Five miles from this point the Sisters of St. Mary are carrying on a similar work, and training, through the greater part of each year, girls who, when properly equipped, are sent back to their homes, not out to service.

"I have written nothing of any value, nor have I received any degrees or other honors. In my last report I was announced as having been sent out to 'peace conferences.' The error was due to my poor handwriting. The word was 'preach,' not 'peace.' The misprint may have been evident to some, but it may have read somewhat grandiloquently to others. We are making a humble effort to develop the regular life in the American Church, and we do not aspire to regulate affairs of State, in great or small.

"In closing, I want to express my sincere gratitude to all who were responsible for the arrangements connected with our meeting last June at Cambridge and Brookline. Many tender memories were called out of the past quarter of a century, and we took out of our hearts old scenes and faces and grew young again."

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD (Boston, April 22). "From the time of my last report to the Class Secretary until 1899 I kept on at the bar in Boston without the occurrence of any event of importance. In 1899 I was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature as a representative from Malden, and held that office for four years in succession. In 1902 I was appointed by Governor Crane a Justice of the Superior Court, and qualified as a Judge on the last day of that year. The Superior Court is a court of general jurisdiction both at law and in equity, and is subject to review by the Supreme Judicial Court. I enjoy the work well, being now in my third year."

WILLIAM HENRY SCHWARTZ (Bangor, Maine, June 10). "My home is still in Bangor, Maine. My occupation also is the same that it has been since 1881, viz., manufacturing saws and dealing in belting and saw mill and pulp mill supplies. I am associated with my brother under the firm name of M. Schwartz' Sons."

EDWARD WESTON SHANNON has not been heard from at this time. He probably continues to reside and practice law in Kansas City, Missouri.

WILLIAM SHEAFE (Boston, June 20). "I have absolutely nothing of interest concerning myself to offer for our seventh Class Report. With the exception of one trip abroad last summer, I have remained at home here in Boston since 1900. My city address is 153 Milk Street, Boston."

GEORGE RUMSEY SHELDON (New York, April 25). "Hard work with a few mild pleasures thrown in has been my lot. In a business way I have become Vice-President of the City Trust Company, Treasurer and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the North American Company and the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, and of the Edison Electric Company of Detroit, President of the Electrical Securities Company of New York, a director in the United Railways Company, the Union Electric Light & Power Company, and the Laclede Gas Company of St. Louis, and in the American Locomotive Company and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

"I still keep up my interest and work in politics, and in 1903 was appointed by Senator Hanna member of the Republican National Committee from the State of New York."

STEWART SHILLITO (Cincinnati, Ohio, May 10). "My commercial work has been the same as formerly, except that it has increased. In December, 1903, I was elected a member, for a term of two years, of the Executive Committee of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, an organization perfected in 1903 for the promotion of more friendly business relations and mutual confidence and good will between jobbers of Dry Goods and those with whom they have dealings.

"I am at present a member of the Harvard Club of Cincinnati, the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, the Cincinnati Commercial Club, the Young Men's Business Club, the Queen City Club, the Country Club, the Riding Club, etc. I am Treasurer of the Cemetery of Spring Grove, a director of the Third National Bank of Cincinnati, President of the John Shillito Company, a trustee and Treasurer of the Second Presbyterian Church and Society of Cincinnati. I am also a member of the New York Yacht Club, the Merchants' Club, and the Racquet and Tennis Club, New York."

HENRY AUGUSTUS SHUTE (Exeter, New Hampshire, April 27). "Your letter, stating the lapse of another five years, finds me in Exeter, still engaged in the practice of law, and having but little to show for it but gray hairs, disappointed clients, and bent shoulders.

"I noticed, however, and with some misgivings, an increased deference shown me by young men and boys of my town, for which I was utterly unable to account, until I overheard a boy ask my son if the 'old man' was at home, which placed matters in a somewhat clearer but disagreeable light.

"The brief mention I made in my last report, of the unsuccessful literary ambitions I had somewhat stealthily cherished, appeared to me a joke. The considerable success I have since then attained in this line still seems a joke to me, only a joke of larger size.

"The 'Diary' which appeared as a serial in our local paper, attracted the attention of a firm of Boston printers, who offered to publish it in book form. It appeared in November, 1903, and its success was unexpected by me. This led to the publication in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia of 'Sequil or Things Whitch Aint Finished in the First,' and which was issued in book form in September, 1904, by the same firm, the Everett Press, which, by the way, is composed of two Phillips Exeter and Harvard men, H. D. and Theodore Everett. This second book has been successful, and has encouraged me to write a third, which is now appearing somewhat irregularly in the Saturday Evening Post, under the title of 'The Works of Plupy Shute,' and 'The Love Letters of Plupy Shute' and which the Everetts have again preempted.

"A series of six articles in the Leslie's Monthly Magazine, 'Stories of Real Boys,' is a part of a much larger series, which is completed and ready for publication. Personally, I prefer this series to anything I have written, but the judgment of my publishers does not coincide with mine. . . If I should schedule here all the manuscripts that have been returned by unfeeling and heartless publishers, I should make out a most formidable list. I have sometimes thought of publishing a series of 'Rejections' in which the various phases of editorial horror could be readily portrayed, from their letters of rejection.

"I have during the past winter greatly enjoyed giving informal talks and readings from these rejected articles, before clubs in various New England towns and cities."

EDWIN DAY SIBLEY (Boston, April 20). "Your circular of April 4, 1905, asking for some account of my life during the past year, is before me, with a request that I answer at the earliest possible date. You also give me a list of the main points to be covered, and I will answer them to the best of my ability.

"1. 'Any change in occupation or residence since 1900?' I practice law for a living. The Good Book speaks of the law and the prophets. I have not seen the profits and therefore am out of change.

"'Names of children since March, 1900.' Same two children, same wife and, thank God, no deaths.

"2. 'Literary, scientific, political or commercial work?' None. I wrote a book once, but no one could say it was literary and tell the truth. Name of book, 'Stillman Gott, Farmer and Fisherman.' Published in August, 1902.

"'Social or other clubs to which you belong, with office held in them.' I belong to the Exchange Club, and Boston Authors' Club, of Boston, the Central Club of Somerville, Massachusetts, and King Solomon's Lodge, F. & A. M., Somerville. I have been Worshipful Master of the last named organization. No public service.

"'College degrees since 1900.' In June, 1904, I received by the grace of Harvard University, and by reason of the work of a number of old friends, my degree of A. B., which had been somewhat delayed or possibly overlooked in the rush of Commencement in 1879. What touched me the most was that all the work was done and the degree conferred, or rather, voted to me, before I had even the slightest suspicion that anything was being done. It is a great pleasure and satisfaction to me to be able to frame a diploma from Harvard University in the place of receipted bills for tuition, food at Memorial Hall, room rent and 'general repairs.'

"3. 'Interesting journeys, etc.' Only two, and both to Exeter, New Hampshire. One last fall with Temple of '79, to see Shute of '79, and ascertain if his 'Real Diary of a Real Boy' had the slightest foundation of fact. We came home undecided. The second was in March last, when I spent the afternoon and evening with Amen, of '79, and read a few dialect stories in the chapel to the boys. Amen is doing a great work, perhaps the greatest that has fallen to any member of the Class, — the making of our future citizens.

"'Any special interests that occupy you?' Yes, the interest on my mortgage. That occupies a good deal of my time and money."

FRANK ERNEST SIMPSON has made no change in residence, occupation or family conditions since last report. The only journey has been a short trip through Italy, France, and England in 1904.

FREDERIC WARREN SMITH (Boston, June 19). "My life for the past five years has been one of close attention to business. My office is at 120 Milk Street, Boston, and my home at 164 Bay State Road."

SAMUEL SNELLING (Little Compton, Rhode Island, June 22). "In 1900 I was living near Philadelphia at Whitemarsh, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, where for more than ten years I had been Rector of St. Thomas' Church, a colonial parish, with many historic associations. In December, 1900, I accepted the rectorship of Emmanuel Church, West Roxbury, Boston, which is my office and occupation at the present time. I have spent much time in classical studies and historical investigation, and have delivered lectures and read papers before various clubs and societies, some of which have appeared in print. The most important event which concerns me is my marriage to Miss Eugenia Meneely at Troy, New York, April 21, 1903.

"My address is The Rectory, 62 Stratford Street, West Roxbury, and my summer home is Warren's Point, Little Compton, Rhode Island."

*CHARLES FRANKLIN SPRAGUE was born in Boston, June 10, 1857, the son of Seth E. Sprague and Harriet Boardman Lawrence. On his paternal side he was of old Puritan stock, being descended from William Sprague, who came from England to Salem in 1629. His grandfather, Peleg Sprague, was prominently engaged in politics in Maine, and served in the United States House of Representatives and in the Senate. He was afterwards appointed to a judgeship in the city of Boston. On his mother's side he was descended from the Lawrences, who are so intimately associated with Groton.

Sprague prepared for college at private schools in Boston and entered with us in 1875. He will be chiefly remembered by most of us during his college period as a prince of good fellows. No one could resist the fascination of his keen humor and supreme enjoyment of life.

Sprague remained in Cambridge after the Class graduated, and obtained his degree in 1880 as of the Class of 1879. During 1881 and 1882 he studied at the Harvard Law School, and later became a member of the Suffolk Bar and entered upon the practice of his profession. At this time he became interested in politics. He served on the Republican Ward and City Committee in 1886 and 1887, and was a member of the Common Council in 1888 and 1889. In the Class Report of 1890, he writes: "I am possessed of the towering ambition to become some day alderman and wear a great big rose in my buttonhole." This desire was not gratified, but in 1891 and 1892 he was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, taking an active part in debate. He is said to have been the chief mover in the bill for the publication of election expenses. He was appointed a member of the Board of Park Commissioners in 1893, and the following year was made Chairman. In 1894, he was elected to the Massachusetts Senate, where he served several terms. In 1896 he succeeded Congressman Draper in the National House of Representatives.

In 1891 he was married to Mary Bryant, only daughter of George Langdon Pratt. Two daughters were born of this marriage, Marion and Eleanor.

He was re-elected to the 56th Congress in 1898, and while in that body served on several committees.

During his second term in Congress his health was on the decline, and he was strongly urged to give up all work and endeavor to obtain perfect rest. He could not, however, be persuaded to give up his Congressional duties, and remained at his post until the end of his term. At this time his condition had become practically hopeless, and with some periods of improvement, he grew steadily worse until his death in Providence, Rhode Island, on January 31, 1902.

One of Sprague's strongest characteristics was his keen sense of humor, and this, together with his attractive personality, caused him throughout his life to be much welcomed at all social gatherings. Perhaps no one in the Class had a popularity so widely spread. It may be truly said of him that he added to the sum of the world's happiness by the enjoyment that his mere presence and conversation afforded, and that this, if nothing else, gave a value to his life. While not given to very serious study during his college course, he showed, immediately after graduation, his determination to take a part in the affairs of the world. He was honest and conscientious in the performance of his public duties and trusts, and had he lived, would doubtless have attained the higher positions to which his ambitions pointed.

The Class has lost one of its best loved members, whose genial presence can never be supplied.

JOHN T. BOWEN.

HAYWARD STETSON has not written for this report. His address is still Bangor, Maine.

FRANCIS HATHAWAY STONE still resides at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

In June, 1904, he received the degree of A.B. as of '79.

MARION STORY (Portchester, New York, June 3). "During the last five years I have been living on my farm at Portchester. I have also done quite a lot of travelling. I am sorry to say I have done nothing literary or scientific."

FRANCIS JOSEPH SWAYZE (Newark, New Jersey, April 20). "My story of the last five years is brief.

"I served as Circuit Judge of Essex County until January, 1903. I was then appointed Justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Murphy. I believe I have the right to say that my promotion was due to the court's approval of the work I was doing, and not to any other cause. I am ex officio a judge of the court of last resort.

"The only other position I have held is that of President of the Harvard Club of New Jersey, to which I have just been chosen, to my very great gratification."

JIREH SWIFT, JR. (New Bedford, Massachusetts, April 17). "As my wife and children could not be with me in Pernambuco, Brazil, I retired from the firm of Henry Forster & Company June 30, 1901, and returned to this country in August of the same year. Two years ago I started in the cotton brokerage business in this city, representing Messrs. Stephen M. Weld & Company of Boston, and am at present so engaged.

"My family is the same as at the time of the last report.

"I am one of the Trustees of the Free Public Library of this city, a member of the Union Club of Boston, the Wamsutta Club and the Country Club of New Bedford, the New Bedford Yacht Club, and the Duck Lake Club, Maine."

WILLIAM HENRY SYLVESTER (Boston, May 17). "The last five years with me have been uneventful. My work in the English High School is much the same, except that for the last two or three years I have taught only Latin. My checker game is improving at the expense of my whist game, which means that I have joined the Boston Checker Club. If I keep on, I hope to rise from the lowest class into the class next above. Invia virtuti nulla est via. I am now deep in the intricacies of the white side of the 'single corner.'"

HERBERT TAPPAN has not written. The Secretary does not know his present address.

FRANK WILLIAM TAUSSIG (Cambridge, Massachusetts, May 10). "I am sorry to say that I have not much to show for the last five years. In 1901 I felt seriously the strain of overwork, and was compelled to spend two years in complete idleness. I went abroad with my family in the autumn of 1901, expecting to need only one year for recovery; but a second year proved to be needed, and it was not until 1903 that we returned. We spent the first winter at Meran, in the Austrian Tyrol, the summer of 1902 in Switzerland, and the greater part of the winter of 1902-03 on the Italian Riviera. In the autumn of 1903 I resumed my work in the University, and was able to carry on my teaching work, but not to do a great deal besides. During the current academic year (1904-05), I have been able to accomplish more, but do not yet feel that I have recovered full working strength.

"In the course of 1899-1900 I published in the Quarterly Journal of Economics two articles on the 'Iron Industry in the United States,' and a third article on the 'Currency Act of 1900.' These were the last things I was able to achieve for a considerable time. In 1904 I was elected President of the American Economic Association, and prepared a presidential address, which was delivered at the meeting of the Association at Chicago in December, 1904, on the 'Present Position of the Doctrine of Free Trade.' Having been re-elected President of the Association, I am now preparing a second address, to be delivered in 1905. I resumed the editorship of the Quarterly Journal of Economics, which continues to flourish, and holds, I believe, no unworthy place among the publications of the University.

"In 1901 the title of my post in the University was changed, or rather my appointment was changed. Having previously simply been Professor of Political Economy, I was made Henry Lee Professor of Economics. The Lee professorship was founded by the widow and children of the late Colonel Henry Lee, and is the first endowed professorship established at the University in my subject."

FREDERICK HENRY TEMPLE (Boston, June 23). "But really there is little for me to say. In the days of '79 even one year seemed a long space of time, within which much was wont to happen, but since then the years seem to have been steadily growing shorter and shorter, until now this five-year period furnishes me very little to report.

"My residence and family remain the same. I have done nothing of note, either literary, political or otherwise. I have not increased my membership in clubs or other organizations, nor have I had the opportunity for any journeys other than an occasional short vacation trip, notable only for the change and rest that they afforded.

"In fact the only change of any moment that has happened to me has been in my occupation. Since 1883 I have been connected with the Assessing Department of this city as an assistant assessor, but this work occupied only a small portion of the year, and I devoted most of my time to the practice of law, with offices at 53 State Street. But in February, 1903, I was chosen a member of the board of principal assessors. The duties of this position occupy my whole time, and have necessitated an entire abandonment of my law practice."

JOHN ALDEN THAYER (Worcester, Massachusetts, June 3). "Since the last Class Report I have continued the practice of law at 340 Main Street, Worcester. Nothing of any general interest to the Class has happened in the interval. My home address is 10 Hawthorne Street."

JAMES EAMES THOMAS (Boston, May 12). "Your quinquennial circular for information finds me located as usual in the Boston English High School, engaged in the same occupation, which I must accept as my life-work. I am completing my twentieth year of teaching in my present position, a point from which, by common consent, we may take a retrospective view of what we have accomplished in our work. It is a source of pleasure to me to know that in these twenty years I have been instrumental in shaping the destinies of five thousand young men who have passed under my instruction, and whose characters have been moulded in part, at least, by my influence. These young men are now filling responsible positions in every part of the civilized world. The cordial greetings, as I meet them here and there, their unfailing respect, and their gratitude, are no small recompense for my personal sacrifice.

"Your second question recalls to me the most important change I have made in my relations since 1900, namely, my marriage. I was married April 6, 1903, in New York City, to Miss Harriet Newell Turney, of that city, daughter of Theodore and Cornelia (Baldwin) Turney, late of Fairfield, Connecticut.

"I have not done anything in the literary line since 1900, although about to make some additions to one of my books, Tennyson's 'Idylls.' I have received no appointments or honors worthy of note.

"Of interesting experiences I might mention several which have been of interest to me, but which would be of doubtful interest to others. I have religiously attended every gathering of the Class of '79, even to playing baseball on Charlie Hanks's nine at the Wayside Inn, and I must here bear witness to the pleasure which these gatherings have afforded me. I hope there may be many more in the future."

WASHINGTON BUTCHER THOMAS (Paris, France, May 2). "I have received your circular, and write to say that there has been nothing eventful in my career since my last report."

JOHN JAMES THOMPSON has not written. He probably continues to reside in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

JOSEPH GILBERT THORP (Boston, May 12). "My statistical data remain as in 1900. I can report no additions, but, what is infinitely more important, no losses in the Thorp family need be reported. We remain as before, father, mother, and five very satisfactory daughters. Our home is still at Cambridge, with three months of summer on our much beloved Island off North East Harbor, Maine. My clubs are all local, unless the Union of Boston and the Century of New York be regarded otherwise. No distinctions, no publications. My activities have all been of the quiet kind.

"Interesting journeys with Mrs. Thorp have been three trips in the spring of 1903, 1904, and 1905, to the Southern Educational Conferences in Richmond, Virginia, Birmingham, Alabama and Columbia, South Carolina, as members of Mr. Robert C. Ogden's special party; absorbingly interesting visits to white and colored schools, with unusually interesting people, to most attractive and hospitable parts of the country. The last was marred by a shocking wreck of our special train. Mrs. Thorp had a marvelous escape from wreck, explosion, fire and water, with no permanent injury.

"Unquestionably our most interesting experience was entertaining members of the Class with their wives and daughters last June. It gave us great enjoyment, and the cordial expressions of pleasure which have come to us from those who were there have brought us genuine delight."

JOHN JOSEPH TOWNSEND (New York, April 21). "I am still living in New York, where I am practicing law at 45 Cedar Street. I am also a Referee in Bankruptcy under the U. S. Bankruptcy Act.

"My permanent address is the Union Club, 1 East 51st Street, New York City.

"I enjoyed greatly the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of our Class last June, and shall never forget it."

WALTER TRIMBLE writes from New York, April 17, that he has no changes to report. He is still practicing law in the firm of Wyatt and Trimble, with offices at 34 Pine Street.

LARKIN THORNDIKE TRULL (Lowell, Massachusetts, May 29). "I am trying to earn a living as a lawyer, and I find enough work to keep me busy. I am a member of the firm of Richardsons, Trull & Wier. We have our principal office in Lowell, and an office for consultation and conference in Barristers' Hall, Pemberton Square, Boston. I am a director in one of the Trust Companies of Lowell, a trustee of one of the Savings Banks of Lowell, and a trustee of the Lowell General Hospital. I do not have time to seek or hold public office. I am gratified to hear from time to time of the success of members of our Class in business, literature and public service."

ALFRED STEWART TUBBS (San Francisco, California, June 24). "I have recently returned home from quite an extended trip abroad of a year and a half, spending the winter before last in Egypt, and last summer in Norway, Sweden, and Russia."

WILLIAM GREENE TWOMBLEY has not written. He probably continues to reside in Paris, France.

HENRY OLIVER UNDERWOOD (Boston, June 2). "The world still continues to treat me kindly, and the years since our last Class Report have been uneventful, but busy and happy ones. No changes have taken place in my family.

"My principal business is still the manufacture of canned goods (Wm. Underwood Company), but I have also devoted more or less time to the United Fruit Company (bananas), Ludlow Manufacturing Company (cordage and bagging), and two or three banks and trust companies.

"I have done quite a little work in local town affairs in Belmont, but have held no political office. The only remarkable thing about me is that I have not been ill a single day since leaving college, due partly to an optimistic temperament, but also to plenty of outdoor exercise and leading a comparatively simple life, my principal amusement being golf. Consequently, while probably I am a 'has been' I feel as young in every way as I did in '79.

"My clubs are the Oakley Golf Club of Cambridge, the Exchange Club and Union Club of Boston, and the University Club of New York."

DAVID URQUHART is still Superintendent of the Commissary Department of the Southern Pacific Company, with headquarters at San Francisco, California. He continues to reside in Oakland.

A daughter, Anne, was born August 21, 1901.

WILLIAM BAYARD VAN RENSSELAER (Albany, New York, May 31). "Since the last Class Report I was elected President of the Albany Savings Bank. This bank is the largest financial institution in this vicinity, and among the largest Savings Banks of the State.

"In May, 1904, I was elected President of the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, and was re-elected President in May, 1905."

JOHN VAUGHN has not been heard from directly. He is said to be living in Boston or the neighborhood, but the Secretary has been unable to reach him.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON WATSON (Utica, New York, April 15). "I am still in the real estate business in Utica. In June, 1904, I received the degree of A. B. from Harvard College as of '79."

CHARLES LUKE WELLS (New Orleans, Louisiana, June 19). "I have just celebrated the sixth anniversary of my coming to New Orleans. The city seems more beautiful every year. A little over a year ago I built with money given me by friends (mostly in Boston), and presented to the Bishop for consecration, a very attractive little church, called St. Andrew's Church, in the newer part of the city. We are now preparing for the centennial anniversary of my own church, Christ Church, the first Episcopal, and I believe the first Protestant Church in the whole Louisiana Purchase. The early history is quite interesting, but too long to be repeated here. The celebration will take place November 17 to 24. There has been no change in my family."

CHARLES HOOVER WHITING (New York, April 23). "I have lived almost continually in Paris since 1900, coming to America three times for business during the past five years. We reside at No. 42 Avenue Henri Martin (16th Arrond) and I am happy to say that my small family is intact, and all members were well up to this afternoon, when I had an Easter cable. At this moment I am in New York for a short time, having arrived a couple of weeks ago."

RICHARD THOMAS WILTON (Salem, Massachusetts, June 3). "The Class Report of 1900 left me preaching in East Derry, New Hampshire, to which I had been called in the fall of 1897. In the sixth year of my Derry pastorate, March 31, 1903, occurred the annual parish meeting. Rumor hinted that an article in the warrant for the meeting had a covert reference to a change in the pastorate. This, however, occasioned me no anxiety, as by mutual agreement, a six months' notice on the part of the parish, or a similar notice on my part, was to end the relation between us."

For an account of this parish meeting Wilton refers to a report printed in the Boston Globe, April 8, 1903, from which he quotes at length.

"As you may easily understand," he resumes, "I soon after read my notices of resignation, and in July, 1903, I took myself and family away from the 'fighting parish' and church of East Derry to the 'witch city,' Salem, Massachusetts. Here I am engaged in educational work. . . . In March, 1904, I became 'stated supply' for the Barnstead, New Hampshire, parish. In September, 1904, I received a call to the pastorate at Barnstead, which I declined. A tentative call to the church in Chichester was also extended me during my supply. I was obliged to decline this call also, as well as the supply of the Barnstead church, which was offered me after I had declined the call to the pastorate there; for I found that a bronchial ailment was aggravated by the stress of preaching. Lately my strength has increased so much that I am fostering the hope of again taking up the work of the ministry. My present address is 44 Leach Street, Salem, Massachusetts."

JOHN ELIOT WOLFF has remained in Cambridge since his return from Europe in 1900, engaged in the duties connected with his position in the College. His present residence is 37 Gorham Street, Cambridge.

STEPHEN BLAKE WOOD has not written. He probably continues to reside in Arlington, Massachusetts.

JAMES ANDERSON WRIGHT (New York, June 19). "I have nothing of any special interest to report. I am still in the steamship business, and have charge of the Passenger Traffic in America of the International Mercantile Marine Company's lines. The only change to record is my office address, which is now 9 Broadway, and there is nothing else to say regarding the 'Points to be covered.'

"Outside of my home and my business I presume I am interested in golf as much as in anything, and try to devote one day a week to it."

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS

DURING A

PART OF THE COURSE ONLY

FRANCIS WILLIS ADAMS has not written. His address is 10 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

JOHN STEWART ALLEY has not written. His address is 75 South Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

BENJAMIN FRANCIS BAILEY received the degree of A. B. in 1891 as of the Class of 1877.

HERBERT PORTER BISSELL (Buffalo, New York, June 19). "I am engaged now, as I have been for a good many years, in the practice of law in Buffalo. I am a director in several corporations, Vice-President of the Niagara Gorge Railroad Company, President of the Ellicott Club, a social club of the business men and men of affairs of the city of Buffalo. I was a director of, and General Counsel for, the Pan-American Exposition held in Buffalo in 1901. I had almost forgotten to say that I was the Democratic nominee for Mayor in 1901, but was not elected. Otherwise, I can recall no events in my life during the past five years that are worth recording."

BENJAMIN SEAVER BLANCHARD (Brookline, Massachusetts, April 21). "I am doing the same work, living in the same place, and in the same house as at the time of the last report. My family is the same, and I have done nothing of any particular interest or importance."

JOHN ELLINGWOOD BONNER has not been heard from. The Class Secretary does not know his present address.

CLIFFORD BRIGHAM (Boston, June 1). "My occupation is the same as in 1900, and my office is at 10 Tremont Street, Boston. I was married October 9, 1900, to Amy Howe Johnson (daughter of Dr. Amos H. Johnson and Frances S. Benjamin), and moved from Salem to Boston, where I lived until June, 1904, when I changed my residence to Milton, Massachusetts. I am a member of the Union Club, Hoosick-Whisick Club, Salem Club, and Salem Golf Club, and a director in several business corporations."

NAT MAYNARD BRIGHAM (Chicago, Illinois, June 1). "Since our last Class Report my time has been fully occupied in illustrated lecture work. It is my life-work, I am very sure. My subjects to date are as follows: 'Grand Canyon of Arizona'; 'Land of the Snake Dance' (introducing Indian and Spanish music); 'The Apache Warpath' (martial music); 'The Mormon Commonwealth' (with appropriate music); 'The Men Who Won the West.'

"Chautauqua work has come to be an important feature with me. This summer I have twenty-four Chautauqua engagements in the Middle West and South. Beginning October 2 I have a contract with the Midland Bureau of Des Moines, Iowa, for one hundred and twenty-eight lectures for the season of 1905-6, to be delivered principally in Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Iowa."

HENRY WILLIS BRYANT has not written. His address is probably 2231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

GEORGE MINOT BUTLER has not written. His address is probably in care of John Wanamaker, New York.

BENJAMIN FREDERIC CARVER has not written. His address is probably in care of Benjamin C. Carver, 30 South Street, New York.

FREDERICK EMERSON CHANDLER (Boston, April 20). "After trying in vain to persuade the people of Dorchester that I was established at 5 Ashland Street, I gave up in despair, and opened an office in the 'Casa Blanca,' 131 Tremont Street, Boston, where I am still looking out for eyes that are not up to normal.

"My chances of bachelorship are growing beautifully less, and there is more than a probability that the month of October will see me hunting for a small house, etc., etc.

"My only literary work has been in connection with the Medical Times, of which valuable journal I handled the foreign exchanges for several years.

"The only society of importance added to my list is the Boston Turn Verein, the largest German organization this side of New York. I have been unanimously elected to the post of Librarian of this society on three separate occasions, and consider this something of an honor, as the society has been in existence for fifty-five years, and I am the only American of non-German descent who was ever a member of the Board of Directors. This year I joined the 'Gesang-Sektion' of the Turn Verein, and have been chosen Secretary of this body. I am also a delegate to the Deutschen Zentral-Verband von Boston und Umgegend. Needless to remark that I know a trifle more German now than when Faulhaber considered that my behavior merited 52 per cent.

"I am still well up in French and Italian, but since I left the Medical Times I have done nothing with the other Germanic or Romance languages.

"Two years ago I amused myself by learning to read and write Yiddish. Now I can leave all my notebooks open on my desk without fear of consequences.

"I am still a trolley-fiend, and am looking forward to winding up the roads of Maine this summer.

"My only especial interest aside from business has been in connection with my post of Librarian of the Turn Verein. When I took the position, things had been mismanaged for years and everything was topsy-turvy. After two years of work that absorbed most of my spare time, I have things straightened out, and have made a card catalogue of our literature. As this catalogue comprises over four thousand book titles and fifteen hundred author cards, it was somewhat more of an undertaking than I should care about tackling again. Meyer and St. John have both donated books this year. Has any other '79 man a copy of 'Der Neffe als Onkel' or any other masterpieces of German literature which he does not need? If so, please send them along and receive our blessing."

WILLIAM BAXTER CUSHMAN has not written. His address is probably still Oxford, Massachusetts.

*THOMAS CHADWICK DAY wrote April 20 from his home in Barnstable, Massachusetts: "My occupation and residence are the same as in 1900. Mrs. Day died May 7, 1903." Only a week after he wrote he died in Boston, April 27. The following notice was written at the request of the Secretary by J. H. Beale, of the Class of 1882.

THOMAS C. DAY was born in Barnstable April 20, 1856; was educated at the public schools and at Adams Academy, and entered college with the class of 1879. He left college in his sophomore year, and at once began the study of law in the office of his father, Judge Joseph M. Day of Barnstable. After being admitted to the bar he practiced in Brockton for a few years, and then returned to Barnstable, where he spent the rest of his life. He died in Boston, April 27, 1905, as the result of a serious operation to remove a cancer.

Day took a very large part in the public affairs of his town and county. Though he held only one political office (Collector of the Port of Barnstable during Cleveland's second administration) his influence in the political and social life of Cape Cod was greater than that of any man of his time. As a lawyer he was noted for counselling peace and accommodation, and instituted litigation for his clients only when it was necessary; and his reputation in this line gave him a strong hold on the confidence of the people. At the beginning of his practice he found life on Cape Cod stagnant. The chief purpose of his life was to stimulate interest in local affairs. He became a leader in all town and county enterprises. To secure the prosperity of his county he became the leading worker in the Barnstable Agricultural Society, and furthered the cause of good roads; he was enthusiastic in establishing social organizations, like the local golf and yacht clubs; he was president of the County Conference of his church, and a member of the school committee of his town.

His influence was always ready to arouse ambition in his neighbors. A life thus spent in local affairs is best appreciated at home; and the whole county was stunned and disheartened by his sudden death.

Day was married in 1885 to Mary H. Smith of Barnstable, who died in 1903. He leaves one son, Thomas Chadwick Day of Barnstable.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Directors of the Cape Cod Pilgrim Memorial Association:

Whereas Thomas C. Day, a Vice-President of the Cape Cod Pilgrim Memorial Association, and one of our generous and loyal coworkers, has been suddenly taken from us, we, the Directors of the Cape Cod Pilgrim Memorial Association, desire to place on record our appreciation of his valuable services to this Association, the unselfish and public-spirited service he has rendered to his County, Town and Village, and our sense of the immeasurable loss that has befallen Cape Cod in his passing away.

We join with others in the universal sorrow; and we share in the pride felt by every citizen of Cape Cod in his honorable career. While we sorrow at his untimely end, we rejoice in the abiding and permanent influence which such a life as his has left to us, and which will be an inspiration and incentive to us and to succeeding generations.

We suggest that this tribute to his memory be spread upon the records of the Association, and copies be sent to the only son, so sadly bereft, and to the local papers.

DIRECTORS OF THE CAPE COD PILGRIM MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

By HENRY H. BAKER,
WILLIAM B. LAWRENCE [1879],
Committee.

PICKERING DODGE (Washington, District of Columbia, April 18). "My life during the past five years has been too uneventful to be of interest to anybody. The Office of the Washington Aqueduct and the United States Engineer Office in this city were combined about a year ago, and I am Chief Clerk of the two. My residence is the same as in 1900. No more children and no deaths. Only one magazine article, 'Our Christmas Tree,' which has been accepted by the Holiday Magazine, but not yet printed."

CHARLES DRIVER has not written. His address is 31 Chisholm Park, Roxbury Station, Boston, Massachusetts.

JAMES HERBERT DWINELL has not written. His address probably continues to be in care of James F. Dwinell, Winchester, Massachusetts.

GEORGE HOWARD EARLE has not written. The members of the Class who were so fortunate as to be able to join in that memorable excursion to Philadelphia to which he invited them had an opportunity not only to enjoy his hospitality, but incidentally to see something of the variety of interests in which he has engaged. At Commencement, 1904, he was made an honorary Master of Arts and characterized by President Eliot in giving the degree as "once a member of the class that graduated twenty-five years ago today, banker, trusted man of affairs, public-spirited citizen of Philadelphia."

PIERREPONT EDWARDS has not written. He probably still resides in Elizabeth, New Jersey.

ALFRED ELA writes from Boston, May 27, that he "continues in real estate business at 54 Kilby Street, Boston." His residence is Manchester, New Hampshire.

EDWARD EVERETT has not written. He still resides in Boston.

HARRY BANKS FRENCH (Philadelphia, April 18). "My life since the last report has been uneventful and without change.

"My only literary work has been articles in the daily newspapers in advocacy of certain desirable municipal reforms and in opposition to some very undesirable legislative enactments.

"My nearest approach to public service is acting as a member of the executive committee of the National Municipal League, a member of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Civil Service Reform Association, and in such other bodies.

"My present business address is care of Smith, Kline and French Co., 429 Arch Street, Philadelphia."

THOMAS CARY FRIEDLANDER has not written. He probably still resides and does business in San Francisco.

JOSEPH THORP GILBERT (Gilbertsville, New York, June 27). "Since the last Class Report my life has moved along in a very even sort of way without much diversity. My winters have been spent in Boston, and my summers at Gilbertsville, New York. During the past two winters I have been doing some regular college work at Cambridge as a special student, and it is now my intention to continue my studies for at least another year.

"The special interest to which I have devoted much of my time and thought during the past five years has been the improvement of the village of Gilbertsville, and I trust that within a few years the result of my efforts will become more and more apparent. In 1893, after a very serious fire in the village, I found that the owners of the land burnt over were going to put up a very plain, low, one-story, long brick building, which in any case could not fail to give a very ugly and commonplace stamp to the principal street in the village. After considerable negotiation I secured the land and erected a very attractive building, Old English in style, containing three stores, and offices upstairs. The erection of this building has led to my taking an interest in other improvements in the village, which is very attractively situated. I soon learned that the only way to secure satisfactory results was to have a well-defined and pre-arranged plan of improvements drawn up by a competent landscape architect. I had an accurate survey made of the land included within the limits of the incorporated village, the maps showing the grade of the grounds and the location and size of all streets, buildings, and trees. I am at present making some changes in the center of the village which promise most satisfactory results.

"I find, if I carry out the improvements I have planned, that I have undertaken what promises to be very nearly a life's work, and I have also learned most effectually that to succeed in an undertaking of this kind, one must never be discouraged, and must always be ready to try again. It involves not only the securing ownership of certain pieces of land, but also the overcoming of local prejudices of village people and authorities, and, with the best of intentions on both sides, the task is not an easy one, nor quick of accomplishment.

"I am hoping that when the next Class Report is published

I shall be able to show by photographs the result of my endeavors in behalf of Village Improvement."

PATRICK GRANT wrote April 20 from Aiken, South Carolina. His home address is the Somerset Club, Boston.

HERBERT EVELETH GREENE graduated as a member of the Class of 1881. He continues to reside in Baltimore, Maryland, as professor of English in Johns Hopkins University.

EDWARD PRITCHARD HASKELL, JR., continues to reside in New Bedford, Massachusetts.

CHARLES EDMUND HAYES has not been heard from. The Class Secretary does not know his present address.

HAROLD GOULD HENDERSON graduated as a member of the Class of 1880. He continues to reside in New York.

GUSTAVUS ARTHUR HILTON has not written. He has offices at 85 State Street, Boston, and resides at Milton, Massachusetts.

MAHLON HUTCHINSON (Washington, District of Columbia, April 27). "There is nothing especially new to report since 1900, except that I have returned to Washington, D. C., have renewed the practice of medicine, and expect to make this my permanent home. As to appointments, political and otherwise, I have received one only, namely, that of Examining Surgeon for the United States Pension Bureau."

FRANCIS BOWLER KEENE (Florence, Italy, May 12). "At the time of the last report, I was serving my first term as a member of the Wisconsin Legislature. In November, 1900, I was re-elected. As the representative of the most important banking and business district of the State, in Milwaukee, its metropolis, I was considered as a candidate for Speaker of the Assembly. But I did not become a candidate, and during my second term I continued as Chairman of the Committee on Cities. In 1902, knowing that sooner or later I was to be appointed to the Consular Service, I was not a candidate for re-election to the Legislature, and did not take what would have been a good chance for election to Congress. In March, 1903, I was appointed Consul at Florence, Italy, and took charge of my post in July following. I have recently been promoted to the Consulate at Geneva, Switzerland, and am ordered to take charge of that post immediately after June 1.

"The stork has not visited me since the last report, and I must still say that both of my boys are girls. But they bid fair to be interesting to Harvard men of a later day, to grow up to be as charming as their Kentucky mother. We mean that they shall be red, white and blue Americans, educated in America after they have acquired three languages abroad, and we hope that their matrimonial destinies may be Americans with a future, rather than foreigners with a past.

"I have been too busy to do any literary work, and have written little except occasional editorials. Now and then, before I came abroad, I have indulged in the pungent pastime of writing political satires in verse.

"Had the President chosen to keep me longer in this delightful old city, so rich in art and history, I would have organized the Harvard Club of Florence. The banks of the Arno were crimson — with blood — in olden time. They ought to be peacefully crimson now. Apropos of this gory allusion: a friend who came here during the time when the Tramontana, the north wind, was blowing, said: 'I know now why the Florentines in other times were always fighting. They had to fight to keep warm.' The famous artists whose canvases line the walls of the Uffizzi, the Pitti, and the other treasure-houses of art, give us no indication that their subjects ever suffered from goose-flesh or chilblains, but the crop of the latter must have been then, as now, reliably large.

"It was a great disappointment to me that I could not be present at the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary reunion last year. Fate, and typhoid fever, willed that I should be out of college for a year, and that I should take my degree with '80, the President's class, but in the words of our poet:

> "'The Sages seven,
> We Muses nine,
> Together make a combination
> On which I'd stake my reputation.'

"Though able, as an '80 man by adoption, to shine a little in the reflected light of the distinguished alumnus who does things 'teddily,' I have a firm affection for the fellows of '79, and ought to have sent you a maccaronigram of greetings to those who came to the reunion last year.

"Even this year I cannot get back to Cambridge, which I have not seen for nineteen years. The President's inopportune promotion puts me into a new field just when I had planned to go home and attend '80's Twenty-Fifth. I have a fool idea that the way to be Consul is to be Consul, and have not been able to decide to desert my new post as soon as I have taken charge of it. Conscious of no official sins of omission or commission that make me deserve two such disappointments, I resignedly say, with the observant but unsatisfied man: 'Verily things are not ordered right in this life. The elephant has two tails, and a skin impervious to flies.' Harvard expects all her sons to do their duty. Having been appointed by Roosevelt, a Harvard man, I feel doubly bound to do mine.

"If any of the fellows want their watches repaired in Geneva, let them send them to the care of the Consul. Mrs. Keene, by the way, when asked how she liked the transfer, said she'd rather be a red flannel shirt hanging out of a back window in Florence than the finest jewelled watch in Geneva. Much as I appreciate being thought worthy of promotion, after but twenty-one months of service, I am rather inclined to think I agree with her."

GEORGE ALBERT KITFIELD continues to reside at Manchester, Massachusetts.

JOHN FRANKLIN LADD is still an invalid, under hospital treatment, without hope of recovery.

ANTON LEISTER has not written. His address probably is still Brunswick, Ohio.

ARCHIBALD LEROY continues to reside in New York, at 58 East 49th Street.

SAMUEL KLEIGHTON LEWIS has not written, and letters addressed to him by the Class Secretary at Las Vegas, New Mexico, and at St. Louis, have been returned.

JONAS MICHAEL MILES (Concord, Massachusetts, April 21). "My ostensible occupation after July, 1898, was the practice of law in Boston, which I then took up again after nine years in the sheet music trade. Regaining my abandoned clients was a slow process, of course, and as I never cared much for the ordinary and usual small matters which came to me, in July, 1904, I swapped my law books for others, paid my last month's rent, and closed my office.

"But in March, 1903, I was peculiarly fortunate in persuading a real estate agent to help me buy about four acres of land on the northeastern slope of Nashawtuc Hill in Concord. Mechanics without number turned to and built a house for me; and I came here to live in November of that year. Did you ever build a house 'by the day'? I have, — twice, — and may again. But if I do, no more than one man shall work at a time, and then only when I am there to see; and even so I shall not see all. Some days I think the house too small. Again, I long to live in a tent.

"My little patch of ground gives me occupation, and I like the work. I live humbly in my corner and do the chores. 'Lacking variety' was the comment of one of my Boston acquaintances. He sells pianos, 'on the instalment plan.' 'Don't you get lonesome?' asked another. He walks Tremont Street twirling a cane, most of the time. 'I don't see what you find to do,' said one, — and caught me hoeing potatoes last summer when he ran out to see me.

"Yes, I have learned to hoe potatoes, and pine trees thrive which I have planted. I don't get lonesome. There is enough to do; and there's more variety in the sunrise, from day to day, than I ever saw on the stage or in the show-windows of a department store.

"My son, Herbert, graduated at the High School here in 1904, and entered the Bussey Institution last September.

"I am interested in pianoforte playing, chess, and checkers, and I read a good deal."

CHARLES SPRAGUE LINCOLN has not written. He probably continues to reside and do business in New York.

GEORGE ABNER LITTLEFIELD graduated with the Class of 1878. His address continues to be Providence, Rhode Island.

GEORGE STOW MILLER has not been heard from. The Class Secretary does not know his present address.

JOHN SINGLETON MITCHELL (Brookline, Massachusetts, June 12). "My occupation and residence are unchanged since the last report; no other changes have taken place, and as for experiences, perhaps the most interesting was the meeting of so many members of the Class during the Commencement season last year. Some of them I had not met for many years, and to not a few I had to be introduced. I think that the Class Committee, especially Burr, are to be congratulated for providing us with such an elaborate programme of events during the celebration of our Twenty-Fifth Anniversary."

EDWARD LELAND MORSE received the degree of A. B. in 1895 as of the Class of 1877. He continues to reside in Chicago.

GEORGE OSGOOD (Kensington, New Hampshire, June 7). "The last five years have passed quietly and pleasantly on my farm here in Kensington. I am one of the Library trustees and a member of the Kensington Grange."

WILLIAM ELIAS PAGE has not written. His address is probably still Para, Brazil.

CHARLES LAWRENCE PERKINS has not written. He continues to reside and do business in New York.

WILLIAM CARROLL PRICE (Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, April 22). "I am still engaged in the practice of law in the city of Wilkes-Barre, and am unmarried.

"The only offices I hold are the Presidency of the Wyoming Valley Country Club, and a membership on the Executive Committee of the United Charities Association of this city."

JULIAN WAINWRIGHT ROBBINS (New York, April 28). "Since the year 1900 I have changed the location of my residence, but my occupation is still that of a banker and broker at 35 Wall Street. Two years ago I was elected Treasurer of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb. I mention this fact merely incidentally; the chief charm of the position consists in the existence of an Assistant Treasurer, who does all the work. Aside from this arduous office, I have not been recently chosen for any public position."

WILLIAM STANTON ROGERS has not written. He continues to reside and do business in Boston.

EDWARD ALLEN SAWYER (Gardner, Massachusetts, June 20). "I was married in May, 1885, to Myra Bertha Tebault, daughter of Alfred G. Tebault, M.D., of Norfolk, Virginia. I have a daughter, Marjorie, born in 1890 at Gardner, and a son, Edward, also born at Gardner, in 1894.

"I have served on school and health boards for twenty years, and have served for fifteen years as Medical Examiner of the Second Worcester District, an office which I still hold. I was President of the Worcester North District Medical Society for the year 1904-1905, and am now one of the Councillors of the Massachusetts State Society."

JOHN CORNELIUS SHEA has not written. His address is probably Omaha, Nebraska.

PARRY KENNARD SOLGER has not been heard from. Letters addressed to him by the Class Secretary at former addresses have been returned.

ROBERT CHURCH STETSON resides at Stockbridge, Massachusetts.

*GEORGE WILKINSON STORM died at his home in East Orange, New Jersey, Sept. 27, 1903. In the contribution which he made to the Class Report of 1900 he had written briefly but interestingly of his business and social and home life. On receiving the news of his death, in April, 1905, the Class Secretary wrote to his family, hoping to learn from them something of the last years of his life, but he has received no reply. Swayze writes, June 15, that he "had met him once or twice in a business way," but did not know him well personally. The Class Secretary hopes to be able to furnish a full account in the next report.

JOHN PALMER STRONG (St. Joseph, Missouri, May 16). "Your recent appeal for a notation of the high places in my career, with a plea that the same would interest the boys, is at hand. The gentle tides of my life are undistinguished, except for the general contentment brought me and mine. The years have frosted the head but not the heart, and I am still glad 'I'm livin'.'

"Here is my chronology after the manner of the 'main points to be covered.' From 1879 to 1881 I taught mathematics in our High School. In 1882 I received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the St. Louis Law School, and from 1882 to 1885 I practiced law. From 1885 to 1889 I was editor of the St. Joseph Daily Herald, the leading Republican journal of this section. From 1889 to 1895 I was City Assessor, and from 1895 to 1897 City Comptroller. From 1897 to 1901 I did literary and journalistic work in Illinois and Ohio. In 1901 I purchased the St. Joseph Daily Courier, of which I am still publisher.

"May 7, 1895, I married Mary Emeline Geiger, daughter of Stephen and Nancy Geiger. At this juncture of my life my wit proved to be an asset. I was devoted to a meerschaum handsomely browned by years of use. I was also devoted to my prospective wife. 'Which,' demanded she, 'do you love best?' So I wrote her an ode to the 'brown beauty,' my pipe, and the 'beautiful brownie,' my wife, whereupon she took both me and the pipe. Can any of you show up a more potent piece of literary work?

"I omitted to say that I am now a member of the Board of Education, and doing what I can to improve our system of schools."

JOHN HENRY TAFF has not written. He continues to reside and do business in Boston.

WILLIAM FITZGERALD TOWNE has not been heard from. Letters addressed to him by the Class Secretary at former addresses have been returned.

FRANCIS MORGAN WARE (New York, May 8). "I have been Treasurer and Managing Director of the American Horse Exchange, Limited, 1634-1642 Broadway, New York, since March, 1894. Before that I was farming at South Portsmouth, Rhode Island, from 1880 to 1891, and at Milton, Massachusetts from 1891 to 1893.

"My residence is 329 West 83d Street, New York. I was married Nov. 23, 1896, to Eva Maude Hughes, eldest daughter of the late Major-General Robert Hughes (English Army) of Chiswick, London, England.

"We have one son, Robert Hughes Ware, born in New York, Feb. 22, 1898.

"I have written three books: 'First-Hand Bits of Stable Lore,' 1902; 'Our Noblest Friend, the Horse,' 1903; 'Driving,' 1903.

"I have been editor and proprietor of The Horse Fancier (weekly), editor of Coach and Saddle (monthly), a regular contributor to all sporting weeklies, monthlies and dailies, and occasionally to the so-called 'funny' papers, effusions too voluminous to enumerate.

"In addition to my interest in the American Horse Exchange I am President of the Horse Fair Association of New York, President of the Horse, Carriage, Wagon and Harness Dealers' Association of New York, President of the Logan Sanitary Stall Company, Treasurer and Secretary of the Newport Horse Show Association, Treasurer and Secretary of the Newport Dog Show, Secretary of the Rhode Island Jockey Club, Treasurer and Manager of the Metropolitan Riding School, and director in various other corporations of a similar nature."

CHARLES GODDARD WELD (Boston, April 25). "There is no change in my occupation. My residence is still in Boston. I was married on April 11, 1900, to Hannah Putnam Train of Duxbury, Mass. Her father's name was William Graham Train and her mother's name was Mary Elizabeth Train. I have a daughter, born the 5th of April, 1901, in Boston. I am one of the large class of common, ordinary individuals who have not done any literary, scientific, political or commercial work. Have not had any position of honor or trust. Do not hold any offices in any clubs. Never wrote a book in my life; never did any public service, and never got any honorary degree. My present address is 81 Mason Building."

MERRICK WHITCOMB graduated as a member of the Class of 1880. He is Professor of History at the University of Cincinnati.

JOHN HOWARD WILLARD (Lexington, Massachusetts, May 2). "Five years have passed, and all too quickly, since my last report. In the interval, my parents, after a happy and peaceful wedded life of more than sixty years, have passed away. My daughter Hélène, who was married Oct. 16, 1901, to Mr. W. S. Burgess, died suddenly June 10, 1902.

"It was a great pleasure to me to meet so many class-mates last June, many of whom I had not seen since leaving college."

MARRIAGE AND BIRTH RECORD

ALDRICH	JULIA ROSS	St. Johnsbury, Vt., Dec. 5, 1888
	Thomas Ross	Somerville, Mass., April 30, 1894
	Martha	Somerville, Mass., Feb. 19, 1897
AMEN	MARY BROWNE RAWSON [d. Aug. 19, '01]	Whitinsville, Mass., April 5, 1882
	Margaret Rawson	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Mar. 23, 1884
	Elizabeth Wheeler	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 9, 1885
	Rachel Perne	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1887
	John Harlan	September 15, 1898
ANTHONY	ALICE GOODHUE SAFFORD	Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12, 1879
	Charles Pike	Cambridge. Mass., Aug. 31, 1880
	Frederic Safford	Haverhill, Mass., April 13, 1896
APTHORP	ANNA RUSSELL	Milton, Mass., December 1, 1896
	Harrison Otis, Jr.	Milton, Mass., October 1, 1897
	Sarah Forbes	Milton, Mass., May 10, 1900
ATHERTON	CAROLINE OBER STONE	Lynn, Mass., July 20, 1892
AYERS	CHARLOTTE CARDER [d. Jan. 1896]	Malden, Mass., January 7, 1885
	David, 2d	Malden, Mass., July 3, 1888
	GEORGETTE BEATRICE GUILD	Boston, Mass., Nov. 18, 1899
BACON	LEVERENE EVANS MATTIS	Cambridge, Mass., May 29, 1888
	John William	Natick, Mass., March 1, 1892
	Ross Mattis	Natick, Mass., June 4, 1894
BAILY	FRANCES EMERSON	Nashua, N. H., Dec. 31, 1885
BARLOW	VIRGINIA LOUISE MATTHEWS [d. Apr. 24, 1905]	Paris, France, May 6, 1886
	Edward Matthews [d. 1901]	New York, N. Y., May 12, 1888
	Samuel Latham Mitchell	New York, N. Y., June 1, 1892
BAYLIES	LOUISA VAN RENSSELAER	New York, N. Y., Jan. 18, 1887
BENNETT	AMY REEDER THOMAS	Brookline, Mass., Sept. 9, 1885
	Edmund Neville	Brookline, Mass., Aug. 31, 1887
	Samuel Crocker, Jr.	Brookline, Mass., March 18, 1890
	Roger Williams	Weston, Mass., February 3, 1892
	Barbara	Weston, Mass., Dec. 30, 1893
	Rosamond Thomas	Weston, Mass., Nov. 13, 1895
	Thomas Dacre	Weston, Mass., December, 1900
BINNEY	JULIA STONE	Boston, Mass., May 5, 1885
BLACK	EMMA LOUISA PANTON	New York, N. Y., Aug. 18, 1883
BLOOD	ELISABETH RAVENEL ALMON	Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 22, 1898
BRANDEIS	AMY THOMAS [d. Jan. 12, 1901]	Louisville, Ky., March 6, 1900
BREWSTER, C. O.	ELIZABETH HATHAWAY	New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 7, 1899
	Horatio Hathaway	New York, N. Y., Dec. 1, 1900
	Elizabeth	New York, N. Y., Nov. 29, 1903
BREWSTER, F.	MARIE FRANCŒUR SHARP	Boston, Mass., Feb. 24, 1903
	Helen Sharp	Boston, Mass., Dec. 26, 1903
BRIGGS	GRACE STICKNEY WOOD	Pocasset, Mass., Sept. 25, 1893
BROOKS	LOUISA DARLING GRISWOLD	Greenfield, Mass., June 6, 1889

BROWN, J. A.	LILLIAN FRANCES PERKINS	Exeter, N. H., June 26, 1900
	Mary Ella	Exeter, N. H., June 17, 1902
	John Perkins	Exeter, N. H., Mar. 18, 1905
BURLINGHAM	LOUISA WEED LAWRENCE	New York, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1883
	Charles	New York, N. Y., June 8, 1884
	Anne Hoe	New York, N. Y., January 7, 1886
	Robert	New York, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1888
BURR	ALICE MCCLURE PETERS	Jamaica Plain, Mass., Oct. 12, 1882
	Isaac Tucker, 3d	Boston, Mass., March 22, 1885
	Barbara	Boston, Mass., November 1, 1886
	Carleton	Boston, Mass., August 29, 1891
	Alice Parkinson	Boston, Mass., October 16, 1893
BURRILL, G. H.	FANNY CURTIS	Canaan, N. Y., June 1, 1887
	Katherine Curtis	New Lebanon, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1890
BURRILL, M. S.	EMILIE NEILSON	New York, N. Y., Nov. 17, 1885
	Marie Louise	New York, N. Y., Nov. 6, 1886
BUTLER, H.	JULIA PAYSON IVES	Portland, Me., May 29, 1890
CAREY	AGNES WHITESIDE	Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15, 1889
	Henry Reginald	Epsom, Eng., September 12, 1890
	Arthur Graham	Boston, Mass., March 5, 1892
	Alida	Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 7, 1893
	Frances	Boston, Mass., October 8, 1898
CASAS	MARGRETHE KOEFOED CHRISTENSEN	Louisville, Ky., June 24, 1903
CASE	MARIAN WARD INGERSOLL	St. Paul, Minn., June 15, 1892
	Marian Elizabeth	Chicago, Ill., March 27, 1893
	Isabel	Chicago, Ill., June 27, 1894
	Winthrop Warren	Winnetka, Ill., August 30, 1897
	Emily Ingersoll	Winnetka, Ill., Jan 15, 1899
CHAPIN	MARY ARQUIT	Seattle, Wash., June 15, 1898
*CHURCHILL.	FLORENCE MAY WINSOR (Boston)	Dublin, N. H., June 15, 1898
	John Maitland Brewer, Jr.	Chestnut Hill, Mass., June 20, 1899
CLAPP	MARY LIZZIE SAUNDERS	Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28, 1886
	Harold Franklin [d. Feb. 9, 1888]	Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8, 1888
	Lilian Saunders	Lexington, Mass., March 29, 1892
	Roger Saunders	Lexington, Mass., March 24, 1895
COBB	EDITH HELEN PERSONS	Milwaukee, Wis., Sept 18, 1882
	Edmond Persons	Chicago, Ill., August 2, 1883
CONANT	MARY ANDREWS BENNETT	Boston, Mass., November 12, 1884
	Ruth	Boston, Mass., September 14, 1885
	Edmund Bennett	Boston, Mass., December 5, 1886
	Ira Merritt	Bridgewater, Mass., Aug. 17, 1888
	William Merritt, Jr.	Boston, Mass., March 23, 1891
COOK	BERTHA KUMMER	Dresden, Germany, Feb. 22, 1883
COOLIDGE, J. T.	CATHERINE SCOLLAY PARKMAN [d. Feb. 12, 1900].	Boston, Mass., September 16, 1879
	Mary	Paris, France, May 23, 1881
	Katherine Parkman	Paris, France, January 5, 1883
	Louisa Riche	Portsmouth, N. H., August 19, 1886
	John Templeman 4th	Boston, Mass., December 27, 1888
	Elizabeth	Portsmouth, N. H., June 22, 1895
COOLIDGE, W. W.	HELEN WHITTINGTON MILLS	Boston, Mass., November 13, 1883
COWDIN	GERTRUDE CHEEVER "Two sons and one daughter"	New York, N. Y., June 20, 1885
COX	MARIA DUANE BLEECKER MILLER	New York, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1896

CRAWFORD	GENEVIEVE BUCKLAND	New York, N. Y., Dec. 17, 1885
	Lesley Buckland	New York, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1887
	Constance	New York, N. Y., January 9, 1889
	Dorothy	New York, N. Y., April 1, 1890
	Lindsay	Summit, N. J., April 30, 1901
CROCKER	CHARLOTTE BARTOW	Rye, N. Y., October 14, 1880
	Alvah, Jr.	Fitchburg, Mass., April 2, 1882
	Helen Tufts	Fitchburg, Mass., May 30, 1886
	Douglas	Fitchburg, Mass., June 19, 1888
	Constance B. [d. May 12, 1891]	Fitchburg, Mass., July 17, 1890
	Charlotte Bartow	Fitchburg, Mass., July 9, 1892
	John	Fitchburg, Mass., Jan. 16, 1900
CROSMAN	SARAH ELIZABETH FULLER	Lynn, Mass., September 1, 1885
	Marion Fuller	Haverford, Pa., October 29, 1887
	Charles Henry	Haverford, Pa., Nov. 18, 1890
	Elizabeth	Lynn, Mass., June 10, 1894
CURTIS	RUTH WETHERBEE DAVISON	New York, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1887
	Francis Shaw	Newton Centre, Mass., June 10, '88
	Margaret Burrill	Newton Centre, Mass., Apr. 27, 1890
	Edward Davison	West Newton, Mass., Dec. 21, 1891
	George William	West Newton, Mass., Mar. 29, 1895
CUSHING	ADA THOMAS	Brookline, Mass., Oct. 18, 1882
CUTLER	MARY FRANKLYN WILSON	Bangor, Maine, June 17, 1886
	John Wilson	Bangor, Maine, May 12, 1887
	Elliott Carr	Bangor, Maine, July 30, 1888
	Roger Wilson	Brookline, Mass., Nov. 3, 1889
	George Chalmers, Jr.	Brookline, Mass., May 8, 1898
	Robert	Brookline, Mass., June 12, 1895
*DALZELL	HELEN LEAROYD STEARNS	Waltham, Mass., April 7, 1886
	Dorothy	Cambridge, Mass., June 28, 1887
DANIELS	MINNIE BIGELOW GAY	Newton, Mass., May 11, 1887
	Miriam Gay	New York, N. Y., October 7, 1890
	Charles Herbert [d. August 5, 1894]	New York, N. Y., Jan. 26, 1893
DENÈGRE	BERTHA COBB ARMOUR	Chicago, Ill., Dec. 2, 1893
	Marie Elaine	Pride's Cross'g, Mass., Aug. —, '95
DONALDSON	NANNIE BEIRNE MACFARLAND (div.),	Richmond, Va., April 21, 1880
	Francis, 3d	Baltimore, Md., August 11, 1881
	William Macfarland	Baltimore, Md., March, 1887
	ETHEL CHASE SPRAGUE	Stockton, Cal., July 20, 1896
	Salmon Portland Chase	San Josè, Cal., April 10, 1897
DOW	VANIE BUCK ROBINSON	Woburn, Mass., January 1, 1883
	Ethel Robinson	Andover, N. H., August 4, 1884
	Roland Beeman	Woburn, Mass., Feb. 12, 1889
DUNN	RIELLA JULIANA BULLARD	Grafton, Mass., June 28, 1883
	Helen De Maurice	Marlboro, Mass., April 2, 1884
EDMANDS	LYDIA CAROLINE BENTON	Brookline, Mass., May 22, 1883
	Violet	Brookline, Mass., Oct. 22, 1884
	Rose	Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 16, 1886
*ELLIS, F. H.	EVA LEWIS	Framingham, Mass., June 21, 1888
ELLIS, R. W.	KATHERINE ALLYN RICE	Springfield, Mass., April 13, 1882
	Theodore Waterbury	Springfield, Mass., Sept. 2, 1887
	Ralph Waterbury, Jr.	Springfield, Mass., May 3, 1896
*EVANS	ELIZABETH GARDINER	Boston, Mass., May 18, 1882

FAUNCE	MABEL WINTHROP MANGE	Kingston, Mass., Oct. 21, 1884
	Alice Cushing	Mansfield, Pa., June 2, 1888
	Dorothy	Mansfield, Pa., May 27, 1890
	A son [d. May 5, 1893]	Mansfield, Pa., April 1, 1893
	George	Carnegie, Pa., July 30, 1894
	Margaret	Carnegie, Pa., January 14, 1898
FELTON	ALICE BENT	Steelton, Pa., June 2, 1884
	Margaret	Steelton, Pa., July 15, 1885
	Eleanor	Steelton, Pa., January 29, 1887
	Samuel Morse, 3d	Steelton, Pa., June 12, 1889
	Cornelius Conway	Steelton, Pa., April 18, 1893
	Edgar Conway	Steelton, Pa., May 15, 1894
	Winslow Bent	Steelton, Pa., November 9, 1896
GAGE	MARGARET JOSEPHINE WALSH	Lowell, Mass., September 2, 1902
GARDINER	FLORENCE RHODES PITMAN	Tokyo, Japan, May 16, 1882
	James Lawrence McDonald	Tokyo, Japan, April 10, 1883
	Helga Houghton [d. Oct. 9, 1884]	Hackensack, N. J., May 22, 1884
	Hasu-no-hana (Lotus Blossom)	Tokyo, Japan, June 29, 1886
	Ernestine Williams	Tokyo, Japan, March 21, 1890
	Lillian Gordon	Tokyo, Japan, April 21, 1894
*GODDARD	ANNIE REBOUL LAROCQUE [d. Ap. 25,'91]	New York, N. Y., May 8, 1890
	Annie Celestine	New York, N. Y., April 14, 1891
HALE	EMILY JOSE MILLIKEN	Boston, Mass., June 19, 1889
	Emily	East Orange, N. J., Oct. 27, 1891
	William Peabody [d. July 21, 1897]	East Orange, N. J., July 26, 1895
HANKS	CLARINA BARTOW SHUMWAY	Faribault, Minn., May 16, 1888
	Steadman Shumway	Manchester, Mass., July 17, 1889
	Clarina Shumway	Boston, Mass., April 22, 1892
HARDING	ANNIE AMELIA JENCKES	Stamford, Conn., January 9, 1884
	Louis Branch, Jr.	Stamford, Conn., June 27, 1885
	Lawrence Jenckes	Stamford, Conn., Sept. 21, 1889
	Amelia Marion	Stamford, Conn., May 16, 1893
	Nannie	Stamford, Conn., Aug. 15, 1895
	Lucy	Stamford, Conn., Nov. 15, 1900
HARLOW	IDA GERTRUDE MOREHOUSE	Springfield, Mass., April 29, 1899
	William Morehouse	Somers, Conn., Dec. 18, 1900
	Frank Norman [d. Feb. 10, 1905]	Somers, Conn., Jan. 18, 1902
HEARD	HOPE GLEN (div.)	London, England, May 16, 1889
HILL, S. H.	MARY HILL	St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6, 1888
	Mary Mendenhall	St. Paul, Minn., July 3, 1889
	James Nathan	St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 23, 1893
HILL, W. B.	ELISE WEYERHAEUSER	St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 29, 1892
HOADLY	GENEVIEVE GROESBECK	Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5, 1894
	George, 3d	Cincinnati, Ohio, March 25, 1895
	Genevieve Olivia	Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 1, 1897
HODGDON	ANNA FLORENCE COLBURN	Dedham, Mass., July 11, 1888
	Waldo Colburn	Dedham, Mass., Aug. 14, 1889
	Andrew Yates	Dedham, Mass., Feb. 18, 1891
	Howard Wellington	Dedham, Mass., Sept. 30, 1898
	Ruth Ellis	Dedham, Mass., Oct. 17, 1900
HOLMES	MARIE NEFF HUMES	Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 29, 1890
	Elise Mallory	Pelham Manor, N. Y., Aug. 25, '91
	Emeline Williams	Pelham Manor, N. Y., Feb. 6, 1893
	Jabish, Jr.	Pelham Manor, N. Y., Mar. 11, '99

HOMER . . . ELLA LOUISE STOWELL . . . Boston(Roxb'y),Mass., Jan. 29, '97
Thomas Johnston, Jr. . . . Boston(Roxb'y), Mass., Oct. 22, '98
Edmund Stowell . . . . . Boston (Roxb'y),Mass.,Nov. 17,'03

HOUGHTON . . MAY L. BURRILL . . . . . Medford, Mass., Aug. 16, 1883
Alcina Burrill . . . . . Rockport, Mass., Nov. 25, 1888
Cedric Wing . . . . . Fairfield, Me., May 31, 1895

HOUSTON . . JENNIE RIGHTER . . . . . Newark, N. J., December 28, 1887
Francis DeHart . . . . . Boston Highl'ds, Mass., Oct. 20,'88
Philip Kingsland . . . . Boston Highl'ds, Mass., Oct. 5, '89

*HOWARD . . . . . .

HUBBARD . . SUSAN CAMPBELL WEARE . . . Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 15, 1884
Martha Weare . . . . . Chicago, Ill., July 22, 1886
Alice Frances . . . . . Chicago, Ill., January 20, 1889
Eleanor . . . . . Chicago, Ill., September 13, 1891
William Coit . . . . . Chicago, Ill., June 11, 1896

HUDSON . . . BESSIE VAN MATER KEYES . . . Concord, Mass., August 31, 1880
Mary [d. Aug. 12, 1890] . . . Concord, Mass., July 25, 1890
Frederic [d. July 15, 1892] . . . Concord, Mass., Nov. 14, 1891
Marion . . . . . Concord, Mass., Dec. 12, 1895

*HUNTINGTON . MARY BLACKSTONE FREEMAN . . New York, N. Y., April 15, 1885

HUTCHINS . . CARRIE WALKER MURPHY . . . Boston, Mass., September 20, 1882
Mary Stearns . . . . . Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 15, 1883
Helen Walker . . . . . Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 12, 1885

HYDE . . . PRUDENCE MELISSA PHILLIPS . . Washingtonville, N.Y., Nov. 6, 1883
{William, / Elizabeth Beach,} [d. Oct. 24, 1884], Paterson, N. J., October 10, 1884
George Palmer . . . . . Brunswick, Me., April 9, 1887

IVES . . . . AGNES KENNETT . . . . . St. Louis, Mo., May 9, 1894
Stephen Bradshaw . . . . St. Louis, Mo., February 11, 1895

JACKSON. . . GRACE IRVING WHITING . . . Boston, Mass., April 23, 1896
Leonard . . . . . Brookline, Mass., January 14, 1897
Allen . . . . . Newton Centre, Mass., June 28, '02

JACOBS . . . VIRGINIA ELIZABETH EDMISTON . Brownsville, Pa., March 18, 1896
Anne Snowdon . . . . . Brownsville, Pa., April 4, 1897

KEYES . . . ALICE REYNOLDS . . . . . Concord, Mass., July 6, 1881

KIDDER . . . HATTIE LOIS RICE [d. July 12, 1881] . Boston, Mass., February 5, 1880
Charles Archbald, Jr. . . . Milton, Mass, July 12, 1881
JOSEPHINE BURNETT . . . . Southboro, Mass., October 11, 1888
Frances Fiske [d. Jan. 30, '93] . . Southboro, Mass., Dec. 2, 1892
Henry Purkitt . . . . . Boston, Mass., October 2, 1895

*KINNEY . . . SELINA ELIZABETH MCINTOSH . . Springfield, Mass., June 22, 1882
Marian . . . . . Fergus Falls, Minn., May 26, 1883
Selina . . . . . Sacketts Harbor, N.Y., Mar. 24, '85

*LANCASTER. . SARAH JENKINS HILL . . . . Worcester, Mass., June 4, 1892
Southworth . . . . . Worcester, Mass., August 8, 1893
Bruce . . . . . Worcester, Mass., August 22, 1896

LAWRENCE . . ALICE MAY SEARS . . . . . Dorchester, Mass., October 2, 1883
Marjorie . . . . . Medford, Mass., September 9, 1884
A daughter [d. March 12, 1886] . Medford, Mass., March 9, 1886
Samuel Crocker, 2d . . . . Medford, Mass., Sept. 12, 1888
Ruth . . . . . Medford, Mass., August 10, 1890
William Badger, Jr. . . . . Medford, Mass., October 3, 1896

LEE, A. H.	MARIE L. FOSTER	Scranton, Pa., September 24, 1885
	Arthur Howard, Jr. [d. Aug. 8, 1887]	Scranton, Pa., December 9, 1886
	Harry Foster	Scranton, Pa., May 9, 1889
	Lillian Howard	Scranton, Pa., June 21, 1890
	John Rose, Jr.	Scranton, Pa., October 5, 1893
LEONARD	ANNE MUNYON	Paris, France, May 9, 1894
LEROY, H. S.	CLEMENTINA LEROY MORGAN	New York, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1880
	A son [d. January 2, 1882]	New York, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1881
	Herman	New York, N. Y., August 23, 1883
	Robert	New York, N. Y., February 7, 1885
*McDONALD	IDA LEMONDE	Oakland, Cal., March 19, 1888
McLENNAN	ALMA STUART	Quebec, Canada, September 9, 1896
MACK	LAURA GORDON TEST	Washington, D. C., June 1, 1893
	Frances Test	Ann Arbor, Mich., March 15, 1894
	Edward Ely	Ann Arbor, Mich., May 9, 1895
	Gordon Charles	Weller's Grove (near La Porte, Ind.), November 27, 1896
	Cornelia Rebecca	La Porte, Ind., Sept. 4, 1898
	Julian Ellis	La Porte, Ind., April 26, 1903
MADDEN	LAURA A. CHAMBERLAIN	Cincinnati, O., October 27, 1891
MARTIN	HARRIET BELL COGSWELL	Gilmanton, N. H., Jan. 28, 1893
	Frances Coffin	Roxbury, Mass., March 29, 1894
MASON, A. P.	GERTRUDE LEONE BLACK	Gardner, Mass., July 17, 1890
	Alice Caroline	Fitchburg, Mass., Oct. 11, 1891
MASON, C. J.	ANGELINA AUGUSTA MERRY	San Francisco, Cal., May 10, 1892
	Blanche Lyman	San Francisco, Cal., May 31, 1893
	Harriet Sargent, Jr.	San Francisco, Cal., June 10, 1894
	Charles Jeremiah, Jr.	Orange, N. J., Oct. 26, 1899
MEYER	MARIAN ALICE APPLETON	Lenox, Mass., June 25, 1885
	Julia Appleton	Manchester, Mass., July 30, 1886
	Alice Appleton	Boston, Mass., February 9, 1888
	George von Lengerke, Jr.	Boston, Mass., April 7, 1891
MULLIGAN	MINNA RAWSON	Worcester, Mass., Dec. 22, 1886
	Ralph Coolidge	Natick, Mass., March 15, 1888
	Ruth	Natick, Mass., August 23, 1890
	Alice Gardner	Natick, Mass., March 11, 1892
NEWHALL	ALICE LILLA DAVIS	Lynn, Mass., January 15, 1891
	Ruth	Lynn, Mass., November 22, 1894
NICHOLS	EMMA A. TAYLOR	Somerville, Mass., May 23, 1882
	John Robert	Somerville, Mass., May 16, 1883
	Charles Elliot	Somerville, Mass., Oct. 25, 1884
	Howard	Somerville, Mass., May 23, 1887
*NORTON	EUNICE POLK	Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 15, 1894
	Evelyn Polk	Chicago, Ill., Aug. 25, 1895
	Frederic Rowland	Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6, 1897
	Jesse Rowland	Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 29, 1900
OSGOOD, C. N.	MARGARET NELSON ALEXANDER	Waltham, Mass., June 6, 1883
	Harold Alexander	Minneapolis, Minn., Apr. 9, 1885
	Ruth	Minneapolis, Minn., June 1, 1887
	Alan Marshall	Chicago, Ill., February 17, 1889
	Ethel	St. Louis, Mo., October 6, 1892
PATTEN	GEORGIE HOWE TOWNSEND	Boston, Mass., June 21, 1898

*PERKINS, E. C.	ELIZABETH HOAR EVARTS	Windsor, Vt, August 2, 1882
	Edward Newton, Jr.	New York, N. Y., May 3, 1883
	William Maxwell Evarts	New York, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1884
	Charles Callahan	Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 23, 1886
	Mary Ann Davenport	Plainfield, N. J., May 11, 1890
	Frances Bruen	Windsor, Vt., August 24, 1893
	Lewis Anthony	Windsor, Vt., June 27, 1896
PERRY	ANNIE MOSELEY	Dorchester, Mass., Dec. 10, 1884
	Frederick Gardiner, Jr.	Dorchester, Mass., Dec. 7, 1885
	William Carleton	Westfield, Mass., Oct. 13, 1887
PORTER	ENDELLE MAY KNAPP	Boston, Mass., July 31, 1884
	Gertrude Endelle	Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 25, 1888
	Frank Leslie, Jr.	Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 2, 1893
POWEL	MARIAN CLIFFORD HOWARD	Newport, R. I., October 5, 1886
	Harford Willing Hare, Jr.	Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 20, 1887
	Howard Hare	Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 7, 1891
PREBLE	MARY FOSTINA WILDER	Medway, Mass., Sept. 21, 1887
	Mary Harriet	Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 3, 1893
PRESCOTT	EVA SNOW SMITH	Charlestown, Mass., April 22, 1890
	Mortimer Morris	Charlestown, Mass., Mar. 19, 1896
PRESTON	ADA LOUISE FIERO (div.)	Middle Park, Colo., Sept. 17, 1885
	Harry Fiero	Troublesome, Colo., June 7, 1886
	Marian West [d. February 1, 1890]	Troublesome, Colo., Feb. 2, 1889
	Margaret Webb	Denver, Colo., May 1, 1892
	EFFIE GRACE MCLENNAN	Chicago, Ill., 1902
PUTNAM	GRACE WILLIAMS TOWER	Waterville, N. Y., Oct. 17, 1882
	Amelia Tower	Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 26, 1883
	Grace Tower	Rochester, N. Y., May 5, 1886
	Charlemagne T. [d. Feb. 17, 1889]	Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1888
	Earl B., Jr.	Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1890
	Sarah Elizabeth	Rochester, N. Y., July 9, 1892
	Alfred	Rochester, N. Y., January 9, 1895
	Katherine	Waterville, N. Y., August 4, 1898
RICHARDSON	SARA JENKINS HANKS	Cambridge, Mass., June 27, 1888
	Margaret	Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 29, 1890
	Leslie	Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 30, 1895
	Katherine	Cambridge, Mass., April 27, 1900
RINDGE	RHODA MAY KNIGHT	Trenton, Wayne Co., Mich., May 17, 1887
	Samuel Knight	Los Angeles, Cal., April 9, 1888
	Frederick Hastings, Jr.	Redondo, Cal., September 5, 1890
	Rhoda Agatha	Santa Monica, Cal., April 20, 1893
ROBINSON, E.	ELIZABETH H. GOULD	Boston, Mass., February 21, 1881
	Phillips Brooks	Athens, Greece, February 3, 1882
ROBINSON, E. A.	IDA LORING PRATT	Boston, Mass., June 2, 1885
	Margaret	Hingham, Mass., Sept. 28, 1887
	Willis Brainard	Boston, Mass., April 15, 1889
	Albert Lincoln	Wollaston, Mass., May 17, 1891
RUSSELL	LAURA LORING PARKS	Duxbury, Mass., Sept. 19, 1894
	Barbara	Boston, Mass., August 23, 1898
	William Goodwin	Boston, Mass., May 19, 1904
ST. JOHN	MARTHA ELIZABETH EVERETT	Dover, Mass., June 26, 1888
	Everett	Northampton, Mass., Mar. 27, 1889
	Harold	Pittsburg, Pa., July 25, 1892
	Lyman [d. February 26, 1900] / Prescott Keyes [d. Feb. 24, 1900]	Pittsburg, Pa., May 8, 1899

SCHOFIELD	EDNAH MAY GREEN	Rutland, Vt., December 2, 1891
SHANNON	ELLA PRESTON TUCKER	Portland, Me., August 20, 1884
SHEAFE	GRACE THORNTON DAME	Boston, Mass., April 3, 1888
	William, Jr.	Boston, Mass., September 6, 1889
	John Herrick [d. October 21, 1892]	Boston, Mass., November 11, 1890
SHELDON	MARY ROBINSON SENEY	Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 16, 1881
	Mary Seney	Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 19, 1885
	Gertrude	New York, N. Y., May 19, 1888
SHILLITO	LIZZIE GAITHER	Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec 1, 1880
	Elizabeth Gaither	Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 21, 1881
SHUTE	AMELIA F. WEEKS [d. Jan. 27, 1895]	Exeter, N. H., November 18, 1885
	Richard Everett	Exeter, N. H., October 17, 1887
	Nathalie	Exeter, N. H., April 18, 1894
	ELLA KENT	Davenport, Iowa, August 12, 1897
SIBLEY	ELLEN MARIA AYERS	Boston, Mass., October 29, 1886
	Edwin Ayers	Somerville, Mass., Nov. 7, 1887
	Eleanor Hooper	Somerville, Mass., July 15, 1889
SMITH, F. W.	MARY FRANCES MACK	Boston, Mass., June 13, 1888
*SMITH, W. E.	ALICE LEE NEWELL	Framingham, Mass., Sept. 13, 1886
	Everett Newell	Boston, Mass., June 26, 1888
SNELLING	JANE LAMBERT KIELBLOCK [d. Aug. 23, 1898]	Boston, Mass., April 22, 1884
	EUGENIA MENEELY	Troy, N. Y., April 21, 1903
*SPRAGUE	MARY BRYANT PRATT	Boston, Mass., November 25, 1891
	Marion	Beverly, Mass., June 23, 1893
	Eleanor	Washington, D. C., Mar. 27, 1898
STONE	ANNA SMITH ROTCH	New Bedford, Mass., June 11, 1887
	Francis Hathaway, Jr.	New Bedford, Mass., July 3, 1888
STORY	MARIE LOUISE HUNT	New York, N. Y., June 22, 1888
SWAYZE	SARAH LOUISE BARRETT	Newton, N. J., October 13, 1887
SWIFT	ELIZABETH BORDEN HAWES	Fairhaven, Mass., June 9, 1886
	Jireh, 7th	Fairhaven, Mass., April 7, 1889
	Elizabeth	Fairhaven, Mass., June 10, 1890
SYLVESTER	ANNA FRANCES GAGE	Newtonville, Mass., April 3, 1883
	Harold Gage [d. Nov. 16, 1895]	Newtonville, Mass., Mar. 22, 1887
TAUSSIG	EDITH THOMAS GUILD	Exeter, N. H., June 20, 1888
	William Guild	Cambridge, Mass., May 3, 1889
	Mary Guild	Cambridge, Mass., May 8, 1892
	Catharine Crombie	Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 8, 1896
	Helen Brooke	Cambridge, Mass., May 24, 1898
TEMPLE	MARA OCTAVIA PAINE	Medford, Mass., December 1, 1887
	Henrietta Frances	Boston, Mass., February 22, 1889
	Edna Josephine	Acton, Mass., April 4, 1898
THOMAS, J. E.	HARRIET NEWELL TURNEY	New York, N. Y., April 6, 1903
THOMAS, W. B.	CAROLINE WADLEIGH	Boston, Mass., August 20, 1883
THORP	ANNIE ALLEGRA LONGFELLOW	Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14, 1885
	Alice Allegra	Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 28, 1888
	Amelia Chapman	Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 11, 1889
	Erica	Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 14, 1890
	Annie Longfellow	Cambridge, Mass., April 9, 1894
	Priscilla Alden	Cambridge, Mass., March 25, 1897
TRULL	HANNAH JANE BAILEY	Lowell, Mass., October 8, 1884
TUBBS	ALICE WHITCOMB HAGAR	Colusa, Cal., May 16, 1895
TWOMBLEY		London, England, 1895

UNDERWOOD	JENNIE CUSHING	Boston, Mass., May 21, 1884
	Alice Cushing	Belmont, Mass., February 23, 1885
	Margaret Cushing	Belmont, Mass., June 24, 1886
	Helen Cushing	Belmont, Mass., Dec. 20, 1888
URQUHART	KATHERINE HAYES	Ogden, Utah, October 7, 1895
	Katherine Augusta	Oakland, Cal., January 29, 1896
	Anne	Oakland, Cal., August 21, 1901
VAN RENSSELAER	LOUISA GREENOUGH LANE	Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 3, 1880
WELLS, C. L.	MARIE LOUISE GODDARD	Nashua, N. H., January 28, 1886
*WELLS, J. W.	HARRIET ELIZABETH LIVERMORE	Manchester, N. H., Sept. 27, 1884
	Edmund Dwight	Manchester, N. H., July 11, 1885
	Gladys	Atlantic City, N. J., July 4, 1888
	Elizabeth Livermore	Woodbury, N. J., Dec. 23, 1889
WHITING	CHARLOTTE AUGUSTA NOYES	Boston, Mass., January 1, 1883
	Beatrice Fay	Boston, Mass., December 12, 1883
WILTON	MARY ELLEN GLIDDEN	Salem, Mass., July 3, 1880
	Richard Clive	Somerville, Mass., April 4, 1881
	Wilfrid Mallett	N. Rochester, Mass., Oct. 2, 1882
	Emma Gladys	Rindge, N. H., October 17, 1884
	Herbert Wilder [d. Oct. 17, 1896]	Rindge, N. H., August 16, 1886
	Edith Victoria [d. April 5, 1894]	Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 24, 1889
	Ulysses Stanley Mayhew	W. Tisbury, Mass., April 24, 1891
	Mary Virginia [d. May 15, 1894]	Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 18, 1892
WOLFF	ETHEL PUMPELLY LODER	Newport, R. I., October 20, 1887
	Antoinette [d. Oct. 28, 1890]	Rutland, Vt., August 6, 1890
	Philip	Dover, N. J., September 19, 1892
	Henry Engelbert	Boston, Mass., November 6, 1894
WOOD	ANNIE LOUISE BLANDY	Dorchester, Mass., June 27, 1885
	Myra de Normandie	Roxbury, Mass., May 12, 1886
	Marjorie	Roxbury, Mass., October 4, 1887
	Grayson	Arlington, Mass., Aug. 25, 1889
WRIGHT	KATHARINE LOUISE DAVIS	Washington, D.C., May 2, 1888
	Katharine Louise	New York, N. Y., October 30, 1889

ADAMS	MARY ELIZABETH MORSE [d. Mar. 31, '87]	Boston, Mass., October, 1885
	A daughter [d. March 10, 1887]	Boston, Mass., March 10, 1887
ALLEY	MATTIE SOPHIA BOTUME	Stoneham, Mass., July 6, 1882
BISSELL	LUCY AGNES COFFEY	Brooklyn, N. Y., October 30, 1883
	Mary Rose	Buffalo, N. Y., October 31, 1884
	Harriott Amelia	Buffalo, N. Y., September 3, 1888
	Lucy Agnes	Buffalo, N. Y., July 19, 1891
	Herbert Coffey [d. May 31, 1896]	Buffalo, N. Y., September 28, 1895
BLANCHARD	CLARA FESSENDEN BARNES	Boston, Mass., Nov. 30, 1887
	Fessenden Seaver	Brookline, Mass., Nov. 7, 1888
	Charles Barnes	Brookline, Mass., April 22, 1892
	Edith Page Benjamin Seaver, Jr.	Brookline, Mass., April 22, 1897
BRIGHAM, C.	AMY HOWE JOHNSON	Salem, Mass., Oct. 9, 1900
BRIGHAM, N. M.	LUELLA COBB YOUNG	Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 10, 1894
	Nathalie Francis	Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 18, 1896
	Virginia Howe	Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 22, 1898
BUTLER, G. M.	ELIZABETH DAVIS SIMPSON	Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 26, 1884
	Sarah Simpson	Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 10, 1885

CARVER	M. Louise Prescott	Dorchester, Mass., Jan. 22, 1879
DAY*	Mary H. Smith [d. May 7, 1903]	Barnstable, Mass., 1885
	Thomas Chadwick, Jr.	Barnstable, Mass., June 24, 1886
DODGE	Harriet Elizabeth [Havenner] McEwen	Washington, D. C., Nov. 12, 1895
	Elizabeth	Washington, D. C., July 4, 1897
DRIVER	Alice Plummer Dole	Boston, Mass., Nov. 12, 1884
	A son [d. Nov. 20, 1886]	Boston, Mass., Nov. 20, 1886
EARLE	Catherine Hansell French	Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 12, 1881
	Has nine children living; dates not furnished
FRENCH	Augusta A. Graham [d. Mar. 27, 1892]	Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 30, 1883
	Clayton, Jr.	Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9, 1884
	Augusta Graham	Rosemont, Pa., June 22, 1886
	Harry B., Jr. [d. May 25, 1892]	Rosemont, Pa., November 26, 1887
	Bessie Graham	Rosemont, Pa., April 12, 1889
	James Graham	Rosemont, Pa., January 29, 1891
HENDERSON	Agnes Roudebush	London, England, ——, 1889
	Harold, Jr.	——, ——, 1890
	Francis Tracy	Dresden, ——, 1896
HUTCHINSON	Acadia Cumins	Dixon, Ill., December 20, 1883
KEENE	Emerin Price Semple	Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8, 1893
	Emerin Semple	Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27, 1894
	Caroline Williams	Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 18, 1898
KITFIELD	Marie Butler Carter	Manchester, Mass., Nov. 29, 1882
MILES	Lizzie Baxter James	Brookline, Mass., Jan. 16, 1883
	Herbert James	Brookline, Mass., Oct. 22, 1883
MILLER, G. S.	Hattie Ella Russ	Lincolnville, Me., Oct. 4, 1883
MORSE	Catherine Tumay [d. June 10, 1885]	Springfield, Ill., October 4, 1883
	Louisa Penn Morton	April 27, 1897
PAGE	Kate A. Reed	Para, Brazil, September 6, 1883
PERKINS, C. L.	Margaret Gandy	New York, N. Y., January 17, 1882
	John Lawrence	New York, N. Y., Dec. 1, 1886
ROBBINS	Sarah Guthrie Jewett	New York, N. Y., April 24, 1889
	Sarah Jewett	New York, N. Y., May 15, 1890
	Julia Wainwright	New York, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1894
SARGENT, L.*	Cora Nelson Glenn	New York, N. Y., April 11, 1882
SAWYER	Minnie H. Pierce [d. Dec. 10, 1883]	Gardner, Mass., April 24, 1883
	Myra Bertha Tebault	Norfolk, Va., May 5, 1885
	Harold Allen [d. Feb. 15, 1889]	Gardner, Mass., July 28, 1887
	Marjorie	Gardner, Mass., ——, 1890
	Edward	Gardner, Mass., ——, 1894
SHEA	Jennie Wolf	St. Clairville, Ohio, March 8, 1877
	John Cornelius	W. Wheeling, Ohio, Jan. 1, 1878
	Christian James Irving	W. Wheeling, Ohio, Dec. 4, 1881
	Margaret Parthenia	Washington, D. C., Jan. 31, 1884
	Dion	Omaha, Neb., January 6, 1886
	Edwin	Omaha, Neb., April 11, 1890
STORM*	Isabel Towle Abeel	New York, N. Y., Oct.30, 1879
	May Brevoort	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 14, 1881
	Gretta Adriance	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 13, 1885

STRONG	Mary Emeline Geiger	St. Joseph, Mo., May 7, 1895
TAFF	Sarah Jane Welch	Boston, Mass., August 20, 1884
	Helen Agnes	Waltham, Mass., Jan. 24, 1887
WARE	Eva Maude Hughes	Chiswick, London, England, Nov. 23, 1896
	Robert Hughes	New York, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1898
WELD	Hannah Putnam Train	Duxbury, Mass., April 11, 1900
	Mary	Boston, Mass., April 3, 1901
WILLARD	Ida Lillian Hutchinson	Burlington, Mass., Mar. 24, 1880
	Constance Alton	Lexington, Mass., Dec. 14, 1880
	Hélène Adams [d. June 10, 1902]	Lexington, Mass., Jan. 23, 1882
	Edith	Lexington, Mass., June 13, 1885

DEATHS

AUSTIN	Jamaica Plain, Mass., January 4, 1894
BROWN, A. C.	Baltimore, Md., May 13, 1899
CADWELL	New York, N. Y., December 14, 1881
CHURCHILL	Isles of Shoals, N. H., July 29, 1900
DALZELL	North Falmouth, Mass., July 3, 1896
DAVIS	Boston, Mass., February 22, 1882
DOLLOFF	Exeter, N. H., September 20, 1882
ELLIS, F. H.	Brookline, Mass., August 14, 1896
EVANS	Boston, Mass., March 28, 1886
GODDARD	New York, N. Y., July 25, 1900
HOWARD	Phœnix, Ariz., November 3, 1898
HUNTINGTON	Martinique, West Indies, November 23, 1893
KINNEY	Claremont, Cal., May 2, 1900
LANCASTER	Worcester, Mass., August 16, 1901
McDONALD	London, England, October 4, 1897
NORTON	Ironton, Ohio, June 25, 1900
PERKINS, E. C.	Plainfield, N. J., October 30, 1902
PERRY	Boston, Mass., October 16, 1890
POOR	Andover, Mass., June 11, 1900
SMITH, W. E.	Boston, Mass., July 13, 1890
SOMERBY	Boston, Mass., June 19, 1890
SPRAGUE	Providence, R. I., January 31, 1902
TARBELL	Boston, Mass., December 6, 1886
TITUS	Rehoboth, Mass., September 26, 1879
WARREN	Cambridge, Mass., January 3, 1894
WELLS, J. W.	May's Landing, N. J., November 9, 1892

ARNOLD	New York, N. Y., June —, 1885
BALDWIN	Somerville, Mass., April 15, 1878
CONLAN	Cambridge, Mass., July 4, 1883
DAY	Boston, Mass., April 27, 1905
GALE	Boston, Mass., May 11, 1892
HALEY	West Newton, Mass., April 12, 1891
HEWITT	Cañon City, Col., February 27, 1879
JAMES	Philadelphia, Pa., March 16, 1892
KATZENBACH	San Francisco, Cal., August —, 1880
LOBSITZ	Boston, Mass., February 17, 1879
PEW	Gloucester, Mass., June 25, 1880
SARGENT, L.	Buzzard's Bay, Mass., August 12, 1883
STORM	East Orange, N. J., September 27, 1903
TESCHEMACHER	Territel, Switzerland, December —, 1892
WESTON	London, England, April 16, 1882
WILLIAMS	Near Centreville, Md., October 31, 1896

OCCUPATIONS

AGRICULTURE:—G. Osgood.

ART:—J. T. Coolidge, E. Robinson.

BUSINESS:—Alger, Almy, Binney, A. H. Bowen, Burr, Butler, Cary, Chapin, Cowdin, Crocker, Cutler, Dow, Edmands, Faunce, Felton, Gardiner, Grannis, Hanks, Harding, S. Hill, Hubbard, Ives, Jacobs, Kingsbury, A. H. Lee, H. S. Le Roy, Mercer, J. W. Mitchell, Motley, Nichols, Norton, Nunn, C. N. Osgood, Porter, Prescott, Preston, Rindge, Schwartz, Shannon, Sheafe, Sheldon, Shillito, Simpson, F. W. Smith, Swift, Tappan, W. B. Thomas, Thompson, Tubbs, Underwood, Urquhart, Vaughn, Watson, Whiting, Wright, Alley, Dodge, Driver, Earle, Ela, French, Gilbert, Kitfield, G. S. Miller, C. L. Perkins, Robbins, Towne, Ware.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE:—Meyer, Keene.

JOURNALISM:—Cook, Strong.

JUDGES:—Schofield, Shute, Swayze.

LAW:—Ayers, Bacon, Baily, Barlow, Bates, Baylies, Bennett, Blood, Brandeis, C. O. Brewster, F. Brewster, H. K. Brown, Burlingham, M. S. Burrill, Casas, Case, Clapp, W. W. Coolidge, Cox, Crawford, Cushing, Denègre, R. W. Ellis, Hoadly, Hodges, Holmes, Hoppin, Houston, Hudson, Hutchins, Jackson, Keyes, Lawrence, Leonard, Macfarlane, McLennan, Madden, Monroe, Mulligan, Patten, Putnam, Richardson, Rose, Russell, Schofield, Shute, Sibley, Story, Swayze, Temple, Thayer, Thorp, Townsend, Trimble, Trull, Van Rensselaer, Wood, Adams, Bissell, C. Brigham, Henderson, Hilton, Price, Rogers, Shea.

LECTURER:—N. M. Brigham.

Librarians:—Andrews, Homer.

Medicine: — Aldrich, Anthony, J. T. Bowen, Briggs, Cobb, Conant, Curtis, Daniels, Delano, Donaldson, Gage, Galloupe, Hodgdon, Johnson, Mack, Martin, A. P. Mason, G. N. Miller, Morris, Newhall, Preble, H. Stetson, Blanchard, Hutchinson, J. S. Mitchell, Sawyer, Weld.

Ministry: — Brooks, G. H. Burrill, Hale, W. B. Hill, Houghton, Hyde, C. J. Mason, E. A. Robinson, St. John, H. R. Sargent, Snelling, C. L. Wells, Wilton, Lewis.

Teaching: — Amen, Apthorp, Atherton, J. A. Brown, Crosman, Dunn, Gardiner, Hopkins, Rand, Sylvester, Taussig, J. E. Thomas, Wolff, Bailey, Bryant, Littlefield, E. L. Morse, Whitcomb.

GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF THE CLASS

CALIFORNIA:
- Bakersfield ..... Hopkins.
- Los Angeles ..... Rindge.
- Oakland ..... Urquhart.
- San Francisco ..... Tubbs, Urquhart, Friedlander.

CONNECTICUT:
- Somers ..... Harlow.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:
- Washington ..... S. Hill, Homer, Osgood, Dodge, Hutchinson.

ILLINOIS:
- Chicago ..... Andrews, Case, Cobb, Hubbard, Rose, N. M. Brigham, Bryant, Morse.

INDIANA:
- La Porte ..... Mack.

KENTUCKY:
- Louisville ..... Brandeis.

LOUISIANA:
- New Orleans ..... Denègre, C. L. Wells.

MAINE:
- Bangor ..... Schwartz, H. Stetson.
- Brunswick ..... Hyde.
- Portland ..... H. Butler.

MARYLAND:
- Baltimore ..... Greene.

MASSACHUSETTS:
- Arlington ..... Wood.
- Belmont ..... Underwood.
- Boston ..... Atherton, Ayers, Bates, Bennett, Binney, J. T. Bowen, F. Brewster, Briggs, Brooks, H. K. Brown, Burr, Casas, Clapp, Conant, J. T. Coolidge, Cushing, Cutler, Delano, Dow, Dunn, Edmands, Galloupe, Hanks, Harding, Heard, Hodges, Houston, Hudson, Boston, Mass.—Continued ..... Hutchins, Jackson, Kelly, Keyes, Kidder, Lawrence, Martin, J. W. Mitchell, Monroe, Morris, Mulligan, Nichols, Nunn, Patten, Prescott, Preston, Richardson, E. Robinson, Russell, St. John, Schofield, Sheafe, Sibley, Simpson, F. W. Smith, Snelling, Sprague, Sylvester, Temple, J. E. Thomas, W. B. Thomas, Thorp, Underwood, Vaughn, Wood.

Adams, Alley, C. Brigham, Chandler, Driver, Ela, Everett, Gilbert, Grant, Hilton, Kitfield, Rogers, Sibley, Wells.

Brookline ..... Cutler, Monroe, St. John, Blanchard, J. S. Mitchell.

Cambridge ..... Carey, Hale, Houghton, Hutchins, Preble, Rand, Richardson, Taussig, Thorp, Wolff.

Chestnut Hill ..... Curtis, Edmands, Hanks, Harding.

Concord ..... Houston, Hudson, Keyes, Miles.

Dedham ..... Hodgdon.

Easthampton ..... G. H. Burrill.

Fitchburg ..... Blood, Crocker, A. P. Mason.

Framingham ..... H. K. Brown.

Gardner ..... Sawyer.

Haverhill ..... Anthony.

Hingham Centre ..... E. A. Robinson.

Lawrence ..... Porter.

Lenox ..... S. Hill.

Lexington ..... Clapp, Nunn, Willard.

Lowell ..... Gage, Motley, Trull.

Lynn ..... Newhall.

Malden ..... Ayers, Casas, Coverly, Schofield.

Manchester ..... Denègre, Kitfield.

Medford ..... Lawrence.

Milton ..... Apthorp, C. Brigham.

Natick ..... Mulligan.

Needham ..... Dunn.

New Bedford ..... Stone, Swift, Haskell.

Newton Centre ..... Baily.

Newtonville ..... Sylvester.

Oxford ..... Cushman.

Salem ..... W. W. Coolidge, Wilton.

Somerville ..... Aldrich, Hopkins, Nichols.

Southborough ..... Kidder.

Springfield ..... R. W. Ellis.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Continued.

Stockbridge ..... R. C. Stetson.
Weston ..... Bennett, Cushing.
Winchester ..... Dwinell.
Woburn ..... Dow.
Worcester ..... Thayer.

MICHIGAN:

Detroit ..... Cook.

MISSOURI:

Kansas City ..... Shannon.
St. Joseph ..... Strong.

NEBRASKA:

Omaha ..... Ives, Shea.

NEW HAMPSHIRE:

Berlin ..... Johnson.
Exeter ..... Amen, J. A. Brown, Shute.
Kensington ..... G. Osgood.

NEW JERSEY:

Newark ..... Swayze.
Summit ..... Crawford.

NEW YORK:

Albany ..... Van Rensselaer.
Brooklyn ..... A. H. Bowen, C. J. Mason.
Buffalo ..... Almy, Cary, A. H. Lee, Bissell.
Mt. Vernon ..... Bacon.
New York ..... Bacon, Barlow, Baylies, Black, C. O. Brewster, Burlingham, M. S. Burrill, Cowdin, Cox, Crawford, Daniels, Grannis, Holmes, Hoppin, H. S. Leroy, Macfarlane, Madden, G. N. Miller, Sheldon, Townsend, Trimble, Wright, Butler, Carver, Henderson, A. LeRoy, C. L. Perkins, Robbins, Ware.
Pelham Manor ..... Holmes.
Portchester ..... Story.
Poughkeepsie ..... W. B Hill.
Utica ..... Watson.
West Park ..... Sargent.

OHIO:

Brunswick ..... Leister.
Cincinnati ..... Hoadly, Shillito, Whitcomb.

PENNSYLVANIA:

Brownsville ..... Jacobs.
Carnegie ..... Faunce.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Continued.

Doylestown ..... Mercer.
Haverford ..... Crosman.
Philadelphia ..... Felton, Leonard, Powel, Putnam, Thompson, Earle, French, Towne.
Wilkes-Barre ..... Price.

RHODE ISLAND:

Newport ..... Powel.
Providence ..... Littlefield.

SOUTH CAROLINA:

Union ..... Bailey.

WASHINGTON:

Olympia ..... Kingsbury.
Seattle ..... Chapin, S. Hill, Tappan.

WYOMING:

Sheridan ..... Alger.

BRAZIL:

Para ..... Page.

CANADA:

Montreal ..... McLennan.

FRANCE:

Paris ..... Twombley, Whiting.

JAPAN:

Tokyo ..... Gardiner.

RUSSIA:

St. Petersburg ..... Meyer.

SWITZERLAND:

Geneva ..... Keene.

PUBLICATIONS BY MEMBERS OF THE CLASS

ANDREWS.—"Annual Reports to the Directors of the John Crerar Library, for the years 1900 to 1904," printed in the Annual Reports (Sixth to Tenth) of the Library. Chicago, 1901-1905.

"The John Crerar Library. A free public reference library of scientific and technical literature, 1894 to 1901." Chicago, 1902.

"Maps in Public Libraries." Public Libraries, 1903, 22.

"Acquisition of Books." Public Libraries, 1903, 195.

"Cooperative Work of the John Crerar Library." Library Journal, 1903, c. 166.

"Comments (on Cataloguing)." Library Journal, 1903, c. 228.

"Some International Aspects of the [St. Louis] Conference." Public Libraries, 1904, 496.

As Editor: A List of Serials in the Public Libraries of Chicago and Evanston, compiled by the Chicago Library Club, Chicago, 1901; Supplement to the List of Serials in Public Libraries of Chicago and Evanston, Chicago, 1903.

BLACK.—"Problem, Science {function} Analysis; Formula, Science { } Analysis, Science {x} Analysis, Science { individual / general / universal } Analysis."

Privately printed, New York, January, 1905.

"Propædeutic to Science {function} Analysis." New York, May, 1905.

CAREY.—"Nervous Prostration and its Spiritual Cause." Privately printed.

Several articles for newspapers and magazines.

COBB.—Various articles for medical journals.

CONANT.—Various articles for medical journals.

J. T. COOLIDGE.—"A Few Considerations of Japanese Wood Carving," Handicraft, June, 1903.

Memorial volume of the history and dedication of the Warren Monument, compiled for the City of Boston, May, 1905.

HALE.—"The Psychological Elements of Religious Faith," lectures by the late C. C. Everett, D.D., LL.D., edited by Edward Hale. The Macmillan Co., 1902.

HARLOW.—"Circumcision in Infancy," The Medical Record, Sept. 26, 1903.
"The Willing Game," an article on hypnotic influence, in reply to Professor James' "Motor Automatism," Public Opinion, Feb. 4, 1904.
"Glacial Remains at Kibbe, Connecticut," Springfield Republican, July 25, 1904.

W. B. HILL.—"The Present Problems of New Testament Study," Gorham, 1903.

HYDE.—"Jesus' Way," Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1902.
"From Epicurus to Christ," The Macmillan Co., 1904.
"The College," Educational Review, December, 1904.

MACK.—"The Universality of the Law of Similars," Hahnemannian Monthly, June, 1900.
"Possible Good Preferable to Impossible Best," Medical Visitor, June, 1900.
"The Homeopath who does not restrict himself to Homeopathy," Philadelphia Medical Journal, June 2, 1900.
Abstract of "The Homeopath," etc., New Albany Medical Herald, October, 1900.
"A Medical Platform which purports to be Catholic," Wisconsin Medical Recorder, October, 1900.
"Christian Science," New Church Review, April, 1901.
"A Present Century View of Homeopathy," New Church Messenger, June 25, 1902.
"The Universal Law of a Particular Cure," Medical Counselor, September, 1902.
"The Homeopathy of Hippocrates," Hahnemannian Monthly, October, 1902.
"What? Why? When?" American Medical Monthly, February, 1903.
"Anent Amalgamation," The Clinique, Feb. 15, 1903.
"Amalgamation of the Schools," North American Journal of Homeopathy, September, 1903.
"Swedenborg upon the Brain, the Heart and the Lungs," American Medical Monthly, September, 1903.
The same reprinted, New Church Messenger, Feb. 3, 1904.
"Regrets," North American Journal of Homeopathy, July, 1904.
"Are We to have a United Medical Profession?" Privately printed and for sale by the author. 1904.

RINDGE.—"The Best Way." Privately printed, 1902.

SHUTE.—"The Real Diary of a Real Boy," The Everett Press, November, 1903.

"Sequil or Things Whitch Ain't Finished in the First," A series of sixteen articles in the Saturday Evening Post, Philadelphia, published in book form by the Everett Press, Sept. 1, 1904.

"Stories of Real Boys," Leslie's Monthly Magazine, July, August, September, November and December, 1903, and January, 1904. Illustrated.

"Neighborhood Sketches," Three articles in the New England Magazine, 1904.

"The Country Lawyer," Leslie's Monthly Magazine, September, 1904.

"The Works of Plupy Shute," and "The Love Letters of Plupy Shute," a series of nine articles now appearing in the Saturday Evening Post.

"The Making of Wills," Good Housekeeping, February, 1905.

SIBLEY.—"Stillman Gott, Farmer and Fisherman," August, 1902.

WARE.—"First-Hand Bits of Stable Lore," 1902.

"Our Noblest Friend, the Horse," 1903.

"Driving," 1903.

CLASS MEETINGS

THE WAYSIDE INN, SUDBURY, MASSACHUSETTS, April 15, 1905

"Twenty-six members of '79 enjoyed an outing at the Wayside Inn on Saturday, April 15. The party left Boston in a special car attached to an afternoon train on the Massachusetts Central Road. A tramp of a mile and a quarter over a winding road brought them from the station west of South Sudbury to the Inn about four o'clock.

"The weather was delightful, and all careworn looks were quickly replaced by appearances of youth renewed. The real spirit of youth, too, was awakened in every one, finding expression in a two-inning ball game. The nines were captained respectively by Conant and Hanks, and the pleasures of the contest were equally divided between the players and the spectators. Aldrich, c., Clapp, p., Conant, 1st b., H. K. Brown, 2d b., Jackson, 3d b., Morris, s. s., Bennett, r. f., Sylvester, c. f., Mitchell, l. f., made up the one nine, and J. E. Thomas, c., Hanks and Lawrence, p., Heard, 1st b., Temple, 2d b., Lawrence and Hanks, 3d b., Gilbert, s. s., Amen, r. f., Shute, c. f., St. John, l. f., constituted the other. Schofield, Keyes, Hudson, Martin and J. T. Coolidge were among those who applauded the fine plays. Harding was umpire. The score was 33 to 8 in favor of the Doctor's team. This disparity in runs was due partly to the greater efficiency of the battery of the winning nine, and partly to the remarkable batting qualities of its members. Unable to get out in the ordinary course of play, they generously took to batting left-handed, and so allowed their innings to come to an end. But for a trip and consequent somersault, St. John would have made a brilliant running catch; and a hard hit ball to left field would never have resulted in a home run, if Mitchell had not thought discretion the better part of valor.

"An hour's chat, with an examination of the interesting apartments and furniture of the Inn, followed the game, and a little before seven o'clock the company sat down to dinner, Clapp presiding. The occasion was informal, the old songs were sung with much feeling, and all had a thoroughly good time.

"Before nine o'clock the fellows were in barges en route to Framingham Centre. Arrived there, they took a special electric car, which made good time over the Boston and Worcester route, reaching Park Square ahead of the scheduled hour of arrival, eleven o'clock. The evening ride and this run home proved to be not the least pleasant part of the trip.

"At the dinner a strong and unanimous sentiment was expressed in favor of making an effort to assist the Class Committee in some way to provide funds which may be used to facilitate reunions and encourage hospitality among members of the class." ROBERT P. CLAPP.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK, 1905

At the "Pop" Concert in Symphony Hall on Monday evening, June 26, the Class was represented by only seven of the thirty or more members who had sent word beforehand that they expected to be present.

On Tuesday, June 27, a committee, consisting of Clifford Brigham, Briggs and Underwood, had engaged the Country Club links, Brookline, for a golf tournament for members of the Class who desired to attend. Those who did not play golf were invited to come to lunch. "The affair," Underwood writes, "was a great success, although the attendance was small. Fourteen fellows played golf, and six others came to lunch. In the singles Grant made the best gross and net score, winning the first prize; Underwood won the second prize. In the doubles Thorp and Grant won first prize, making the best gross and net score. It is a curious fact that the two men who made the highest score were those who know the most about golf, one being the ex-president of the American Golf Association and the other having written the best book on the subject. A great many fellows who were not able to be present, expressed the wish that this golf tournament the day before Commencement might be made a permanent feature."

Underwood adds the suggestion that in future all members of the Class should be furnished with a crimson button with the '79 in gold on it, to be worn at Commencement time. He wishes that all graduates would wear the numbers of their respective classes in their buttonholes.

On Commencement Day, June 28, Holworthy 18 was open as usual for the use of the members of the Class. A very large number were present during the day. The presence of the President of the United States, who was in Cambridge to assist in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the graduation of his class, was of course an added inducement to many to attend; but unquestionably our numbers were due also in large part to the interest awakened by the celebration of our own twenty-fifth anniversary a year ago.

ADDRESSES

Notice of any change in address should be sent at once to the Secretary

Aldrich, Dr. Albert C., 262 School Street, Somerville, Massachusetts.
Alger, Horace C., Sheridan, Wyoming.
Almy, Francis, 427 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, New York.
Amen, Harlan P., Exeter, New Hampshire.
Andrews, Clement W., John Crerar Library, Chicago, Illinois.
Anthony, Francis W., 50 Merrimack Street, Haverhill, Massachusetts.
Apthorp, Harrison O., Milton, Massachusetts.
Atherton, Edward H., 82 Ruthven Street, Roxbury Station, Boston, Massachusetts.
Ayers, George D., Lincoln, Nebraska.
Bacon, Charles W., 460 East 4th Street, Mt. Vernon, New York.
Baily, Henry, 23 Court Street, Boston, and 991 Beacon Street, Newton Centre, Massachusetts.*
Barlow, Peter T., 56 East 21st Street, New York, New York.
Bates, Waldron, 50 Congress Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Baylies, Edmund L., 54 Wall Street, and 20 West 36th Street, New York, New York.
Bennett, Samuel C., 10 Tremont Street, Boston, and Weston, Massachusetts.
Binney, Amos, 526 Exchange Building, Boston, Massachusetts.
Black, George A., 621 West 113th Street, New York, New York.
Blood, Charles H., Fitchburg, Massachusetts.
Bowen, Allyn H., 44 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, New York.
Bowen, Dr. John T., 14 Marlborough Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Brandeis, Albert S., Louisville, Kentucky.
Brewster, Charles O., 32 Liberty Street, and 25 Irving Place, New York, New York.
Brewster, Frank, 23 Court Street, and Glen Road (Jamaica Plain), Boston, Massachusetts.
Briggs, Dr. Frederic M., 31 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts.
Brooks, Rev. Arthur A., 53 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Brown, Howard K., 53 Devonshire Street, Boston, and Framingham, Massachusetts.

———*When two addresses are given the first is the business address and the second the home address.

Brown, John A., Exeter, New Hampshire.
Burlingham, Charles C., 27 William Street, New York, New York.
Burr, I. Tucker, 29 Exchange Building, Boston, Massachusetts.
Burrill, Rev. George H., Easthampton, Massachusetts.
Burrill, Middleton S., 49 Wall Street, and 36 East 38th Street, New York, New York.
Butler, Harry, Portland, Maine.
Carey, Arthur A., Cambridge, Massachusetts.
Cary, Walter, 184 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, New York.
Casas, William B. De Las, 40 Water Street, Boston, and 95 Cedar Street, Malden, Massachusetts.
Case, William W., 172 Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Chapin, Herman, Seattle, Washington.
Clapp, Robert P., Lexington, Massachusetts.
Cobb, Dr. Joseph P., 254 East 47th Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Conant, Dr. William M., 486 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts.
Cook, George F., 242 Locust Street, Detroit, Michigan.
Coolidge, J. Templeman, Jr., 114 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Coolidge, William W., 393 Essex Street, Salem, Massachusetts.
Coverly, George T., Jr., Malden, Massachusetts.
Cowdin, John E., 84 and 86 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York.
Cox, Wilmot T., 34 Pine Street, New York, New York.
Crawford, Frank L., 32 Liberty Street, New York, New York.
Crocker, Alvah, Fitchburg, Massachusetts.
Crosman, Charles S., The Haverford School, Haverford, Pennsylvania.
Curtis, Dr. Francis G., Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.
Cushing, Livingston, 10 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Cutler, George C., 70 Kilby Street, Boston, and Brookline, Massachusetts.
Daniels, Dr. Frank H., 103 West 122d Street, New York, New York.
Delano, Dr. Samuel, 39 Newbury Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Denègre, Walter D., New Orleans, Louisiana.
Donaldson, Dr. Frank.
Dow, Herbert B., 46 Warren Avenue, Woburn, Massachusetts.
Dunn, Francis DeM., Needham, Massachusetts.
Edmands, M. Grant, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.
Ellis, Ralph W., 5 Elm Street, Springfield, Massachusetts.
Faunce, George, 525 Chestnut Street, Carnegie, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania.
Felton, Edgar C., 312 Girard Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
Gage, Dr. J. Arthur, 48 Central Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.
Galloupe, Dr. Charles W., 188 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts.
Gardiner, James McD., No. 15 Gabancho, Tokyo, Japan.
Grannis, Herman W., 110-114 West 32d Street, New York, New York.

Hale, Rev. Edward, 65 Sparks Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Hanks, Charles S., Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

Harding, Louis B., 620 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, and Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

Harlow, William B., R. F. D. 1, Somers, Connecticut.

Heard, Richard, St. Botolph Club, Boston, Massachusetts.

Hill, Samuel, Seattle, Washington, and 1712 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Hill, Rev. William B., Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York.

Hoadly, George, St. Paul Building, and Grandin Road, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hodgdon, Dr. Andrew H., 110 Maple Place, Dedham, Massachusetts.

Hodges, George C., Box 1907, 31 Milk Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Holmes, Jabish, Jr., 32 Liberty Street, and 321 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York.

Homer, Thomas J., Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

Hopkins, Duane, Stockdale Ranch, Bakersfield, California.

Hoppin, Samuel H., 55 Liberty Street, New York, New York.

Houghton, Rev. Edward L., 162 Hancock Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Houston, Francis A., 101 Milk Street, Boston, and Concord, Massachusetts.

Hubbard, William H., 145 LaSalle Street, Chicago, and Lake Forest, Illinois.

Hudson, Woodward, 340 South Station, Boston, and Concord, Massachusetts.

Hutchins, William E., 37 Mt. Vernon Street, North Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Hyde, Rev. William DeW., President Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine.

Ives, David O., 1004 Farnam Street, Omaha, Nebraska.

Jackson, George W., 31 Milk Street, Boston, and 34 Ballard Street, Newton Centre, Massachusetts.

Jacobs, Martin R., Brownsville, Pennsylvania.

Johnson, Dr. Henry W., Berlin, New Hampshire.

Kelley, Webster, 37 Springfield Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Keyes, Prescott, 1103-4 Barristers' Hall, Pemberton Square, Boston, and Concord, Massachusetts.

Kidder, Charles A., 115 Devonshire Street, Boston, and Southborough, Massachusetts.

Kingsbury, Edward P., Office of United States Surveyor General, Olympia, Washington.

Lawrence, William B., 40 Water Street, Boston, and 7 Rural Avenue, Medford, Massachusetts.

Lee, Arthur H., 432 Linwood Avenue, Buffalo, New York.

Lee, Thomas, Westport, New York.

Leonard, Frederick M., 119 South 4th Street, and 4243 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

LeRoy, Herman S., Union Club, New York, New York.

Macfarlane, Wallace, 32 Liberty Street, New York, New York.

Mack, Dr. Charles S., LaPorte, Indiana.

McLennan, Francis, 1724 Notre Dame Street, and 949 Dorchester Street, Montreal, Canada.

Madden, Edgar, 49 Exchange Place, New York, New York.

Martin, Dr. Francis C., 27 Dudley Street, Roxbury Station, Boston, Massachusetts.

Mason, Dr. Atherton P., 355½ Main Street, Fitchburg, Massachusetts.

Mason, Rev. Charles J., 270 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, New York.

Mercer, Henry C., Doylestown, Pennsylvania.

Meyer, George von L., American Embassy, St. Petersburg, Russia.

Miller, Dr. George N., 811 Madison Avenue, New York, New York.

Mitchell, James W., 11 Walnut Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Monroe, William I., 71 Upland Road, Brookline, Massachusetts.

Morris, Dr. John G., 97 Broadway, South Boston, Massachusetts.

Motley, George S., Lowell, Massachusetts.

Mulligan, Henry C., 73 Tremont Street, Boston, and Natick, Massachusetts.

Newhall, Dr. Herbert W., 82 Broad Street, Lynn, Massachusetts.

Nichols, John L., 34 Devonshire Building, Boston, Massachusetts.

Nunn, Charles P., 316 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Osgood, Charles N., Sun Building, and 1713 P Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Patten, Francis B., 178 Devonshire Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Porter, Frank L., 477 Essex Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts.

Powel, H. W. Habe, Newport, Rhode Island.

Preble, Dr. Wallace, 22 Appian Way, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Prescott, Walter C., 29 Berwick Road, Newton Centre, Massachusetts.

Preston, T. Webb, 186 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Putnam, Earl B., 1926 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Rand, Benjamin, 8 Prescott Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Richardson, William M., 57 Equitable Building, Boston, and 180 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Rindge, Frederick H., Los Angeles, California.

Robinson, Edward, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Massachusetts.

Robinson, Rev. Edward A., Hingham Centre, Massachusetts.

Rose, Hiram H., The Colonial Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Illinois.

Russell, Thomas, 60 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

St. John, Rev. Charles E., 25 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Sargent, Rev. Henry R., Holy Cross House, West Park, New York.

Schofield, William, 19 Gould Avenue, Malden, Massachusetts.

Schwartz, William H., Bangor, Maine.

Shannon, Edward W., 605 Heist Building, Kansas City, Missouri.
Sheafe, William, 153 Milk Street, and 91 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Sheldon, George R., 4 Wall Street, New York, New York.
Shillito, Stewart, The John Shillito Company, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Shute, Henry A., Exeter, New Hampshire.
Sibley, Edwin D., 89 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Simpson, Frank E., 93-95 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Smith, Frederick W., 120 Milk Street, and 164 Bay State Road, Boston, Massachusetts.
Snelling, Rev. Samuel, 62 Stratford Street, West Roxbury, Boston, Massachusetts.
Stetson, Dr. Hayward, 43 Broadway, Bangor, Maine.
Stone, Francis H., New Bedford, Massachusetts.
Story, Marion W., Blind Brook Farm, Portchester, New York.
Swayze, Francis J., 765 High Street, Newark, New Jersey.
Swift, Jireh, New Bedford, Massachusetts.
Sylvester, William H., 35 Bowers Street, Newtonville, Massachusetts.
Tappan, Herbert.
Taussig, Frank W., 2 Scott Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.
Temple, Frederick H., City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts.
Thayer, John A., 340 Main Street, and 10 Hawthorne Street, Worcester, Massachusetts.
Thomas, James E., English High School, Boston, Massachusetts.
Thomas, Washington B., Box 3394, and 20 Gloucester Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Thompson, John J., 2024 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
Thorp, Joseph G., 115 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.
Townsend, John J., Union Club, New York, New York.
Trimble, Walter, 34 Pine Street, New York, New York.
Trull, Larkin T., 56 Fairmount Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.
Tubbs, Alfred S., 2126 Broadway, San Francisco, California.
Twombley, William G., 3 Rue Tilsit, Paris, France.
Underwood, Henry O., 52 Fulton Street, Boston, and Belmont, Massachusetts.
Urquhart, David, 1023 Linden Street, Oakland, California.
Van Rensselaer, William B., 385 State Street, Albany, New York.
Vaughn, John.
Watson, William L., 240 Genesee Street, Utica, New York.
Wells, Rev. Charles L., 1622 Sixth Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.
Whiting, Charles H., New Hoffman House, New York, New York.
Wilton, Rev. Richard T., 44 Leach Street, Salem, Massachusetts.
Wolff, John E., University Museum, Cambridge, Massachusetts.
Wood, Stephen B., Arlington, Massachusetts.
Wright, James A., 9 Broadway, New York, New York.

Adams, Francis W., 10 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Alley, John S., 75 South Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Bailey, Benjamin F., Union, South Carolina.
Bissell, Herbert P., Buffalo, New York.
Blanchard, Dr. Benjamin S., 432 Washington Street, Brookline, Massachusetts.
Bonner, John E.
Brigham, Clifford, 10 Tremont Street, Boston, and Canton Avenue, Hyde Park, Massachusetts.
Brigham, Nat. M., 228 East 53d Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Bryant, Henry W., 2231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Butler, George M., care John Wanamaker, New York, New York.
Carver, Benjamin F., care Benjamin C. Carver, 30 South Street, New York, New York.
Chandler, Frederick E., 131 Tremont Street, and 5 Ashland Street (Dorchester), Boston, Massachusetts.
Cushman, William B., Oxford, Massachusetts.
Dodge, Pickering, United States Engineer Office, 1000 22d Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.
Driver, Charles, 31 Chisholm Park, Roxbury, Boston, Massachusetts.
Dwinell, James H., care James F. Dwinell, Winchester, Massachusetts.
Earle, George H., Jr., 431 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
Edwards, Pierrepont, 407 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey.
Ela, Alfred, 54 Kilby Street, Boston, Massachusetts, and Manchester, New Hampshire.
Everett, Edward, 105 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
French, Harry B., 431 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
Friedlander, T. Cary, Produce Exchange, San Francisco, California.
Gilbert, Joseph T., The Tudor, Boston, Massachusetts.
Grant, Patrick, Somerset Club, Boston, Massachusetts.
Greene, Herbert E., 1019 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Maryland.
Haskell, Edward P., Jr., New Bedford, Massachusetts.
Hayes, Charles E., 68 Chestnut Square, Boston, Massachusetts.
Henderson, Harold G., 953 Madison Avenue, New York, New York.
Hilton, G. Arthur, 85 State Street, Boston, and Milton, Massachusetts.
Hutchinson, Dr. Mahlon, 2021 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.
Keene, F. B., United States Consulate, Geneva, Switzerland.
Kitfield, George A., Manchester, Massachusetts.
Ladd, John F., care B. S. Ladd, 10 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Leister, Anton, Brunswick, Ohio.
LeRoy, Archibald, 58 East 49th Street, New York, New York.
Lewis, Rev. Samuel K.
Lincoln, Charles S., 120 Broadway, New York, New York.
Littlefield, George A., 49 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.
Miles, J. M., Nashawtuc Road, Concord, Massachusetts.

Miller, George S.

Mitchell, Dr. John S., 24 Brook Street, Brookline, Massachusetts.

Morse, Edward L., 8206 Cornell Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Osgood, George, Kensington, New Hampshire.

Page, William E., care Henry A. Gould, Para, Brazil.

Perkins, C. Lawrence, Cotton Exchange Building, and 47 West 11th Street, New York, New York.

Price, William C., Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania.

Robbins, Julian W., 35 Wall Street, New York, New York.

Rogers, William Stanton, 5 Pemberton Square, Boston, Massachusetts.

Sawyer, Dr. Edward A., 402 Elm Street, Gardner, Massachusetts.

Shea, John C., Omaha, Nebraska.

Solger, Parry Kennard.

Stetson, Robert C., Stockbridge, Massachusetts.

Strong, John P., St. Joseph, Missouri.

Taff, John H., 27 School Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Towne, William F.

Ware, Francis M., 1634 Broadway, New York, New York.

Weld, Dr. Charles G., 81 Mason Building, Boston, Massachusetts.

Whitcomb, Merrick, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Willard, John H., P. O. Box 178, Lexington, Massachusetts.